SEA FORCES ARE HIT AS SLASHED BUDGET REACHES PRESIDENT

SHIPS, 2 NAVY YARDS, TRAINING STATION GO

Explosion in Congress Seen as Sequel to Move for Marine Economy.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The Navy budget for 1933, a document which promises to cause an oratorical explosion in the next Congress, was laid before President Hoover yesterday, after having undergone a major operation.

In response to the President's order that the budget be cut approximately $61,000,000, Secretary of the Navy Adams and a group of admirals have recommended these steps:

Closing down of two Navy yards—those at Charleston, S. C., and Boston, Mass. Boston is the home of Secretary Adams.

Newport Station to Go.

Closing down of the Naval Training Station at Newport, R. I.;

Reduction in the Navy and Marine Corps' personnel by a little less than 5,000, together with a small decrease of civilian employes in the field;

Temporary withdrawal from active service of two new 8-inch gun cruisers, approximately six destroyers, approximately the same number of submarines, and the placing of a battleship in the reduced status of a training ship.

The work of modernizing three other battleships will be slowed up, leaving the Navy with only 11 of its 15 battleships ready for action.

Would Halt Hospitals.

It also was reported yesterday, but not confirmed, that the Navy has recommended to President Hoover that work be postponed on the new $8,000,000 Naval Hospital in this city. This project was authorized by Congress after a committee had described the present hospital as a "firetrap."

According to the same unconfirmed report the Navy Department recommended that work be postponed on the proposed new Naval Hospital at Philadelphia.

It is definitely known that the memorandum submitted to the President calls for the closing down of several Navy radio stations.

It was announced last month that only five of the eleven destroyers authorized by Congress would be built at this time.

Evidently the reductions recommended for the Navy budget were satisfactory to President Hoover, for a statement was issued at the White House saying that a "strong and successful" effort had been made to reduce it.

All Departments Must Cut.

President Hoover is determined that not only the Navy, but every department in the Government, shall cut down on expenditures next year, and each has been so notified.

The deficit in the Treasury this year, which must be carried over into the next year, promises to be about $1,500,000,000. Already, it was announced yesterday, it has passed the $500,000,000 mark, and the fiscal year of 1932, which began July 1 last and ends next June 30, still has eight and a half months to go.

In its original form the Navy budget was anything but satisfactory to the President. Then it called for a total appropriation of $401,000,000. The President directed that it be cut approximately $61,000,000—that is, down to $340,000,000. A little later, it became known that the President was angry with those Navy officials who had started a backfire against his reduction demands.

In the meanwhile, Secretary of the Navy Adams, Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of the Bureau of Operations, and other chiefs of bureaus

Four Found Guilty Of Kidnap Charges

Girl Cleared of Complicity in Ransoming of Broker for $50,000.

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Four men were convicted by a jury tonight of kidnaping Charles M. Rosenthal, wealthy young broker, who was held for $50,000 ransom. A woman, whom the State accused of acting as a decoy for the quartet, was acquitted. Those convicted were Nicholas Rutigliano, 39; Marcus Blumenthal, 28; Albert Sileo, and Theodore Adinolfi.

Betty Stewart Green, young octoroon, was acquitted. The presiding judge instructed the jury there was evidence she had been promised $5,000 from the ransom, but her counsel contended she had no "guilty knowledge" in accompanying Rosenthal to an apartment where he was seized. The four were directed to appear October 23 for sentencing.

Counsel for the four asserted that Rosenthal concocted a "diabolical plot" to have himself kidnaped in order to obtain funds he needed.

Since all four men have previous criminal records, they will face possible sentences of 50 years imprisonment under the Baumes law.

In Little More Than 100 Days Figure Has Risen $502,106,600 Greater Than Total for Credits.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal deficit passed the half-billion mark yesterday, while the Navy lopped a sizable sum off the amount it is asking for next year's expenditures.

Subtracting black from red, the Treasury found its debits $502,106,600 greater than the total at the bottom of the credit column. In a little more than 100 days the deficit had mounted to more than half of the $903,000,000 by which the Government's books failed to balance last year.

Nevertheless, Secretary Adams did not appear entirely pleased as he emerged from a late afternoon conference with his commander in chief, at which the new figures were discussed.

A swift walk replaced his normally casual gait across the marble foyer. He looked straight ahead and had no word for newspapermen until he paused at the door. Then, shortly, he said the naval budget had been up for discussion, and drove off.

Since the fiscal year began on July 1 the Government has collected from all sources $629,769,231 and spent $1,131,874,331.

Receipts were $250,000,000 less than for the same period last year and again drew attention to the rapidly decreasing income upon which the Government relies for its operating expenditures.

While the income dropped off expenditures followed the opposite trend and climbed to a total $200,000,000 greater than that for the same length of time a year ago.

Income tax collections continued downward. They totaled $320,260,828, as compared with $561,127,271 for the

LABOR VOTES TO ASK CONGRESS FOR BEER

Business Aid Drive Started; Green and Associates Are Reelected.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Organized labor launched its drive today to improve business conditions, backing American Federation of Labor leaders in an attack all along the line, with salient points ranging from beer to building projects.

President William Green and all other general officers were reelected amid cheers indicating the confidence of the rank and file, and the recommendations of the executive council were almost unanimously adopted.

Cincinnati was chosen for the 1932 convention.

The federation voted to ask the next Congress for 2.75 beer, which Green said might be "the spark that would set the wheels of industry turning."

It had already backed the executive council's extensive play for temporary and permanent relief for unemployment, embodying public building projects, long range planning, maintenance of the United States wage standard, job assurance, prohibition of child labor, shorter work hours, stronger employment agencies, preference for workers with dependents and financial relief from public and private funds.

After bitter debate the convention voted down any form of unemployment insurance, or the so-called "dole" system, but speakers warned "capital and industry" that they must share the burdens of labor willingly "or else pay for them unwillingly." It disapproved "prosperity loans unless they have a definite objective."

Resolutions adopted today opposed cancellation of war debts, pledged

Doomed Chicago Slayer Given Stay of Execution

Chicago, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Thirty minutes before he was to die in the electric chair, Frank Bell, condemned murderer, tonight was granted a stay of execution by County Judge James J. Kelly pending a sanity hearing.

Bell was one of the five men scheduled for electrocution shortly after midnight.

12 DIE, MANY HURT IN ECUADOR REVOLT

Soldiers Fire on Mob When Military Try to Set Up Luis Larrea Alba.

Quito, Ecuador, Oct. 15 (U.P.).—President Luis Larrea Alba attempted to establish a dictatorial government in Ecuador today, but failed, and was forced to resign after an outburst of street fighting in which twelve persons were killed.

Minister of Interior Alfredo Baquerizo Moreno succeeded Larrea Alba as president.

Only one battalion supported Larrea Alba in his efforts to establish a military government. It was responsible for the fighting when it opened fire on a crowd of demonstrators.

Many others were wounded in the street fighting, but later the city began to return to normal, except for large crowds which moved slowly through the streets, seeking news of the latest developments in the governmental overthrow.

The Larrea government was threatened with a revolutionary uprising and failed in its attempts to check the movements by installation of a dictatorship, most of the army leaders rejecting the plan. A new president will be elected on October 20.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Soldiers attempted to set Provisional President Luis Larrea Alba up as dictator at Quito today, bombarded a barracks during which President Larrea took refuge in a loyal barracks with his cabinet early in the fighting, said the Quito dispatches, and then declared the government was in complete control of the situation.

Several officials and officers were arrested, including Manuel Navarro, president of the Chamber of Deputies; Col. Carlos Guerrero, former minister of war, and Maj. Valdivieso, commander of the Bolivar Regiment.

Senor Navarro later was released, said the newspaper El Telegrafo, and appeared on the floor of the chamber, receiving an ovation from the galleries.

Two units of a Quito garrison, because of the uncertainty of the political situation, agreed about midnight last night to ask President Larrea Alba to take "supreme command of power," the dispatches said. They were the battalion known as Carchi and the regiment called Yaguachi.

Yorktown Greets Petain On Eve of Celebration

Gen. Pershing Salutes Wartime Comrade as Battleships in River Boom Out Salute to Distinguished Visitors.

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 16 (A.P.).—The sunlit portals that guard historic Virginia's gateway to the Atlantic—Capes Henry and Charles—saw another gallant Frenchman enter American waters today, this time Henri Petain, marshal of France, who came to help America celebrate with pomp and pageantry the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Yorktown.

The hero of Verdun landed at Old Point Comfort from the cruiser Duquesne and was greeted on behalf of the Government by Gen. John J. Pershing, his associate in the trying days of the World War when America returned the aid of Lafayette and sent a great army overseas.

From another Frenchman of war, the cruiser Suffren, came ashore another group of distinguished foreign guests, descendants of Washington's comrades in the Yorktown siege. Other invited guests from foreign lands came by train and these too counted among them such names as De Chambrun, De Broglie, De Rochambeau, and Von Steuben.

The four-day celebration will start officially on this hallowed ground tomorrow. It will continue through Monday when President Hoover delivers the sesquicentennial address on behalf of the Nation and witnesses the scene portraying the surrender of Lord Cornwallis.

Gen. Pershing, in greeting Marshal Petain at the Old Point Comfort dock, said:

"On behalf of the President of the United States, and on my own behalf, it is my great pleasure to welcome you this day to American soil."

Gen. Petain smiled and, unawed by America's fondness for the microphone, replied in French:

"Landing on American soil, it is indeed for me a great pleasure to be

RESERVE BANK ADVANCES RATE FOR DISCOUNTS

Three-and-Half Per Cent Fixed as Charge to Members.

HOOVER PLAN CUTS NATION'S HOARDING

Money Circulation Increase Is Only $42,000,000; Confidence Grows.

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank retreated further from its cheap credit policy today by advancing its rediscount rate—the rate which member banks pay to borrow at the reserve—by 1 per cent, to a level of 3½ per cent.

This was on top of last week's advance to 2½ from 1½ per cent.

While reserve authorities, in keeping with their fixed policy, decline to comment, it was said in high banking circles that the reserve was at the same time urging member banks freely to extend credit to clients for all needful and legitimate demands, and explaining that the higher rediscount rate should not be interpreted as indicating a desire to restrict credit, nor to curtail member bank borrowing.

Higher Rate Explained.

The following explanations for the higher rate were offered in prominent banking quarters:

(1) The 3½ per cent rate will cause an increase in open market money rates and make it more profitable for banks to loan money for industrial and commercial purposes. It should tend to overcome ultraconservatism in extending credit. While the higher rate makes it more expensive for banks to borrow at the reserve, their reserve borrowings are normally much smaller than their extensions of credit to clients.

(2) The increase to 3½ per cent should have a stimulating effect upon bank stocks, through increasing potential bank earnings, as did last week's increase to 2½ per cent. This should tend to restore public confidence in banks.

(3) While leading bankers have not been averse to the large exports of gold from this country in the past four weeks, they recognize that the outflow has been so rapid as to cause some misgivings and misinterpretations on the part of the public, both at home and abroad, and feel that a higher rate will tend to retard the movement.

In Line With Market.

(4) The increase in the rate brings it in line with more normal open market money conditions. While there has been in recent months a vast surplus of idle funds in this market, tending to depress money rates, this surplus is being or will be reduced by the outflow of gold, the sale of the notes of the new National

Maryland Women Issue Own Booklet

Clubs Repudiate Pamphlet on Bicentennial Bearing Hoover's Picture.

Baltimore, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs has issued its own George Washington bicentennial booklet, after repudiating the one prepared by the national federation in which President Hoover was likened to the Nation's first executive.

The new pamphlet was mailed by the federation today. It was devoted exclusively to Washington, and carried his picture on the front cover in contrast to the national booklet's cover, which had Washington and Hoover pictures side by side. The national federation's pamphlet was repudiated by the Maryland federation as "political in tone."

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 15 (U.P.).—The executive board of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs voted 24 to 3 today to repudiate citizenship pamphlets issued by the national organization in Washington, displaying pictures of President Hoover and George Washington on the cover.

Lindberghs Due In U. S. Tuesday

Will Fly From West Coast to New Jersey; Decline Rail Invitation.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will fly next week to New Jersey from either Victoria, B. C., or Seattle, a radio message from the couple said today.

The Lindberghs are returning home from China because of the death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's father. They are aboard the steamship President Jefferson, due in Victoria and Seattle Tuesday.

A transcontinental railroad office here invited the couple to go East on a fast train.

"Thanks for the invitation, but we are flying East to New Jersey," replied Col. Lindbergh, by radio.

BLOOM ASSAILS CAPITAL BODY'S FETE DIRECTOR

Smoldering Friction Over Bicentennial Breaks Into Open Row.

KRUCKMAN UNFITTED FOR JOB, HE ASSERTS

Differences of Opinion Aired on Celebration's Scope; Meeting Called.

The friction which has been smoldering for months between the National and District George Washington Bicentennial Commission burst into open flame yesterday in a scorching six-page statement made public by Representative Sol Bloom (Democrat), of New York, associate director of the national commission.

Although directed ostensibly at Arnold Kruckman, director of the District commission, whom Mr. Bloom criticized in unrestrained language, the statement is certain to bring to issue for quick settlement the differences over the scope of the bicentennial celebration in the National Capital next year.

The keystone in the Bloom program for the observance of the bicentennial has been a series of celebrations in each State, city and community throughout the land, each independent of the other, but fitting into the general scheme to bring to public mind the virtues of the storied George Washington.

Programs at Variance.

In contrast to this has been a program proposed by the District commission, of which Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, is chairman, calling for a series of events in Washington throughout the year.

These proposed celebrations would be given a national character through the participation of other cities and States and national organizations.

There were something like 186 events outlined in the tentative program drafted by Mr. Kruckman and submitted by the District Commission at a conference with the national commission, which was participated in by Senator Fess, as well as by Representative Bloom. These events included such things as having State days and, incidentally, it is said that 25 States have signified their desire to stage a tribute to George Washington in the National Capital next year. Other celebrations proposed were such things as German-American, Irish-American and other similar days in the course of the year.

Big Celebrations Planned.

Washington's birthday anniversary would be marked by a big celebration, as would the Fourth of July, armistice day, Mother's and other days.

The question was raised that under such a program the District commission would take on a national character, thereby conflicting with the functions of the National Bicentennial Commission.

The dispute has not been settled and negotiations looking toward a close cooperation between the local and national commissions were continuing quietly enough until Mr. Bloom, restive under what he believed to be unfair representation of the national commission, made public his excoriation of Mr. Kruckman yesterday.

Dr. Marvin has called a meeting of the District commission for 4 o'clock Monday afternoon in the District Building, at which time a definite program and a plan for the cooperation of the two commissions is to be determined. Subsequently the District commission plans to ask for a

Edison Believed In His Last Coma

Dr. Howe Says Inventor Will Probably Never Regain Consciousness.

West Orange, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Thomas A. Edison tonight slipped into a state of coma from which Dr. Hubert S. Howe said he probably never would emerge.

Dr. Howe's announcement of the change in the condition of the aged inventor was made from New York after he had been in communication by telephone with the Edison home.

He said the change had occurred about 8:45 p. m. A police escort over a carefully plotted route has been arranged to convey Dr. Howe from New York to the Edison home in the event of an emergency.

"Dr. Howe does not feel that Mr. Edison's condition necessitates his coming out tonight," said a bulletin by Charles Edison at 10 p. m.

Joan Blondell to Wed Hollywood Cameraman

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The engagement of Joan Blondell, featured film player and former New York stage actress, and George Barnes, cameraman, was announced today.

They met while she was acting in "The Greeks Had a Word for 'It,'" which Barnes photographed. Miss Blondell came to Hollywood two years ago. She gained particular attention for her work in "Public Enemy."

DEBUCHI ASKS JAPAN TO RECONSIDER FIGHT UPON U. S. AT GENEVA

League Votes, 13 to 1, To Ask U. S. to Parley

Japan's Delegate Gives Only Dissenting Note; New Hope Felt.

Geneva, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Council of the League of Nations overwhelmed Japanese opposition tonight by voting 13 to 1 to invite the United States to participate in its discussion of measures to bring peace between Japan and China in Manchuria.

The council's action revived hope that the league, with the support of the American Government, would be able to bring about a pacific settlement of the Manchurian controversy.

"We are still loyal members of the league and have been from the first," Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japan's spokesman, told questioners at the end of the long secret session at which the position maintained so persistently by him and the Tokyo government was emphatically overruled.

"We objected on judicial grounds alone to inviting America, a non-member of the league. I have acted in close conformity with my government's instructions and now must inquire again from Tokyo for directions as to my future attitude."

Tomorrow morning the council will hold a public session at which the America Will Accept Bid From League Despite Tokyo Protest.

PEACE IN FAR EAST AMERICA'S SOLE AIM

New Era in Foreign Relations Begun; Confusion Over Notes Ironed Out.

Tokyo, Oct. 16 (Friday) (A.P.).—Ambassador Debuchi cabled today from Washington that he believes it advisable for Japan to reconsider her attitude regarding proposed American participation in the League of Nations' discussions in the Sino-Japanese controversy.

The cabinet met this morning to consider the proposal.

It appears the foreign office has no objection to an American observer acting merely as a reporter in connection with the Kellogg pact to outlaw war, since Tokyo has contended from the beginning that the Manchurian crisis is a question between Japan and China and falls outside the provisions of this treaty.

HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

A new era in the foreign relations of the United States began yesterday when participation of the United States in the League of Nations seemed on the point of consummation.

The delegates of thirteen countries, members of the league, voted to invite the United States to sit with them and consider the best method of bringing peace to China and Japan in their differences over Manchuria.

All indications last night pointed to the very definite possibility of American acceptance.

The wall, built up to protect the United States from the league during the past ten years, was leveled in four days by Secretary of State Stimson. On October 11 the State Department announced:

"The American Government, acting independently through its diplomatic representatives, will endeavor to reinforce what the league does and will make clear that it has a keen interest in the (Manchurian) matter. By this course we avoid any danger of embarrassing the league in the course to which it is now committed."

Exchange of Communications.

This was followed by the exchange of transatlantic telephone communications between the Secretary and his consul general at Geneva, Prentiss Gilbert, former chief of the division of western Europe in the State Department.

Very carefully the conditions of American participation were announced. The United States would "sit in" on the Manchurian conferences if the invitation came from all members of the league.

Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France, the "patron saint" of the league, called a series of informal conferences in his hotel and tried to round up the unanimous consent of the delegates to American participation. The Japanese delegate, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, stood firm and invoked the favorite diplomatic plea for time, of "cabling for instructions." All other delegates indicated their approval of the presence of Mr. Gilbert.

When it became obvious that the Japanese government would not approve the American participation, on purely juridical grounds, it was assured from Tokyo, the revamping of the conditions of American acceptance of the league's invitation became necessary.

To Depend on Nature.

STECK REPORTED GIVEN TARIFF POST

Hoover Said to Have Chosen Democrat From Iowa to Succeed Dennis.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was said yesterday by one of his close advisors to have selected Daniel F. Steck, former Democratic senator from Iowa, for the vacancy on the Tariff Commission.

A Democratic seat on the commission is open as a result of the death of Alfred P. Dennis, of Maryland.

Steck retired from the Senate last March 4, after being defeated for re-election by Representative L. J. Dickinson, a Republican. As a member of the Senate he helped to frame the Smoot-Hawley act which the Tariff Commission now administers. But he voted against it on final passage.

Steck and Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, are bitter long-time political enemies. Steck was seated by the Senate after a protracted contest resulting from the close election between the two men in 1924.

Elected to the Senate two years later, Brookhart was frequently in opposition to Steck. The two were not on speaking terms.

When told yesterday of the authoritative report of Steck's selection Brookhart said:

"No report of that kind has come to me. I'll attend to it when the time comes."

Another vacancy will occur soon on the Tariff Commission. The resignation of Chairman Fletcher will become effective next month. He resigned last spring after one year in the post, but President Hoover prevailed upon him to serve another six months.

Cuba Delays Changing Of Short-Term Loans

(Associated Press.)

There will be no attempt at this time to convert the approximately $100,000,000 of Cuban short-term loans into long-term obligations.

Ambassador Ferrara explained yesterday that while "our interest is to exchange short-term loans into a long-term arrangement, we do not believe this is the appropriate time." The decision was reached after conferences between the ambassador and Viriato Gutierrez, Cuban senator, who came to Washington last week to confer on plans for converting the Cuban obligations.

CALLES IS RETURNED TO POWER IN MEXICO

Ortiz Rubio Appoints Leader Secretary of War to Quell Dissension.

Mexico City, Oct. 15 (U.P.).—Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, invincible military leader of more than a decade of Mexican history, returned to power as secretary of war today to end "intranquillity" against the government of President Pascual Ortiz Rubio.

Calles, former president and recently head of the Bank of Mexico, was appointed leader of the nation's military forces after the cabinet had resigned to permit reorganization of the government by Ortiz Rubio.

"Recently intranquillity has been renewed, especially in the capital, owing to agitation of various kinds in the political realm," said the president in commenting on the frequency of past political crises. "In such circumstances I consider it my duty to propose to my collaborators the necessity of achieving a solution, implying not only momentary settlement but also a formula of a definite character resting on a desire for public welfare."

The Interior Department announced tonight that President Pascual Ortiz Rubio had accepted the resignations of all members of his cabinet, civilians as well as the four generals whose resignations had been accepted earlier today.

The cabinet had resigned earlier as a whole to give the president freedom in forming a new body which could present the strongest possible front. The president immediately named a new cabinet, reappointing all the former officials except the four army leaders, with the addition of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles as minister of war.

Gen. Calles will remain in any new cabinet now formed, it was said tonight. The new body will not be announced for several days, however, it was indicated.

The resigned army leaders are Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, minister of interior; Gen. Joaquin Amaro, minister of war; Gen. Saturinino Cedillo, minister of agriculture, and Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, minister of communications.

It was understood that Foreign Secretary Genaro Estrada and Minister of Finance Montes de Oca would remain in office. Former Ambassador

Fate of Capone to Rest In Hands of Jury Today

Federal Building, Chicago, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The United States Government began today the final step in its three-year battle—the most far-reaching war ever waged against an underworld character—to put Al Capone behind prison bars through conviction on income tax evasion charges.

With a barrage of objections and motions, Capone's legal defense staff rested its case today, leaving in the court record of the scarfaced gangster's trial the testimony of a dozen race horse gamblers who said they won $375,000 from Capone over a five-year period.

Then began the Government's closing address to the jury—an address in which Prosecutor Jacob I. Grossman invited the twelve middle-aged farmers, merchants and tradesmen to go with him on a tour which Government undercover operatives took in tracing the gangster's alleged ill-gotten wealth.

"We'll take a little trip to Florida and there find him living like a be-jeweled Indian prince in a palatial $40,000 home," said the dark, slim, partly bald prosecutor. "We find that he spent thousands of dollars, apparently without even thinking twice.

"We find him receiving thousands of dollars in telegraphic money orders from Chicago. We return to Chicago and visit his headquarters at the Metropole Hotel. Silent men who use assumed names refuse to answer your questions."

Grossman referred to the racing gamblers who, he said, "came a-running to testify when Capone ordered them to do so."

"Let's find out how Capone got all this money," the prosecutor invited

LABORITES SILENCE MACDONALD SPEECH

Stolid Campaigner, However, Carries On Until His Voice Fails Him.

Seaham Harbor, England, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Howled down and booed, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald abandoned an attempt to make a campaign speech at the colliery village of Shotton today.

"Howls have never cowed me and never will," he flung at his interrupters, his voice cracking under the strain.

He strove to answer questions, but his voice was unequal to the task. It had been reduced almost to whisper by several days of campaigning for reelection.

"I answer questions so that when you vote you will vote not like idiots, but like men who have responsibility," he said. "But it is evident that some of you do not want to listen. I am sorry. Good-by."

A voice shrilled a call for three cheers for him. They were given heartily and were followed by cries of "Good old Mac!" and "Stick it, lad, stick it!"

The prime minister will make an airplane tour of England to aid the national campaign. Figures announced tonight indicated that out of more than 600 seats to be filled in the House of Commons there will be contests between Conservatives and Socialists for about 260.

London, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—David Lloyd George, in a radio address today, painted a gloomy picture of conditions in the United States as an argument that Britain should not adopt tariff protection.

Speaking from his armchair at his fireside at Churt, Surrey, he told his Liberal followers that, faced with a choice between the free trade Labor party and the "food taxing" Conservatives, they should vote for Labor.

"The specter of bankruptcy is stalking through that rich country whose streets two years ago seemed paved with gold," Mr. Lloyd George said in his discussion of the United States.

"This year there will be a deficit of £300,000,000 in the Federal budget. Banks are passing into the hands of receivers at the rate of 100 monthly.

"To insure that their natural and accumulated wealth should be enjoyed by their own citizens alone, they build up the highest tariff wall in the world. Yet there are 8,000,000 workers walking the street for work or bread."

Youth Is Arrested As Hit-Run Driver

Roy E. Thomas, 19, of University Park, Md., was charged with leaving after colliding following a triple automobile accident at Thirteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, last night.

According to police, he attempted to get away after the automobile he was driving struck the machine of Ruth Howe, 1314 Fourteenth street northwest, causing it to ram the rear of another machine operated by Edgar C. Kellogg, 3700 Massachusetts avenue. The youth was apprehended at Fourteenth and F streets as theater crowds looked on.

Idle to Be Aided By Pantry Party

Women's City Club Group Will Take Groceries for Admission.

A pantry party, sponsored by the junior section of the Women's City Club, will be held today at the association's clubhouse, 22 Jackson place northwest, in cooperation with local unemployment relief activities. Admission to the party will be payable in groceries.

Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, chairman of the food conservation committee of the District of Columbia, will be the guest of honor. Groceries received will be turned over to the committee for distribution among the needy.

The affair will open at 1 o'clock this afternoon and continue until 10 o'clock tonight. Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Republican national committeewoman, will deliver the principal address at 9 p. m. Her subject will be "Unemployment Relief."

Scenes to Be Staged at Yorktown Pageant

Associated Press Photos

The Yorktown Sesquicentennial celebration, which has been in the process of preparation for weeks, opens today and will run through Monday. The upper picture shows rehearsal for one of the scenes, which brought on a nation-wide controversy several months ago. It shows Lord Cornwallis' surrender. Gen. Lincoln, on horse, accepting the sword from Gen. O'Hara for Gen. Washington, who is at the right. Lower picture shows a general view of Lord Cornwallis' surrender with French troops, on left, and the British marching through the center with the American troops at the right. Upper inset shows Miss Dorothy Hunt, of Phoebus, Va., with the Betsy Ross flag, one of the 50 revolutionary flags at the pageant. The lower inset shows American soldiers firing at the approaching British.

CANNON EXPECTING INDICTMENT PLEA

Feels Certain Rover Will Seek Action; Foresees Wet Issue in 1932.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Atlanta Journal today quotes Bishop James Cannon, jr., as saying he feels certain the district attorney at Washington will seek an indictment against him for his activities in the 1928 presidential campaign.

The bishop is in Atlanta for the meeting of the college of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South and was prepared to deliver an address on prohibition at the city auditorium tonight.

"I feel certain an indictment will be asked against me," he said in an interview. "The Roman Catholic district attorney from the beginning has failed to let me appear before the grand jury and has sidetracked witnesses who would have given testimony in my behalf."

The District of Columbia grand jury has been considering whether Cannon violated the corrupt practices act in connection with the anti-Smith campaign in Virginia in 1928 when he refused to testify before the Senate campaign funds investigating committee, of which Senator Nye is chairman.

"I have been harassed considerably," Bishop Cannon was quoted as saying. "I have been the object of suits and have had to spend money in that connection. I have been embarrassed financially and my health has been broken, but I am thankful that my health is improving now."

He said that unless the Democratic party nominates a dry candidate, the prohibition question will be a major issue in the 1932 campaign.

Grand Jury Report Due.

(Associated Press.)

The grand jury that investigated the political activities of Bishop James Cannon, jr., today will have an opportunity to report its findings. It is a regular indictment day of the District of Columbia Supreme Court. The jury must advise this court whether it found reasonable evidence of violation of the Federal corrupt practices law by the Southern Methodist churchman.

PERSHING GREETS MARSHALL PETAIN

welcomed in the name of the American Government by you, dear general. In turn, I convey to the American Government and to the American people the salute of France."

Gen. Petain could not wait to step from the boat's launch before saluting the smiling Pershing, already standing at attention. There is a special bond of friendship between these two World War figures.

It was Gen. Petain who sympathized with the A. E. F. commander on his unrelenting stand for a separate American army. Gen. Pershing has never forgotten this, and he has had several occasions in France since to reminisce with the Verdun hero.

Then, too, Pershing and Petain are the only survivors of the highest military command on the western front. Haig, French, Foch and Joffre—all have passed on.

With Gen. Pershing at the dock to welcome the French delegation were Gov. Pollard of Virginia, Senator Swanson, of this State, chairman of the United States Yorktown Sesquicentennial Commission; Representative Crisp, of Georgia, vice chairman; State War and Navy officials, Representative Bland, of Virginia, secretary to the Yorktown commission, and other members of Congress.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the World War President, was among hundreds who looked down on the scene from a balcony at the Chamberlin Hotel, on the water front.

Parley Votes to Back Catholic U. Fund Drive

Providence, R. I., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—An Eastern diocesan conference of the Roman Catholic Church decided here today to support a campaign to build up a $20,000,000 endowment fund for Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., by 1940.

The conference also voted to support a plan whereby $1,000,000 to be applied against the university's present indebtedness would be raised. This plan calls for direct appeal to a select group of lay members of various ecclesiastical areas.

G.G. DEWEY BEGINS NEW WILL ATTACK

Stepson's Lawyers File Suit Against Testament of Admiral.

A second attack was launched yesterday by George Goodwin Dewey, stepson of Mrs. Mildred McLean Dewey, and only son of the late Admiral George Dewey, on the last two of the three wills left by Mrs. Dewey. Mr. Dewey had previously filed a protest against the admission to probate of the last will.

The will which he now seeks to discredit is that dated April 22, 1925, while the last will, dated May 2, 1925, had previously been the subject of a legal protest by the stepson. Mr. Dewey is seeking to establish the first of Mrs. Dewey's wills, that dated October 25, 1923, in which he is named as one of the principal beneficiaries of the huge estate which amounts to nearly $1,000,000.

The will of April 22, 1925, directs that the estate be divided according to the laws of descent and distribution of the District laws. That would make Edward B. McLean, a nephew, and Frederick H. Bugher, a grand nephew, the sole heirs. The third will, that of May 2, 1925, gives a life estate to Mrs. Bugher and one-third of the remainder to her husband. The balance, under the law, would go one-half to Mr. McLean and one-half to Bugher.

A hearing on the first caveat was scheduled for yesterday, but was postponed until April 4, at which time attorneys representing Mr. Dewey will be here. Their inability to attend yesterday because of other business occasioned the postponement.

Wotta Night!—When Hour Work Day Plan Is Started

By JOHN J. DALY

Inauguration of the six-hour day to make room for more workers is the innovation in one of the large industrial plants. It is the forerunner of the five, and the four, and the three hour day, and eventually of the one-hour day for work, for, as the world grows older, man finds he needs more time in which to enjoy himself, what with the speeding up of human activities.

The Greeks began their day at sunset, the Romans at midnight, the Babylonians at sunrise and the ancient Umbrians—who must have been actors and journalists—at noon. In whatever age, the day—up until now—was divided into three equal parts, all neatly labeled as eight hours for work, eight hours for play and eight hours for sleep.

All well and good for the man whose workshop, playground and sleeping quarters were within a reasonable radius, but with the growth of great cities and the zoning system that throws residential sections miles away from the industrial and business centers, transportation started to eat in on time, and the poor commuters, wasting precious hours on railroads and bus lines, now lose moments that might be spent on the golf courses or in feather beds. This transportation problem had to be taken care of in some way.

With the coming of modern inventions, where the machine does the work of many men, long hours of work became unnecessary; and so the hours for sleep and play were lengthened. As sleep was found to be sort of time waster, the wise men cut down on sleep and devoted the greater portion of their spare time to play. It has come about that if a man can not play around fourteen or fifteen hours a day he is looked upon as a social outcast. Golf, cocktail parties, the races, baseball and football, and such innocent amusements have taken the place of good, honest endeavor—which is one of the reasons, of course, for the unemployment problem. It will all be rectified in time, when there will be no need for employment at all; the machines doing it all, even thinking.

Cowper, in a fantastic moment, tried to imagine himself existing in an era 1,000 years before Noah was born, or even dreamed of; and the result of that excursion into the realm of fancy was anything but edifying. Men lived to be a thousand years of age and still had no time in which to enjoy themselves, working from the time they got up until the time they went to bed—from birth to death. Throw the imagination the other way, a thousand years into the future, and the picture is much prettier. The five-minute day will then be in vogue—a man working just so long as it takes to start the machine doing his daily stint.

The only fly in the ointment is the small number of days allotted to man. They don't give him enough, and while every man has his day, he never has quite enough days to do the things he would like to do. Something ought to be done about this. It's like the Dickens character:

"Old Joe, sir, was a bit of a favorite once—but he has had his day."

So it matters little whether it's the five-hour day or the five-minute day, since days will come and days must go, with eternity going on forever.

If the six-hour day will give more people more work, ostensibly the four-hour day will put just that much more of the populace at the work bench, so that by the time the day is whittled down to a one-hour working basis, the old earth ought to be a concentrated beehive—if only for the hour.

Then, what nights?

PRESIDENT RECEIVES FULL BONUS DEMAND

Veterans of Foreign Wars Commander Delivers Signed Petition.

(Associated Press.)

Despite President Hoover's emphatic and repeated opposition to a cash bonus, the Veterans of Foreign Wars yesterday laid upon his desk a new demand for immediate payment in full.

The President received it in silence. With only a hasty glance at the 2,000-word petition, embodying the organization's complete legislative program, Mr. Hoover stepped outside his office and posed, smiling, for the photograph with the petition-bearer.

He indicated to Darold D. Decoe, of Sacramento, Calif., newly elected commander in chief of the veterans' organization, that he would give consideration to the lengthy document later.

The President's conclusion, however, was considered foregone. It was but little more than three weeks ago that he sped to Detroit to carry his anticash bonus fight successfully to the floor of the American Legion convention.

The program brought to the White House yesterday by DeCoe spoke not alone of "immediate cash payments of adjusted compensation certificates," but also of a need for World War widow and orphan pensions and an equalization of the pensions resulting from all wars.

The Foreign War Veterans chief said a move already was under way to obtain the signatures of 10,000,000 citizens as evidence of public sentiment in favor of cash payments.

It was his contention that the payments he advocated would revivify purchasing power and flow into every community. He quoted the Veterans' Administration as saying that 99 per cent of the veterans who had borrowed up to the allowed 50 per cent on the value of their certificates had used these funds for practical purposes.

President Hoover was firmly opposed to granting veterans powers to borrow up to this 50 per cent limit. He vetoed a bill to this end, but Congress passed it over his disapproval.

The guests will be welcomed at the Holy Family Day Nursery by Mother Mary Lourds and members of her board; at the Children's Country Home by Miss Florence G. RASKOB GIVES LAST $100,000 TO PARTY

"That's All There Is," Donor Tells Democrats; Party Owes Him $295,250.

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—While political interest was centered today in the disagreement between former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt over the latter's reforestation program, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, put another $100,000 in the party's coffers.

Latest available figures show the Democratic organization owes Raskob $295,250 for loans.

The $100,000 contribution, however, was an outright gift. Just one string was attached to it.

"I am glad to contribute $100,000 to the victory fund," Raskob wrote to John W. Davis, general chairman of the drive for funds, "conditioned on $1,500,000 being raised."

The goal for the drive already had been set at $1,500,000. Five hundred Democratic supporters representing all States are on the general committee sponsoring the campaign.

Raskob made it clear in a letter to Davis that the Democrats could expect no more money from him, and that he felt he had done his duty to the party.

In announcing the gift, Davis, who was the Democratic candidate for President in 1924, said:

"Mr. Raskob's gift is a challenge to every friend of the party to become a party stockholder for 1932."

The disagreement between Smith, who ran for President in 1928, and Gov. Roosevelt, who is being boomed for the 1932 presidential nomination, was brought into the open by Smith himself at a Tammany rally last night.

State Department Meddling Charged

Policy Weak-Kneed, Says Fish in Pointing Out Sending of Notes.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The State Department was charged with meddling and bungling into foreign disputes today by Representative Hamilton Fish, jr. (Republican), New York.

Speaking at the Americanization meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars here on efforts of Communists to overthrow the Government, Fish said the policy of the State Department was weak-kneed.

"It is a useless gesture for Secretary Stimson to send notes to the League of Nations or the Japanese government, protesting the encroachment of the Japanese armed forces in Manchuria, because no foreign government will take our State Department seriously since our withdrawal to the coast ports in Nicaragua, after Sandino, backed by the Communists, butchered nine American citizens less than a year ago. This note-sending policy is humiliating and if continued will make the United States the laughing stock of the world."

When Washington Was Younger—No. 76

Dr. J. W. Bischoff, blind organist, famous in Capital church history, is at the organ. His wife, the former Elsie Bond, is in the choir. This photo was presented to the church in 1915 by Mrs. Bischoff on the occasion of its fiftieth anniversary.

ARKANSAS SENATE INDORSES ROBINSON

House Resolution to Favor Roosevelt for Nominee Not Acted Upon.

Little Rock, Ark., October 15 (A.P.). The Arkansas Senate today adopted a resolution, commending United States Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, "to the national Democracy as a seasoned statesman to lead the militant hosts of Democracy to victory in 1932."

The lower house of the Legislature last week adopted a concurrent resolution, which has not been acted upon in the Senate, indorsing Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

Only one vote was cast against the Robinson resolution in the Senate, that of Senator John M. Quarles, of Helena.

Senator Quarles took exception to a reference in the resolution to Senator Robinson's "spotless private and public life." He said the Democratic leader in the United States Senate represents, as a lawyer, several large corporations and that "a man can not serve two masters."

Senator Quarles also criticized Senator Robinson's action in defending A. B. Banks, head of a chain of Arkansas banks which collapsed last year, who recently was sentenced to one year in prison for accepting deposits in an insolvent bank.

"The very idea of Robinson defending a man who has cost the State millions," Senator Quarles said.

Other senators were quick to defend Robinson, Senator Mitchell declaring a lawyer "has a right to represent any one he wants to." Mitchell praised Robinson's record and characterized him as Arkansas' leading citizen.

SEA FORCES ARE HIT IN SLASHED BUDGET

have gone about the task of pruning $61,000,000 from the sum originally requested.

Secretary Adams was closeted with the President for a considerable period yesterday. When he left the White House he seemed in a melancholy mood.

A little later, the White House gave out the following statement:

"Secretary Adams, Admiral Pratt, and the heads of naval bureaus have made a strong and successful effort to bring about reductions in the naval budget without injuring the efficiency of the Navy.

"Details will be worked out by Col. Roop and the budget officer of the Navy."

Col. J. Clawson Roop is director of the Bureau of the Budget and Rear Admiral Ridley McLean is the budget officer of the Navy.

Since he asked the Navy to cut its budget, President Hoover has been both condemned and acclaimed. Strong Navy advocates have accused him of scuttling the Navy, and Senator Hale (Republican), Maine, and Representative Britten (Republican), Illinois, respectively chairmen of the Senate and House naval committees, have announced their intention to offer a construction bill to offset the President's recommendations.

Borah Supports Stand.

On the other hand, Senator Borah (Republican), of Idaho, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, and Representative Wood (Republican), of Indiana, chairman of the House appropriations committee, have lauded the President's stand and offered to uphold him.

Chairman Wood argues that there is no need for building ships now, for the reason that there is no war in sight. Senator Borah thinks it would contribute to the success of the Geneva arms reduction conference next February if the United States began to trim its Navy budget in advance.

Firmness Seen as Need.

Senator Hale and Representative Britten argue that the best way for the United States to get the other nations to disarm is to show those other nations that this one has every intention of maintaining a strong Navy unless there is some agreement on all-around reduction.

Not only the proponents of an adequate Navy, but those who represent stations that are to be closed, will fight the Navy bill when it comes up in Congress.

In fact, that fight already has started. Senator Metcalf (Republican), of Rhode Island, came out the other day with a protest against the threatened closing of the Newport Naval Training Station. Statesmen whose constituents might be affected by the closing of the Boston and Charleston Navy Yards are expected to do likewise.

GANGSTER DEFENSE EVIDENCE IS IN the jury. "We learn he told Florida authorities who were trying to run him out of the State that he was a gambler, a realtor, a cleaner and presser and a dog race track owner.

"He told questioners in Florida that he was a business associate of Jack Guzik, or that Guzik was his 'financial secretary.' On his income of 'secretary' Guzik has been convicted of income tax fraud. What about the income of his boss, Capone?"

Grossman reviewed the Government's evidence concerning Capone's expenditures—his purchase of $135 suits by the half dozen, $30 shirts by the dozen, $275 bejeweled belt buckles by the score for friends. He said there was no doubt that Capone owned the wide-open gambling houses of suburban Cicero which figured so prominently in the evidence.

The Government sought to prove that the defense admitted loss of the case when the gamblers told of Capone's extensive race betting, and his invariable losses.

The possibility of sending the case to the jury by tomorrow night arose when, at the defense suggestion, Judge James H. Wilkerson ordered tomorrow's session to start a half hour earlier than usual to enable both defense attorneys to speak during the day. U. S. District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson said the Government's last speech would not be long and that he considered it "very likely" the trial would end tomorrow.

Man Dives Head First In Fall Over Door-Mat

Stumbling over the door mat as he was leaving the house in which he had been visiting last night, Andrew Randle fell five feet to the pavement, head first. He was in serious condition at Emergency Hospital early today, unconscious and with a fracture of the skull.

Randle, who is 23 and lives at 2140 N street northwest, was departing from friends at 1121 Twelfth street northwest when the accident occurred.

RITCHIE DENOUNCES 'TOM-TOM BEATERS'

Science and Democracy Are Seen Forces of Modern Times by Governor.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Terming the American political system the product of centuries of social and economic evolution, drawing its strength from sources "too deep in the economic experience of mankind to make its downfall either desirous or possible," Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland said today that governmental activities and regulations must yield to economic wisdom, and the wisdom of economists must not be neglected.

"The day for meeting a crisis by beating the political tom-toms has passed," he said. "The scientific and trained mind of the Nation must be drafted and must be listened to."

The governor spoke at founders' day exercises at Carnegie Institute. He said that for the moment "the entire world seems not only to be sick but to be a bedlam; one might think almost that the ancient virtues of the race—hope, faith, courage, vision and common sense—have suddenly vanished."

It is for politics and economics to "pull together for the common good and bring order out of the existing chaos which in any event has no earthly right to exist in this era of intellectual enlightment and material plenty," he stated.

Concerning the Nation's foreign policy, he said foreign debts, "in a very practical sense," can not be canceled, because if Europe does not pay them, the American people must. He added, however, that it is axiomatic that present loss is sometime ultimate gain, and that "it may be to our advantage in the long run to assume this burden." Future national interest should be the guide, he said.

same period last year. All internal revenue receipts slumped, totaling $481,717,805, as compared with $738,621,055 a year ago.

The Government's fiscal experts are still engaged in an extensive study of means to provide the Government with increased income. Whether President Hoover will recommend a tax increase to Congress may depend upon this survey. To give the experts all possible time for their study, the Treasury announced yesterday its report to the President will not be made until after November 1, about a month before Congress meets.

The action of Secretary Mellon and Undersecretary Mills last spring in calling to the attention of the Nation the present unsatisfactory returns from the income tax system was accentuated by the receipts from that source in the first part of the fiscal year.

The Treasury must prepare for retiring $990,000,000 of maturing securities in December, and about $700,000,000 in March.

It was expected that in December the Government would resort to a composite issue of long and short term securities in an amount yet to be determined.

6 SHOT, 30 JAILED IN BERLIN RED RIOT

Close Fight for Reichstag Starts; Bruening Seen as Victorious.

Berlin, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Communist demonstrations were staged in various parts of Berlin tonight on the eve of the critical Reichstag session at which Chancellor Heinrich Bruening's new government will meet its first test since the legislature was reconvened Tuesday.

One policeman and five Communists received gunshot wounds during the demonstrations and 30 persons were arrested. Late tonight order was restored.

The attempt by Communists and by the United National Socialists (Nazis) and Nationalists to bring about the downfall of the government was expected to fail. Chancellor Bruening counted on the support of the middle parties to tide him over.

The opposition continued its assault on the government in the Reichstag and out. Edward Dingeldey, head of the People's party, delivered a vigorous attack in the legislature and Adolf Hitler, leader of the Nazis but not a member of the Reichstag, pressed his anti-Bruening campaign in his newspaper.

The government must obtain the supoprt of 289 members. The Social Democrats, Centrists and Bavarians are expected to provide 243 of these votes and Chancellor Bruening is counting on minor parties with a total of 67 members to supply the additional 46.

The bulwark of the opposition is the Nazi block of 107 votes, to which will be added the 40 Nationalists. The Communist opposition numbers 78.

Will Rogers will speak from California. John Philip Sousa will lead the Marine Band in selections from Fortress Monroe, and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, with Leopold Stokowski conducting, will play. Vocal solos will be given by Mme. Lily Pons and Mme. Sophie Breslau, from New York, and Lawrence Tibbett, from San Francisco.

Dr. Thomas Evans Hurt While Riding

Capital Physician Taken to Hospital When Horse Runs Into Post.

Dr. Thomas Evans, well konwn physician of 1347 L street northwest, was seriously injured yesterday when his horse threw him in Rock Creek Park. He suffered a possible fracture of the pelvis. Dr. Evans is in Emergency Hospital.

The physician was riding with Miss Irene Bennett, 6900 Connecticut avenue, when his mount sideswiped a post near Pierce's mill and nearly caused Miss Bennett to be unseated. Dr. Evans' body and leg struck the post and he was thrown from the saddle.

"I was ahead of Miss Bennett," he said, "and we were both riding at a fast gallop, when I saw a curve in the path ahead where it narrowed to a dangerous width. I was afraid that if I slowed down both Miss Bennett and myself would be caught in a narrow section of the path and there would be an accident. I tried to make my horse take the right turn, but she plunged ahead and struck a post, throwing me to the ground."

SPAIN COMPLETES RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

"Public Morality" Is Only Limit Placed Upon Freedom of Worship.

Madrid, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Spain, its state separated from the Catholic Church, completed the religious section of its new constitution today by guaranteeing religious freedom within the limits of public morality.

With President Manuel Azana at the helm of the new government, the assembly approved article 25 of the constitution, which guarantees "liberty of conscience and the right to practice any religion compatible with public morals."

Then the assembly, as a matter of form, voted permission for the introduction of article 41, which would permit legalized divorce in Spain, into the constitution and began consideration of amendments which might alter its effect.

Some Remain Away.

Catholic and agrarian members remained away from the assembly today as a protest against adoption of the articles separating the church and state, and the constitutional drafting commission said it intended to counsel moderate and diplomatic enforcement of the constitution, thus preserving neutrality on the part of the state, while public opinion was divided.

Niceto Alcala Zamora, who resigned as president with his cabinet yesterday in protest against antichurch legislation, and Miguel Maura, former minister of the interior, occupied seats in the assembly as ordinary deputies, while President Azana sat on the bench reserved for the government.

President Azana took office today, receiving his keys and a hearty embrace from Senor Alcala Zamora, who wished his former minister of war the best of luck.

Papal Paper Critical.

Vatican City, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Osservatore Romano, the Vatican City newspaper, asserts in an editorial tonight that by separating church and state the Spanish republic has jeopardized its own future.

Referring to the six-month-old government as an "unripe fruit," the editorial asserted that although separation of church and state had been proclaimed in the name of liberty, the action was in fact "oppression, violence and persecution."

The Italian attitude is expressed in an editorial in Loavoro Fascista, which asserts old monarchical Spain is hardly ready for the extremes of democracy.

"The republican mask does not conceal the soul of the Spanish people who elect Socialists, but crowd the church," said this newspaper.

LABOR VOTES TO ASK CONGRESS FOR BEER

support to bituminous coal miners in their wage fight, affirmed it was nonpartisan in politics but would scrutinize candidates to ascertain their attitude toward labor, and referred proposed probe of "intolerable conditions" among Hoover Dam workers to the executive council.

Leaders in the "beer group" and in the resolutions committee, made it clear they believed mild beer was "reasonably sure of accomplishment" and would "promote the cause of true temperance." An attempt to have the A. F. of L. seek repeal of the eighteenth amendment was overwhelmingly defeated.

Virtually the entire program of the executive committee, centering around plans for relieving unemployment and bettering working conditions, was approved harmoniously.

Other resolutions adopted today favored exclusion of all immigrants but Canadians, entry of the United States into peace deliberations at Geneva, readjustment of patent laws, independence for the Philippine Islands, and denounced the "yellow dog" contract.

The convention of the American Federation of Labor adjourned tonight.

U. S. Prohibition Law Approved by Gandhi

Boston, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Massachusetts Antisaloon League today made public a letter it said it had received from Mahatma Gandhi approving the prohibition policy in the United States. The letter is to be read tomorrow at a meeting of temperance and prohibition leaders here.

Gandhi's letter, written in London, said: "It was a brave step, worthy of America, to have undertaken the most difficult task for her of total prohibition. It would be a shame and a rude shock to reformers throughout the world if for any cause America abandoned the policy and returned to the drink evil."

HOOVER SEES TRADE CONDITIONS BETTER

Conferees Tell President Credit Corporation Aids Confidence.

(Associated Press.)

Search for further means of invigorating business continued yesterday in the administration amid an atmosphere of encouragement.

Once again President Hoover devoted a large part of his day to conferences with men on whom he relies for help in economic matters.

One was Undersecretary Mills, of the Treasury. He carried with him into the executive offices reports attributing to the newly formed National Credit Corporation an increasing confidence among trading executives.

The slender and smiling Secretary of Commerce, Robert P. Lamont, was another presidential conferee. From every corner of the Nation and the world comes to him the latest information on business trends.

A detailed study has been conducted at the Treasury of various plans for giving a lift to railroad bonds, but no completely satisfactory method has been found. It was said on high authority yesterday no action or announcement is imminent.

In common with the many other quarters interested, the administration is watching for the Interstate Commerce Commission verdict on the petition for a 15 per cent freight-rate increase. Whatever the decision, efforts will be made to get the most out of it in the interest of business stability.

The fundamental forces operating in economics, their shifts and turns from month to month and year to year, all have their places in the huge problem. One of the agencies at work is the Hoover committee on recent economic changes, whose chairman, A. W. Shaw, of Chicago, was another White House visitor yesterday.

The President and Shaw went over in some detail the various questions on current conditions that they considered warranting notice. Shaw disclosed this, but would talk no further.

An optimistic note was sounded in reports to the President's organization on unemployment relief from a majority of 41 cities questioned as to business conditions.

The reports said the steel trade was improving in Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Chicago and Birmingham. Chicago reported the business outlook had become somewhat brighter, while New York State said employment increased 3 per cent and pay rolls 2 per cent in September, as compared with the previous month.

Philadelphia merchants were said to be looking forward to a steady volume of trade at a slightly higher level for the next few months. Reports from Atlanta, Mobile, Chattanooga, Nashville, Charlotte, Charleston were more favorable than they had been.

Air Line's Passengers Are Transported Free

(Associated Press.)

To keep from violating a Virginia law, the Ludington Lines yesterday flew all passengers on the Washington - Norfolk route free of charge.

Thirty-three persons took trips for nothing.

The new service was announced to start yesterday, but the airport at Norfolk had not been licensed by the State Corporation Commission. Officials of the air line then decided to operate their planes free and two trips each way were made on that basis.

Today the announced fares will be charged. The airport yesterday afternoon was given a license to operate for transport service. A hitch in granting the license occurred when the Navy registered objections to the new field because of its proximity to the Hampton Roads Naval Air Station.

Banks in St. Louis Form Credit Group

200 Financiers at Meeting Pledge Their Pro Rata Share of Capital.

St. Louis, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Association of the National Credit Corporation, $500,000,000 agency recently proposed by President Hoover, was organized at a meeting here today attended by approximately 200 bankers from various parts of the Eighth Federal Reserve District, including Louisville, Memphis, and Little Rock. The bankers unanimously indorsed the plan and pledged their pro rata share of the capital.

Similar associations will be organized at the Reserve branch cities of Memphis, Little Rock, and Louisville.

Guatemala, Honduras To Arbitrate Dispute

(United Press.)

Guatemala and Honduras, acting through their envoys here, yesterday ratified an agreement to arbitrate their boundary dispute. The ceremony took place at the State Department in the presence of Assistant Secretary Francis White and Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union.

The arbitration agreement, which was signed July 16, 1931, was negotiated and signed under the good offices of the United States. Arbitration of the boundary dispute, under the agreement, is to begin here shortly before Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

2 OHIO BANKS CLOSE; 3 OTHERS TO MERGE

Youngstown Institutions Had $45,400,000 Resources; Several States Hit.

Youngstown, Ohio, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—A long-established banking setup was overthrown here today with the closing of two banks, temporary suspension of another and merging of three national banks.

While no statements were forthcoming tonight from directors of the closed institutions—the City Trust & Savings and the Dollar Savings & Trust—optimism was felt in reliable quarters that depositors would be paid off in full.

The two banks had resources of approximately $45,400,000 as of the September 29 statement. Closing was attributed by directors to continued withdrawals.

Simultaneously with word of the closing came the announcement that the First National, the Mahoning National and the Commercial National Banks would merge into one national bank. Resources of the combined institutions will equal approximately $45,700,000.

Bank Temporarily Suspends.

The First National Bank, which was operated under joint management with the Dollar, was suspended temporarily pending consummation of the merger arrangements. The two banks were the city's largest institutions, the first declaring resources of $23,605,000 and the Dollar $26,202,000.

The Mahoning and Commercial both remained open today, and after close of business hours officials reported that deposits equaled withdrawals as nearly as could be determined. Both banks announced they would pay depositors upon demand.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Commercial Trust Co. was taken over today by the State banking department. In its last statement, the bank listed total resources of $1,606,000 and deposits of $686,000.

Tarentum, Pa., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Tarentum Savings & Trust Co. was closed today. Examiner John D. Swigart said the bank had deposits of about $1,800,000 and resources of $2,300,000.

West Newton, Pa., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Farmers and Merchants Bank of West Newton was placed in the hands of the State banking department today. Examiner John D. Swigart said deposits totaled about $900,000 and resources were approximately $1,400,000.

Shinnston, W. Va., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Farmers Bank of Shinnston did not open for business today. A statement issued September 29 said the bank had deposits of $600,000 and resources of $800,000.

South Carolina Hit.

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Three banks in southwestern South Carolina, one with nine branches, failed to open their doors today, Albert S. Fant, State bank examiner, announced.

The banks were the Bank of Western Carolina, of Aiken, with its nine branches in as many communities; the Bank of Williston and the Bank of Graniteville. Assets of the Western Carolina Bank and its branches were placed at $3,000,000, the Bank of Williston at $350,000 and the Bank of Graniteville at $150,000.

St. Louis, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Two Missouri national banks, the First National Bank of Brunswick, near Moberly, and the First National Bank of Versailles, were closed today by order of their boards of directors and turned over to the national bank examiner with headquarters here.

Jane Lew, W. Va., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Union Bank of Jane Lew was closed by the directors yesterday and will be turned over to the State department of banking for liquidation. The bank reported deposits of $343,000 and resources of $448,270.22 last September 29.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The commissioner of banking and insurance announced today the Toms River Trust Co. and the Wildwood Trust & Title Co. had been taken over by his department.

$170,090,130 ASKED TO HELP DESTITUTE

Community Chest Reports Requirements for Relief in 314 Cities.

Approximately $170,090,130 is needed immediately for relief in 314 cities representing a combined population of 46,685,595 in 45 States, Bart Andrews, representative of the Association of Community Chests, declared yesterday.

The 314 cities are part of 518 urban centers reporting their primary needs in a survey the association has conducted since last June, with a view to forecasting the money-raising possibilities in these areas. The cities which have not supplied estimates are mostly small, with a combined population of 7,000,000, Mr. Andrews said.

The total estimate of the cities replying is to be met from local tax resources and voluntary contributions. Of this sum, $27,420,000 is required for "work" relief in the creation of local employment, and $142,670,130 for "home" relief, or alleviation of actual distress among the destitute, Mr. Andrews said.

The final report of the association's survey was submitted to Walter S. Gifford, chairman of President Hoover's committee on unemployment relief, a few days ago.

Only 177 of the 314 cities reported favorable prospects for raising their quota. The association made no estimates of primary relief needs in rural districts, as the Community Chest organization operates only in heavily populated centers; State associations take care of agrarian areas.

Mr. Andrews said the estimate was for relief in the narrowest sense of the term. It represents primary needs over and above the requirements of hospitals and other public health agencies, and funds will be used only for the purchase of dire necessities, such as food, fuel, rent and clothing.

He said the Association of Community Chests would do everything in its power to cooperate with civic and State relief agencies in raising the funds.

"We are very glad to have the report of the Association of Community Chests," Mr. Gifford said yesterday. "We realize that the figures are only estimates and cover only part of the country and part of the total problem, but they are reassuring. They tend to confirm the view of the President's Organization on Unemployment Relief that the burden arising from unemployment this winter can and will be met whole-heartedly."

CALLES IS RETURNED TO POWER IN MEXICO

to Washington Manuel Tellez was believed likely to become secretary of interior, the chief cabinet post.

The return of Calles to a position of power was believed certain to strengthen the government against any possible threats, such as were indicated in the president's statement. Calles was the leader of the revolutionary (government) party in its great drive for power, heading a revolution which made him the outstanding figure of Mexico. He maintained his domination as president, and later returned to aid former President Emilio Portes Gil by suppressing the 1929 revolution with a remarkable display of military power.

A few months ago, when Mexico faced serious financial difficulties, Calles was called in as president of the National Bank, and the "Calles law," providing a silver basis for stabilization of currency, was put into effect.

New York, Oct. 15 (U.P.).—The reorganization of the Mexican government was believed in responsible quarters today to be due to internal maneuverings within the national revolutionary party, which prompted President Ortiz Rubio to concentrate the greatest possible strength in the cabinet.

SECRETLY WED

MARY ASTOR,

Star's Marriage Is Probed at Trial

Defense Says Mary Astor Hid Wedding to Seek Crash Damages.

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Mary Astor, screen actress and widow of Kenneth Hawks, film director, who, it was learned today, married Dr. Franklyn Thorpe, Hollywood physician, secretly in Yuma, Ariz., last June, made a brief appearance on the witness stand today in the $775,000 damage suits resulting from an air crash that killed Hawks and nine others.

She was subjected to cross-examination on her alleged concealment of her second marriage. She is one of the eight plaintiffs seeking $775,000 damages from owners of two airplanes that collided in midair over Palos Verdes eighteen months ago during the filming of a picture.

"Did you not say you had not remarried since Hawks' death?" she was asked. "No, I did not say I was not married. Instead of saying 'no' I said 'oh' and was not allowed to finish," Miss Astor said.

$300,000,000 BEER TAX SEEN FOR U.S.

Britten Says Treasury Data Indicates This Sum for Year, if Legalized.

(United Press.)

Representative Fred A. Britten, Chicago Republican, said yesterday he had been informed that the Treasury Department has completed a study showing that a tax of $10 a barrel on legalized beer would bring in Federal revenues of $300,000,000 the first year.

Reports have been current for some time that President Hoover had asked the Treasury to study the revenue-producing possibilities of beer. Both the White House and the Treasury, however, have denied the reports. These denials were repeated yesterday after Mr. Britten issued his statement.

According to Mr. Britten's information, the Treasury estimates that if beer were legalized, 30,000,000 barrels would be consumed the first year. This would be about a quarter of a barrel for each person in the United States, including women and children. In the last year before prohibition, about 39,000,000 barrels of beer were consumed, according to Treasury figures for 1919. The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment estimates the present consumption of illicit beer at around 19,000,000 barrels a year.

Mr. Britten's statement was occasioned by reports that President Hoover Wednesday took issue with figures submitted to him in a resolution from the Chicago City Council urging restoration of beer. Mr. Britten said he understood the data in the Chicago resolution dealt only with supposed economic benefits to farmers and the unemployed.

Mr. Britten asserted "every adult who is not an intolerant or a bigot" admits prohibition is a failure.

RESERVE BANK BOOSTS RATE ON MEMBERS' BORROWING

Credit Corporation to help banks, and prospective Government borrowing to meet the widening Treasury deficit, to make loans to railroads, or for other constructive purposes under consideration.

(5) The cheap money policy, through which the rate was reduced to 1½ per cent last June, the lowest in the history of the reserve system, has failed to increase commercial borrowing or to stimulate trade, and has had some adverse effects, such as reducing the interest which banks could pay on deposits and removing and inducement to keep money in the banks.

The Reserve Bank's daily statement of gold movements showed the smallest loss in some time, amounting to $18,000,000, in contrast to $48,000,000 yesterday. The day's transactions included exports of $9,984,700 to France, $4,446,900 to Holland and $2,493,800 to Belgium. International bankers said that foreign balances here were rapidly being depleted by the large purchases of gold, and that regardless if the rediscount rate, the movement should begin to slacken. The higher rediscount rate, of course, tends to increase money rates generally, making it more profitable for foreigners to leave their funds here.

Increased Circulation Less.

A distinctly encouraging item in the weekly Federal Reserve statements, it was pointed out in high banking quarters, was an increase of currency in circulation for the entire country of only $42,000,000, against $185,000,000 last week and $82,000,000 in the preceding week. This was interpreted as tangible evidence of a return of public confidence, probably attributable to the formation of the National Credit Corporation while increases in circulation in normal times indicate greater business activity, bankers say that recent increases reflect to a large degree the hoarding of currency.

Soon after the announcement of the higher rediscount rate, the New York Clearing House announced that its member banks would increase interest rates paid on deposits by one-half of 1 per cent, effective tomorrow.

The new rates will be 1 per cent on demand deposits of corporations, individuals and other commercial banks and trust companies, and one-half per cent on time deposits and deposits made in these banks by mutual savings banks.

Bankers Acceptances Lowest Since 1928

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—For the first time since August, 1928, the volume of bankers' acceptances has fallen below $1,000,000,000, the monthly report of the American Acceptance Council issued today shows.

The report showed a decline of $94,034,771 during September to $996,365,078 at the end of the month, a new low for recent years. In the nine months since January 1 dollar acceptances have declined $559,000,000, or about 36 per cent.

"This extraordinary shrinkage in the amount of the banks' commercial credit outstanding," Robert H. Bean, executive secretary of the council, said, "is not an unexpected result of the many economic disturbances throughout the world which have broken down our foreign trade, the basis of the most important source of the dollar acceptance business.

"A drop of over $200,000,000 in import and export trade within a period of a year will naturally, at any time, reduce the volume of acceptances, but when there is added an almost complete cessation of business based on foreign transactions, as has occurred in recent months, such a curtailment in the volume of outstanding acceptances as is now reported is a reasonable sequence."

SENATE STUDIES GENEVA'S ACTIONS

Definite Opposition to Any Further Participation Will Be Voiced.

(Associated Press.)

Vividly recalling its stern, unyielding battle on adherence to the League of Nations, the Senate is maintaining a close watch on present negotiations between Washington and Geneva.

Among the determined band that succeeded in rejecting President Wilson's proposal for American entry there is a discernible undersurface rumbling of concern. When the present Far Eastern emergency is passed, definite and outspoken opposition to any program of further participation in league councils is in prospect.

Proponents of the league are no less vigilant in their scrutiny. Should the league be successful in stamping out the sparks of war now flying in the Orient, they are prepared to urge anew their pleas for closer cooperation in international affairs.

Both Camps Silent.

For the present both camps are refraining, for the most part, from any utterance of their views lest it interfere with President Hoover's efforts to avert war between China and Japan. All are agreed, however, that the league's peace-maintaining machinery is facing its first real test. There is a feeling that the outcome may answer questions raised and arguments advanced in the memorable debate of twelve years ago.

Many members of the Senate view the administration's willingness to participate actively in the league's discussion of the oriental situation so far as the Kellogg-Briand treaty is involved, as establishing a precedent.

From an obscure beginning in 1920, America's cooperation in League of Nations activities has grown steadily. Never before, however, has the United States sought a part, either active or passive in the deliberations of the league council.

Action Was First.

The first participation in league activities was in 1920 when an American representative, sitting in an advisory capacity joined in the settlement of the Aland Islands dispute between Finland and Sweden. A few months before, an American official, Surgeon General Rupert Blue, of the Public Health Service, attended a conference for the organization of a health conference under the auspices of the league. The representation, however, was not on the nomination of the American Government.

Since then the United States has been represented by persons named by the Government at some 40 conferences or meetings called by the league. In the great majority of these the representation was designated officially as "advisory" or "consultative."

The subjects considered at these conferences included political, financial and social problems. In some instances these meetings resulted in the adoption of conventions and agreements, which the Senate ratified.

The American Government first sent a fully authorized plenipotentiary, acting under the administration's instructions, to a league conference in 1924. The conference was one to consider the world-wide opium problem and the American delegation was headed by a member of Congress, the late Stephen G. Porter, chairman of the foreign affairs committee. The following year the United States attended officially another such conference, dealing with traffic in arms.

Including the preparatory disarmament conferences all of which the United States attended officially and the official participation in economic conferences, the American Government has sent representatives to 20 league meetings. It will take an active part in the league's coming general disarmament conference.

DEBUCHI ASKS HIS NATION TO RECONSIDER ITS PROTEST

which he had formerly considered a sine qua non of American acceptance. The department announced that the American participation in the Geneva talks would depend on the nature of the invitation.

From this position to an attitude of unqualified acceptance of any invitation from the league was but a step. Last night the invitation was formally drawn up in Geneva and will be ready for presentation to the open meeting of the council today.

It was learned last night that contingent instructions have already been forwarded to Mr. Gilbert. These, it is believed, will enable him to sit with the delegates today in a purely consultative, nonvoting capacity.

The State Department does not consider that the United States has become a member of the League of Nations. The necessity for peace in the Orient is the sole concern of this Government, whether the negotiations for peace take place in Geneva or in Mukden. The two conflicting conditions laid down by the Chinese delegates and the Japanese delegates make the intervention of some conciliating influence or influences inevitable.

Interest of U. S. Stressed.

The interest of the American Government in the cause of international peace was stressed in identical notes dispatched to both the Chinese and the Japanese governments. Some confusion between the Japanese Embassy here and the Japanese foreign office in Tokyo developed in the last 24 hours. An announcement was made in Tokyo that the United States had dispatched two notes to the Japanese government, which could not be made public on account of their tenor. Ambassador Debuchi called at the State Department yesterday to deny this statement.

He said, "Only one formal communication has been received from the American Government, and it has been published."

The discussion over American participation in the league in the last 48 hours swelled to such proportions that it appeared likely to absorb more interest than the settlement of the very emergency which it created.

While cables were being exchanged between Tokyo and Geneva and transatlantic telephone conversations were going on between Washington and the Palais de la Paix, the deadlock in the strategic situation of the Japanese and Chinese armies continued. No preliminary movements had been taken to effect the evacuation demanded by the Chinese. For their part, the economic boycott which the Chinese merchants have been enforcing with unexpected results against Japanese goods throughout China was continuing. These are the two points for immediate satisfaction that Chinese statesmen and Japanese diplomats are demanding.

It was announced last night by the Chinese Legation that "China welcomes most sincerely the participation of an American representative in the deliberations of the council of the League of Nations concerning the Manchurian question."

Firmly Enunciates Desire.

Tokyo, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Japan firmly enunciated today its desire that the United States pursue a hands-off policy regarding Manchuria.

The Japanese delegation at Geneva was instructed to "use every effort" to secure abandonment of proposals that an American observer participate in the council's Manchurian discussions.

A foreign office spokesman explained Japan was contending for the principle involved and this move was "most assuredly not due to any unfriendliness" on the part of Japan for the United States.

An informal statement from the foreign office said if America had "any intention of making the present participation in the league's debate serve as a precedent and accordingly attended the league's sessions in the future, surely there is cause for congratulations, but if American participation is exceptional and limited to Far Eastern troubles only, there appears to be something unfair and irrational regarding such a step."

Viewpoint Is Outlined.

The Japanese viewpoint was outlined here to Edwin Neville, the American Charge d'Affaires, and in Washington to the American Secretary of State.

In these informal conversations Japan sought to convince the American officials that her military operations in Manchuria, to which China has protested so vigorously, were solely for the protection of Japanese lives and property, and that the ensuing controversy was merely a neighborhood quarrel in which no world intervention is needed, or wanted.

Japan's reaction to announcement that the league council had invited the United States to participate in the Manchurian discussion was so sharp that Mr. Neville, acting in the absence of Ambassador Forbes, lost no time in arranging an interview with the Japanese vice minister of foreign affairs, Ryutaro Nagai, to explain America's position concerning the proposals. He pointed out the role of the United States at Geneva must continue to be that of an observer.

Vice Minister Nagai, on his part, explained to Neville that Japan's attitude in the matter rested upon three main points The principle involved, determination to settle the controversy without outside intervention, and belief that intervention by America would generate anti-American public sentiment in Japan.

HOLDINGS IN ORIENT VALUED AT BILLION

Wall Street Watches Over Manchuria Investments in Crisis.

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—While keeping a weather eye on the political aspects of the Sino-Japanese dispute in Manchuria, Wall street's chief interest in the controversy centers around American investments estimated at close to $1,000,000,000 in that part of the Orient.

The lion's share of this capital interest lies in China and Japan, with comparatively few American investments in Manchuria. The largest Oriental interests of American firms are in oil, with public utilities second and tobacco, third.

In China, American investments are practically all in actual production and shipping plants, whereas in Japan, where direct foreign participation in business has been discouraged, Americans hold approximately $422,000,000 in Japanese dollar bonds, issued for governmental and industrial purposes. There is, in addition, an annual trade of about $140,000,000 with China and nearly $1,000,000,000 with Japan.

Direct American investments in China were placed at $113,754,000 in a recent estimate by the Department of Commerce, and those in Japan at $60,700,000. However, in neither case does the figure include investments in stocks or bonds of Oriental countries if Japanese bond issues were included, it would make America's stake in Japan at least $482,700,000.

Although few Chinese bonds are held in America, a merchant well versed in Oriental finances said American commercial investments there amounted to between $600,000,000 and $700,000,000. An estimate by Moody's placed American "credit" investments in China at $78,000,000, of which $20,000,000 was in Chinese government issues, $18,000,000 in Chinese railroad bonds, $10,000,000 in long-term credits, and the remainder in other investments.

CHIANG ISSUES CALL FOR CHRISTIAN AID

Chinese Leader Sends Appeal to World's Churches for Curb on War.

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Christian Herald made public tonight a cable message received by Dr. Daniel A. Poling from Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, Nationalist President of the Chinese Republic, deploring the "evil forces" working "incessantly to destroy peace and prevent the world from attaining it."

The Chinese leader, who was converted to Methodism in 1910, calls on the Christian people of the world to demand peace.

"Almost unlimited money, time and intelligence are being spent on increasing armaments and improving science," the message said. "It is the start of human slaughter on the biggest scale possible.

Economic Disruption Blamed.

"This is due to the calamitous disruption of our economic life and constitutes a real menace to friendly relations among the nations and races. Under these circumstances, can the world have peace?

"The most effective way of attaining this high and noble object is, I believe, to strengthen such organizations and instruments by a fundamental change of attitude. We should believe from the bottom of our heart that might is not right, but right is might.

"Our belief should be so strong and firm that we would denounce and condemn war in any form, including war tendencies, war provocation or demonstration and preparation for war; not only that we should demand at any cost, and insist upon, and uphold peace on a basis of truth, justice, honor, righteousness and love; we should entertain or tolerate no compromise on this attitude, which, I believe, is the Christian attitude.

Appeal Made to Church.

"Christian people throughout the world have the definite and distinct responsibility of creating this Christian attitude. Their failure to do so is responsible for the world's wars and consequent evils and suffering. Upon their success will depend the world's peace and harmony.

"My sincerest hope is that the church people of the United States will quickly and loyally rally themselves and also inspire and unite with Christians of other lands around the Prince of Peace to conquer all selfishness, jealousy and hate in the human heart, which will surely banish war forever from the world and establish a reign of understanding, appreciation, harmony and love, which will without doubt make the world's peace secure and permanent.

"I am confident that my fellow countrymen, who are traditionally known as a peace-loving people, will heartily support and cooperate in all efforts to create the Christian attitude which is so vital to realization of world peace."

Hiram Johnson Assails U. S. Policy Toward League

San Francisco, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—United States Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, tonight issued a statement deploring the willingness of the United States to treat with the League of Nations on the Sino-Japanese situation.

"What the American people said in most emphatic terms should not be done, the administration now does," Senator Johnson said. "Into the League of Nations America is shoved, despite our people. We've a new kind of government. The old, cumbersome mode of the Constitution has been superseded by a dictatorship and an oligarchy.

"When congressional action is needed now, Congress is not called in session, but 'leaders' of the Republican and Democratic parties and the Progressive right wing are summoned in secret to the White House to approve a long prearranged policy, and thus the policy is adopted.

"The international bankers have learned the short cut to congressional action, and they may well chortle with glee as they witness their accomplishments of the past few months in moratoriums and toward foreign debt cancellation. Europe and they may well celebrate their victory in easing the United States in the League of Nations now.

"The Congress—what is it? The 'leaders' have decreed its policy in secret without assembling its troublesome members.

"The people? Why, the people be damned, say our internationalists and their European allies; they are too poor and too distressed to protest. May the Lord protect America for the few intervening months when Americans may speak with ballots."

COUNCIL OF LEAGUE VOTES TO ASK U. S.

ington Government until after tomorrow's public sitting.

Prentiss B. Gilbert, United States consul general at Geneva, whose photograph appeared in a Geneva paper today with the caption, "The First American Representative on the League Council," remained at his home during the long debate over the invitation.

While Aristide Briand, chairman of the council and French foreign minister, and his colleagues argued long and ardently with M. Yoshizawa, an anxious crowd packed the league secretariat and lobby and corridors, awaiting result of their deliberations.

The feeling that not only war in the Far East, but also the very life of the league was at stake had been growing, and each hour of delay increased fear on the part of league proponents that the institution might show weakness in a vital test.

The result, therefore, was welcomed with gratification and relief in international circles which regarded the council's determination to override Japanese opposition as their eagerly desired token of vitality.

secret session reported the procedure was conducted in this manner:

M. Briand began by reading the form of invitation which already had been drafted. M. Yoshizawa read his written objections. The matter raised serious constitutional questions, the Japanese spokesman said. He contended it was much more than a question of procedure (on which only a majority council vote is required), but was indeed a question of substance (which requires unanimity).

M. Briand and Lord Reading, British foreign secretary, opposed the Japanese thesis, contending no question of substance was involved.

A long debate resulted between M. Yoshizawa on one side and all the other members except Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese spokesman, on the other. Dr. Sze remained silent throughout.

The British and French representatives held Japan's position to be invalid on two grounds:

The council was not deciding, they said, on something new; the Japanese and Chinese agreed three weeks ago to welcome close cooperation on the part of the United States; so the council was merely inviting this cooperation on the spot.

The second point made by these spokesmen was that the council was not, as Japan contended, asking a nonleaguer to sit at its table, but was simply beckoning to a man already in the audience to come to that table.

The Briand-Kellogg pact was invoked frequently during this long exchange of views.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

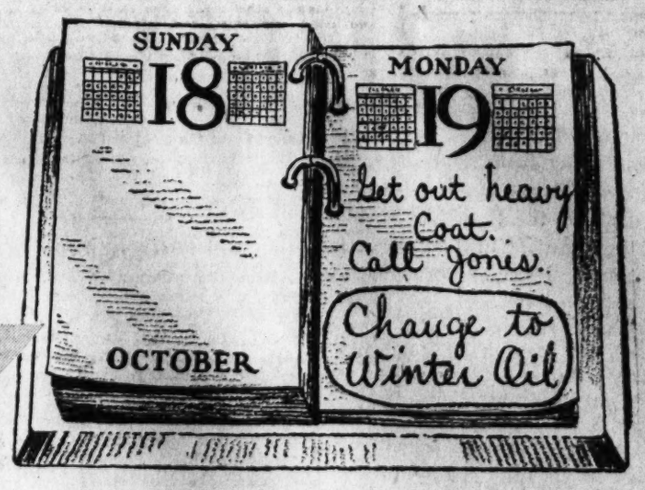
Next week you will be asked-



"Have you changed your oil for the winter?"

WHEN you drive into an Amoco station next week, you'll be asked that question. For now's the time to have your car's crankcase drained and refilled with the proper grade of Amoco Motor Oil and its chassis completely lubricated.

Months of summer driving have deposited grit and dust in the crankcase—sand and dirt have worked into springs and grease fittings. And the oil and grease that served you so well in the summer, is unsuited for winter driving. To protect your car you must change to winter grades of Amoco Lubricants.

Amoco Motor Oil (100% Pure Paraffine Base) has an unusually low cold test and will afford perfect protection at all times, under all conditions. The ease with which your car will start with Amoco Motor Oil, avoids excess use of your choke and the subsequent crankcase dilution and waste of gasoline.

THE MANCHURIAN QUESTION.

The quarrel between China and Japan has reached a stage in which other governments are beginning to meet with embarrassments. The United States, particularly, is in an awkward position, and it must be said that the note dispatched to the League of Nations by the Secretary of State on October 11 has not mended matters. In that communication the Secretary of State said:

> As the said disputants have made commitments to the council, it is most desirable that the league in no way relax its vigilance and in no way fail to assert all the pressure and authority within its competence toward regulating the action of China and Japan in the premises.

Aside from the presumption of a nonmember of the league in tendering this advice, the suggestion by the United States that an international body shall "regulate" the action of a nation can not but be offensive to that nation.

That Japan has taken offense is evident from its action in objecting to the participation by an American representative in the deliberations of the league council regarding the conflict in Manchuria. The council, nevertheless, has invited the United States to participate in its deliberations. In view of the statement by the Secretary of State that "the American Government acting independently through its diplomatic representatives will endeavor to reinforce what the league does" it may be expected that the United States will accept the invitation of the council to participate in its deliberations, notwithstanding the opposition of Japan.

It is not quite clear what benefit would be conferred upon the league by American participation in the council's deliberations over the Manchurian situation. But it is very clear that disadvantages may result. Japan can not be pleased by such action on the part of the United States, even if the latter is unable to join in any league action in applying the sanctions of the covenant. Moreover, participation by the United States in a league council meeting which is confronted with the possibility of applying sanctions comes so near to committing the United States to unknown and unforeseen dangers that a strong protest against participation may be expected. A precedent is forming which may plague the United States for many years to come. It does not seem to have been necessary to affront Japan at this stage of the proceedings, nor does it seem to be necessary to consult the league in regard to the obligations of the Kellogg pact or the nine-power treaty. Such action as the league may take in applying the sanctions of the covenant are entirely foreign to the duty or authority of the United States Government.

Japan is said to be confused by conflicting counsels at home. If that be true, there is hope that the elements desiring peace will prevail against the party that seems to be bent upon aggression in Manchuria. Thus a bloody conflict may be avoided and the situation may be cleared up without further embarrassment to the United States in its relations with the League of Nations. If unhappily the Japanese and Chinese governments are unable to prevent a conflict, the most skillful diplomacy will be needed at Washington in order to retain the friendship of both disputants, while also avoiding an uproar in Congress resulting from the apparent readiness of the Department of State to assume responsibilities which the people have emphatically refused to assume.

AN INCONSISTENT POLICY.

In spite of the fact that the American Federation of Labor in convention at Vancouver, British Columbia, went on record as opposed to unemployment insurance, reports of the proceedings will be read with grave misgivings. A year ago the labor convention did not consider unemployment insurance seriously. Stalwart leaders of the federation did not need to conduct a campaign or make concessions to maintain the traditional attitude of organized labor on this subject. But this year the delegates divided into two groups and a vigorous fight was made for approval of compulsory unemployment insurance under governmental supervision.

The resolution that was adopted referred to unemployment insurance as "unsuited to our political and economic requirements and unsatisfactory to American working men and women." But the vote was taken after President William Green had promised to go before Congress and "demand in the names of millions of workers that some of the wealth of the United States be appropriated in this great emergency to relieve this distress." "Congress should vote a sufficient amount of money," he said, "millions, billions, if necessary, to feed the hungry."

By voting against unemployment insurance and in favor of this proposed raid upon the Federal Treasury the federation put itself in an untenable position. American workmen do not want a pittance to keep body and soul together in lieu of work. They want to escape the demoralizing influence of "handouts" to the unemployed. Yet President Green seemed to think it necessary to pledge his aid to the movement to feed the unemployed out of the depleted Federal Treasury in order to secure a vote against compulsory insurance.

Apparently the federation jumped out of the frying pan into the fire. It resolved against insurance benefits for idle men and sanctioned an out-and-out dole from the Government. This attitude is particularly astonishing in view of the widespread relief plans instituted by President Hoover. Next Sunday the President will broadcast a Nation-wide appeal for funds to be administered through unemployment relief committees in every community. The effect of Mr. Green's pledge to demand billions of dollars from Congress is throw cold water on this commendable drive for the relief of distress through individual effort.

The American Federation of Labor has been a pillar of strength in the social and economic life of this country. It has withstood the insidious attack of communism; it has cooperated with industry for the mutual welfare of capital and labor, and for the most part it has been governed by sound economic policy. Should the federation allow the present trying situation to stampede it into radical policies it would be a national misfortune.

Mr. Green can count on Nation-wide support for relief of the unemployed. Americans will not let their fellow-citizens starve or suffer from lack of shelter. But that relief must come through private and local agencies. If the Federation of Labor should induce Congress to appropriate money that would go as a dole to the idle it would be the greatest mistake in the history of organized labor. The self-reliance of the people, including the unemployed, the employed and the employer, would be dissipated. The federation can render far more constructive service by lending every support to the program of the national relief committee.

THE FRICK COLLECTION.

With the passing of Mrs. Henry Clay Frick, one of the finest private collections of art in the world is made available to the public. In the will of Mr. Frick, who died twelve years ago, he provided for the opening of the gallery to all on the death of his wife. "A purpose," he added, "which I have long cherished and which is very dear to me." Now for the first time the public may visit the famous Fifth avenue mansion and view the treasures which reveal the remarkable judgment, taste and personality of their collector.

Included in the collection are three paintings by Jan Vermeer, of Delft. So rare are the works of this artist that one painting serves to make a collection valuable and distinctive. Vermeer has been described by E. V. Lucas as having a "magical" style, and in no pictures is this quality more apparent than in these of the Frick group. The magnificent Philip IV by Velasquez is a stirring example of a personality emerging through paint. Remarkable are the number and types by Hals, the Fragonard panels and those of the earlier periods, as well as moderns like Whistler and Corot.

The history of the many paintings creates an interesting background for the pictures. The portrait of Sir Thomas More, by Hans Holbein the Younger, recalls a bit of historic drama. Sir Thomas, as lord chancellor under Henry VIII, did not approve of the divorce of his master from Catherine of Aragon. He paid for this disfavor with his head. When Anne Boleyn moved to the palace she was much annoyed at seeing his portrait on the wall and one day tore it from its place and threw it out of the window. The pieces were found by a member of the papal legation, who sent them to Rome, where the portrait was restored.

The generosity of America's leading collectors, of which Mr. Frick was one of the most discriminating, is making available to this country a wealth of art comparable to some of the finest galleries of Europe. Such public gifts enrich the life of a people.

BRITISH FANTASIES.

Some one said recently that the best possible tonic for the world in its present stages of convalescence is a few good jokes. Individuals are taking the weight of the world's problems upon their own shoulders. They need to let in the sunlight of humor, to brighten up and take courage for another round with life. Two years ago any attempt to "laugh it off" might have been disastrous. But now one of the prime requirements of the patient is diversion.

Fortunately, the present age has no lack of humorists. It might be supposed that hard times would dry up the springs of wit and jocosity, but on the contrary it seems to have stimulated some of the great minds to more waggishness. This is especially true in Great Britain. A few days ago George Bernard Shaw brought forth a rollicking masterpiece of nonsense on the glory that will be communism and the grandeur that will be Russia. All the world listened and chuckled, knowing that the bewhiskered Irish wit had achieved the summits of facetiousness.

Now comes H. G. Wells with a ghost story that makes mankind laugh at his extravagance. Mr. Wells has made a practice of conjuring up bugaboos for the entertainment of a too-serious civilization. But the depression gives him a more effective screen on which to portray his apparitions of calamity. He wants the world to understand that this is no ordinary depression; that something far more mysterious and sinister holds mankind in its grip. Roman civilization was much "closer to the ground," yet it collapsed like an empty sack. "This tremendously crazy edifice of ours" has long since been loose on its crumbling foundation. When it falls "it will be a big, swift smash."

Of course, Mr. Wells doesn't leave his public with the feeling of a blind mouse under the debris of a wrecked skyscraper. When he has the world all but annihilated he lets in a little sunshine. He takes a magic wand and wipes away all international debts and the clouds of gloom begin to disappear. He administers a dose of a powerful potion called "cosmopolitanism" and mankind sprouts to new life in a better world where economists and not politicians rule.

It is very kind of Mr. Wells to come to America and regale the people with his fantasies. This weird humor, taken together with Mr. Shaw's balderdash, is a fair exchange for the froth that Sinclair Lewis peddles in Europe.

"Woolworth Cuts Melon," says a headline. No, it's merely a bit of good news for stockholders and does not mean that the Secretary of the Treasury has been insulted.

American Tel. & Tel. set a new high record for earnings during the last nine months. Well, people have to gossip about the depression.

At least one statesman who is not giving his full time to the war clouds hovering over Manchuria is Chancellor Bruening.

SUPREME COURT'S TASK

From the Topeka Capital

As a result of the world depression the people are groping around for remedies. And pressure will be applied to have the coming Congress embody in legislation many of the ideas now advanced. In considering them our lawmakers may go to foolish experiments and enact measures which will stand or fall according to the decisions of the Supreme Court. Therefore, the sessions ahead of that tribunal may be comparable to those of Marshall and his associates in their effect on the national life.

Reviewing the situation as it relates to the work of the Supreme Court the Boston Herald says:

"Apparently there is a greater distrust of government than in other days, but strangely enough, there is more of a disposition to run to Washington and to rely on government for assistance. The time of the Supreme Court is given more and more to business cases. According to a tabulation in 'The Business of the Supreme Court,' by Felix Frankfurter and James M. Landis, of the Harvard Law School, the number of Supreme Court cases centering on the regulation of economic enterprises was nil in the 1875 term and twenty in 1925. Federal taxation cases were two in 1875 and nineteen in 1925. Cases on the construction of Federal legislation under the commerce clause increased from nothing in 1875 to 29 in 1925. Federal administration and private enterprise have evidently been touching at more and more points. The industrial depression of the last two years, the bewilderment of many well-disposed persons who are trying to make another similar period impossible, and the inclination of baffled leaders to wonder whether the Government itself should not take a hand and apply some unnamed remedy or other—in time, they will all impose many new cases on the Supreme Court.

"Elihu Root appears to have had a feeling fifteen years ago that industrial and social changes 'have been too swift for slowly forming customs,' and said that 'if we are to have a consistent development, that change must be met, not at haphazard, but by constructive development.' He told the members of the bar that they had new obligations and he said, among other things:

> The vast increase of wealth resulting from the increased power of production is still in the first stages of the inevitable processes of distribution. The power of organization for the application of capital and labor in the broadest sense to production and commerce has materially changed the practical effect of the system of free contract to the protection of which our law has been largely addressed. The interdependence of modern life, extending not merely to the massed city community, but to the farm and mine and isolated factory, which depend for their markets and their supplies upon far distant regions and upon complicated processes of transportation and exchange, has deprived the individual largely of his power of self-protection, and has opened new avenues through which, by means unknown to the ancient law, fatal injuries may be inflicted upon his rights, his property, his health, his liberty of action, his life itself. We have not yet worked out the formulae through which old principles are to be applied to these new conditions—the new forms, perhaps, through which the law shall continue to render its accustomed service to society.

"The 'constructive development' and 'the new forms, perhaps, through which the law shall continue to render its accustomed service to society' will devolve to a large extent on the Supreme Court. While the public has been looking suspiciously at other branches of Government, fortunately this great tribunal has gained in prestige and influence. How fortunate the Nation is that in these distressing days, when many are almost ready to question the authenticity of the multiplication table, the Supreme Court still has the deep respect of the public and stands as a bulwark against ill-considered projects!"

SING SING MENU.

Prunes and apricots have their excellent uses even as variants of prison fare, according to the New Orleans Times-Picayune. So they held until recently places upon the menu at Sing Sing. But last month a search for weapons concealed by the inmates was ordered at that institution. And during its progress the guards uncovered, to their own amazement, a rude but practical wine-making plant. Somehow the operators had got hold of a butter tub and stowed it away in a secret place. In that hidden receptacle they deposited the apricots and prunes served with their meals, along with such other fruits as came within reach. Active fermentation of the fruit juices ensued, and but for the untimely search and discovery the thirsty prisoners might have been drinking wine of their own manufacture within a few days. Whether they designed it for their own private consumption or planned to establish a speakeasy within the prison walls has not been revealed. Hereafter, we suppose, the guests of Sing Sing will be required to eat their fruit at the table or leave it on their plate.

It's a Queer Kind of Kindness That Makes Willie Wait for His Whipping

By ROBERT QUILLEN

"BEWARE the wrath of a patient man," says the ancient proverb.

Why is his wrath so dreadful? Because patience is an evidence of strength, and strength makes wrath destructive?

No; the wrath of a patient man is terrible because it is cumulative.

The man's patience is mere self-control. He resents each affront, as other men do, yet checks the impulse to show resentment. Each hurt endured in silent inaction increases his store of wrath, and when at last his patience is exhausted the rage engendered by a thousand wrongs is poured out like the pent-up, molten fury of a volcano to settle a thousand scores at once.

The last pound pressure of steam is the one that causes the boiler's explosion, but the resulting havoc is wrought by the combined force of many hundred pounds acting as a unit.

The patient man's consuming wrath seems out of all proportion to the immediate offense that caused it and the blow he strikes seems a brutal retaliation for a wrong so slight, but the wrong was the unbearable last of many and the blow had behind it an explosive force that many offenses had multiplied.

"Beware the wrath of a patient man" means "Beware the man who doesn't pay as he goes."

The saints may forgive and forget, but ordinary mortals resent affronts and make their resentment known. The more patiently they seem to endure, the more wrath they store up for the day of reckoning.

That kind of patience isn't at all commendable. It is likely to be sullen. It pouts. It stores up hatred. It speaks gently, but its thoughts are violent.

Assassinations, rebellions and crimes of violence are products of pent-up wrath. The wronged endure offenses in the silence that invites further wrongs, and their patience serves only to increase the score.

It isn't virtue to postpone payment. Stored-up anger becomes malice. It is far more decent to make your resentment vocal and thus get it out of your system.

The tongue is a safety valve. It releases stores of wrath that otherwise would accumulate in the heart. There is no grace in soft words if the heart is hard.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

The Dollar Is Sound.

Detroit News.

Europeans who have rushed to the conclusion that President Hoover's plan for loosening frozen assets in this country is an inflation scheme seem to know about as much concerning our financial structure as, say, Senator Brookhart.

Inflation consists in lowering the value of money in relation to gold, or whatever may determine the basic value of that money. No such step has been taken in America, and no such step is contemplated. Even though our ratio of gold to money decreased 4.6 per cent in one week, and is 14.5 per cent less than it was a year ago, it is still 67 per cent, or about twice as much as a perfectly safe ratio. Gold has flowed out of America since the devaluation of sterling, because other countries wanted it to protect their circulation. It is a movement which we have long desired, and should cause nothing but cheers all over the world. There has not been and will not be any "flight from the dollar" on our part, and any such movement abroad would be illogical and silly.

The Hoover plan is a move toward stability, not instability. It is designed to protect the banks and add to public confidence, and insofar as it does so it will confirm the strength of the American dollar. No new credit has been created, but frozen credits will be released. The borrowing power of a mortgage is not increased by merely passing it from hand to hand, but the safety of its holder is increased if it is no longer dead paper on his hands, but can be used as limited collateral.

A Sound Ruling Stands.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

In these days of confused thinking with regard to the duties and responsibilities of American citizenship it is good to know that the United States Supreme Court stands squarely on its decision in the Dr. Macintosh case. It has refused to reconsider its action in supporting the ruling of the lower courts denying citizenship to the petitioner. Dr. Macintosh is neither a professional pacifist nor a "conscientious objector" in the general meaning of the terms. He is opposed only to "unrighteous" wars.

The Supreme Court puts its finger on the chief fallacy in his contention when it remarked that "it is not within the province of the courts to make bargains with those who seek naturalization. They must accept the grant and take the path in accordance with the terms fixed by the law or forego the privilege of citizenship." The court did not express an opinion regarding the justice of this law. It merely stated that an applicant for American citizenship may not pick and choose which laws he will and will not obey.

Friendly and Impartial.

New York Times.

Just what can the United States or the other powers or the League of Nations do in seeking to prevent war in Manchuria? What ought they to do? Certainly not to take sides violently in an obscure quarrel between Japan and China. It is a case for consultation, for representations, as provided by the treaties in force. It is not an occasion for threats or even for minatory gestures. The attempt to rally world opinion, lest the controversy proceed from bad to worse, is not in behalf of either of the countries involved, but is in behalf of peace. This is the goal to be kept distinctly in mind while the means to reach it are skillfully adopted.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Week-Ends in Clarke County Are Marred, Says Virginian, by Arbitrary Enforcement of Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Get a fishing license to embroider, crochet or read a magazine before going on the river in Clarke County, Va.!

After having been a resident and property owner in Virginia for the last 25 years I had my first experience this week in being arrested, haled before a justice of the peace, tried and found guilty and fined $17.25. The crime was holding down a fishing rod with my foot without a license to fish.

My husband and myself were spending the week-end at Castleman's Ferry, near Bluemont, Va., and on Sunday morning went out in a boat on the Shenandoah. He was fully equipped with bait, fishing tackle, license, &c., while I carried with me fancy work and magazine with no intent to fish. After we anchored in midstream my husband baited one hook and handed it to me to hold for him while he baited another line. I held it a while and then placed it on the bottom of the boat, put my foot on it and got out my fancy work and book and prepared to have a nice time.

But alas, the noble guardian of the law, a game warden of Clarke County, was patrolling the bank and saw me touch the fishing rod with my hand. Hurrying to the boathouse after making this discovery he commandeered a boat and hastened out to uphold the law. I protested but feebly, for when the strong arm of the law reached out as it is handled in these rural districts protesting is useless.

I told this imposing person that I had not been fishing, had no intention of fishing and did not even know what kind of bait was on the hook. Did this make any difference to the protector of the public? It did not. He said "fishing" meant "touching the rod" with hand or foot, and so after having been on the river about 30 minutes my husband and I were forced to row back to shore, where the upholder of the law and a trusty, which he carried with him, my husband and myself piled into our car (he saved his own gasoline), proceeded to wind our way around the hills to the home of Justice Blount, where I was tried, found guilty and fined. After this they wished us a pleasant day.

Virginia has never made the progress other States have made and so long as law-enforcing officers are permitted to interpret the law, just so long we will continue to sing "carry me back to old Virginia," for people with a degree of intelligence won't go back any other way.

Waste Lumber Offered to Needy as Fuel Is Being Destroyed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your attention, and the attention of the many charitable organizations in the city, is directed to the seemingly needless burning of construction lumber which is being carried on every day in the rear of the newly completed wing of the public school at Connecticut avenue and Davenport street northwest.

This lumber has been offered to "the needy," and is available to any one who will carry it from the lot. So far "the needy" have failed to take advantage of the opportunity of laying in a supply of free wood for the coming winter, when their demands on local charities will far exceed the ability to supply.

No doubt the same destruction of lumber is being made on various building operations in the city.

Why should not the charitable organizations make a general clean-up of all such lumber for use in their relief work this winter?

Another Housekeeper Complains That Unemployed Won't Take Odd Jobs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I should like to state my experience with the so-called unemployed. I needed carpenters, painters, paperhangers and general all-around workers. I thought I would help out the situation by employing them now.

Well, did I get any? No; some were too busy and the rest too lazy. They did not even come to look at the work. Some unemployed men that I took in from the street promised to come and do the job the next morning, but they did not appear.

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE FIRST GENTLEMAN.

How came the gentleman to be,
When first the race began?
Who first discovered courtesy
Would grace the soul of man?
Who in the days of endless fight
With club and tooth and claw
Was first to put the love of right

I fancy it was not by chance
That pity came to be.
So slowly does mankind advance.
(So selfish still are we)
That ages long in savage state
Men battled for their needs
And never put aside their hate
For pity's kindly deeds.

But some one in those ages dark
Who'd suffered many a blow
Within his heart felt pity's spark
Strangely begin to glow,
And moved by one in anguish dire
Whose agonies he knew,
Shared shelter and his warming fire.
And thus a friendship grew.

I wish I knew his name who first
Withheld the killer's blow
And stooped to quench the burning thirst
Of one who'd been a foe.
For by that generous, gracious deed
All sportsmanship began
And there was framed the code and creed
Of every gentleman.

NEWS FROM ABROAD GAINS NEW INTEREST

Russell Kent, Washington, Speaks as Institute Ends in Williamsburg.

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Americans have a growing interest in the affairs of the outside world, intensified in recent years by private investments abroad officially estimated at close to $5,000,000,000, and it is this interest which the Washington correspondent must serve in analyzing and intepreting the significance of foreign news developments, Russell Kent, Washington correspondent of the Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald and other Southern newspapers, said in an address here tonight.

"The special Washington correspondent, generally speaking, is not only a reporter but he must be an interpreter, and as such he differs from the member of a staff of a news service," Mr. Kent said. "In the great majority of newspapers the news of Europe is supplied by writers of a press service. The special correspondent complements and supplements this news by an effort to interpret to his readers the significance of some fact that usually has been placed before them previously by the bald statement of a press service."

Mr. Kent's address, "How News From Europe is Viewed by the Washington Correspondent," was delivered before the Institute of European Affairs, of the College of William and Mary, at its closing session tonight.

Mr. Kent said the average American now realizes more keenly the importance of foreign affairs in relationship to his own fortunes.

The nations of Europe, he said, have a live consciousness of their interdependence, as exemplified by numerous recent conferences between officials of European governments.

The Washington corps of correspondents is now turning its attention not only upon domestic situations, but upon the news of the day from Europe with intensive interest, he said.

"The great problem facing the world today is the restoration of confidence within nations and between nations, against the fear which clutches the economic heart of the world," Mr. Kent said, adding as his opinion that "we are on the eve of international agreements of tremendous importance to the world—agreements entered upon solemnly which will bring a feeling of national security against military attacks and thus lead to heavily reduced military expenditures. That will tend to restore confidence and speed the day of economic recovery, and that will bring to pass an improvement in the social order."

France and the United States have been drawn more closely together during the preesnt times of depression and disarmament than at any other time since the American revolution, Leifur Magnusson, director of the Washington office of the International Labor Organization, said in another address tonight.

Catholic U. Gets Liturgical Works

14 Volumes Are Presented by the Rev. Cicognani Through Rector.

The Right Rev. Mgr. A. G. Cicognani, assessor of the sacred congregation for the Oriental Church in Rome, has just presented to the Catholic University through the Right Rev. Mgr. James H. Ryan, the rector, fourteen volumes on the Greek Liturgy of the Church.

The Greek liturgical works comprise most of the service books employed in the Byzantine rite. The collection contains the Enchologion, the Triodion, Pentekostarion, Oktoechos, Parakletike, the twelve Menaia, Evangelion and the Apostalos.

The Enchologion contains the priest's part of the Hesperinos, Orthros, the three Liturgies and other sacraments and sacramentals. The Triodion contains the variable parts of the Liturgy and Divine Office for the movable days from the tenth Sunday before Easter to Holy Saturday. The Pentekostarion contains the Triodion from Easter to the first Sunday after Pentecost. The Oktoechos gives the offices of the Sundays for the rest of the year, while the Parakletike gives the offices for the week days. The twelve Menaias, one for each month, contain the proper of saints. The Evangelion and Apostolos contain the parts of the Bible that are read.

TEST OF GOVERNORS RESTS ON HANGINGS

Louisiana Now Has Legally Three Executives and Lieutenants.

New Orleans, Oct. 15 (U.P.).—Scheduled hangings of three Negroes in Louisiana tomorrow augured a possible test of authority between two of the State's "governors."

While Gov. Huey P. Long said that as far as he was concerned the executions "would proceed as planned," Paul N. Cyr, who abandoned the office as lieutenant governor and took the oath of governor in a test case, said he was "absolutely opposed to the executions until I have had a chance to study the cases on their merits."

Cyr told the United Press tonight he had discussed with his attorneys, the feasibility of issuing stays of executions in his "capacity as governor," until the courts had untangled the political situation.

"My ouster suit against Long has not yet been filed, and I am reluctant to assume any of the governor's authority until the courts have ruled that I am the legal governor," Cyr said. "However, in the face of such an emergency as this, I am not decided. I shall make up my mind in the morning whether to issue stays of execution."

If Cyr issued commutation orders, two sheriffs will be faced with a delicate situation.

At Columbia, Henry Hodge and Jesse Simmons, convicted of killing another Negro, are scheduled to hang some time during the day. Their attorney, W. H. Mecom, was trying to induce Cyr to order a stay of execution in hopes that the sheriff of the parish would recognize it.

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 15 (U.P.).—It's just a matter of taking the oath tonight. There are political jobs for all takers and takers for all jobs.

Latest developments in the political turmoil came from Shreveport, where L. D. Smith, an unemployed man, "grabbed himself an office" by being sworn in as lieutenant governor. "I am not related to any of the present governors and am not on the State pay roll," Smith said in a formal statement.

Students Hear Gillilan Talk on Cheerfulness

Describing the area north of the ears as the greatest unemployment center at the present time, Strickland Gillilan, Washington humorist, told an audience of students last night that fear and gloom are the strongest drawbacks to good thinking.

"Cheerfulness takes courage," he said, "and the pessimists that keep up talk of depression are cowards." The humorist told the prospective executives that it isn't what they are going to learn that matters, but what they do with their knowledge after they get it. Mr. Gillilan made his address at the Amsterdam Hotel, under the auspices of the Mount Pleasant School for Secretaries.

DREISER MINE RULE CHARGES ARE DENIED

Judge Makes Statement After Author Begins Forming Quiz Body.

Harlan, Ky., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—"Absolutely a bunch of bunk," was Circuit Judge D. C. Jones' comment today on charges made in New York by Theodore Dreiser, author, that a "reign of terror" exists in the Harlan County coal fields which have been the scene of labor disorders.

Judge Jones, who ordered transfer of trials of miners charged with murder in connection with labor troubles defended his action by saying he desired fair trials for both the defendants and the Commonwealth. Such lawlessness and prejudice existed in Harlan County the time the trials were called here, he said, that it was impossible to obtain fair trials in this county.

Referring to Dreiser's statement that the community is an "armed camp full of legalized gunmen," Judge Jones said it was "false and ridiculous."

Investigators Organize.

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Charges that 18,000 miners in Harlan County, Ky., are held in a "reign of terror" will be investigated by a committee which Theodore Dreiser started to organize today.

The author invited four senators and fourteen business men, clergymen, editors and educators to go to Harlan No. 6 for an inquiry into the "frightful reign of terror imposed by thugs and jailbirds." The group will gather at Lexington, Ky., on November 5 for a preliminary meeting.

George W. Norris, of Nebraska; Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin; James R. Couzens, of Michigan, and Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota, are the senators Dreiser asked to join the committee.

Others Asked To Join.

Others asked to join the committee are:

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; Prof. Felix Frankfurter, of the Harvard Law School; Col. Henry M. Anderson, of Richmond, Va., member of the Wickersham Commission; Roy Howard, chairman of the board, Scripps-Howard newspapers; Charles P. Taft 2d, son of the late President; E. O. Lindeman, director of Willard Straight Foundation, New York; Charles Clayton Morrison, editor of the Christian Century, Chicago; William Allen White, editor of the Emporia (Kans.) Gazette; Dr. Arthur Braden, president of Transylvania College, Lexington, Ky.; Dr. Will Hutchins, president of Berea College, Ky.; Bruce Crawford, editor of Crawford's Weekly, Norton, Va.; Bishop William H. Dubose, of Tennessee; Edward B. Meeman, editor of the Knoxville (Tenn.) News-Sentinel, and Dr. Alonzo J. Fortune, of Christian Church, Lexington, Ky.

First Trials in November.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The first murder trials arising from violence in the Harlan County coal fields will start at Mount Sterling the first week in November, about the time Theodore Dreiser's proposed committee takes up its inquiry at Lexington November 5. Circuit court opens at Mount Sterling November 2.

2 in Lexington Decline To Serve on Committee

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Dr. Arthur Braden, president of Transylvania College, and Dr. A. W. Fortune, pastor of the Central Christian Church, who today were invited by Theodore Dreiser to become members of a committee to investigate conditions in the Harlan coal fields, tonight said they did not intend to serve.

Samarskite, Rare Element, Reported Found at Cornell

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—A new substance, the missing element No. 87, poked part of its face into the view of science today.

Ninety-two elements long have been known to comprise every material substance composing the earth, but two of them, known only by number, 87 and 85, never have been found definitely.

Positive identification of this substance in samarskite, a lustrous black compound, was announced this afternoon by Cornell University, along with evidence of some of its properties.

According to evidence, No. 87 is a solid, insoluble in water, extremely inflammable, and is the most light-sensitive material yet found anywhere.

While the Cornell experiments do not yet show the color, science long has expected that No. 87 would be white, lustrous metal. The other missing child in the earth's element family is expected to be black, a shining solid, relating to the iodine family of elements.

The information developed at Cornell immediately gives the new scientific baby a potential job in electricity. The Cornell discovery was made by Jacob Papish, professor of spectroscopy. It was made with the aid of spectroscope, the same instrument which astronomers use to detect the substances of which stars are made. It is the same instrument with which Dr. Papish discovered that in the slag heaps of smelters there is plenty of the once rare element, germanium.

He obtained from the coal black samarskite a sulfate, which is a mixture containing sulfur and oxygen, and in this identified the number 87. He found it existed in the samarskite in the ratio of one part in two million. The small amount of 87-bearing material in his laboratory is reckoned as priceless, with a theoretical value exceeding radium.

Larkin Declines to Explain Action at Memphis; Silence Not Imposed.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—E. A. Larkin, deputy prohibition administrator, ignored an invitation to address the annual convention of the Tennessee Women's Christian Temperance Union here today, although he was listed on the program as the principal speaker.

"No; I am going to make no speech before the W. C. T. U.," he told newspapermen. "We just don't do that. I have no explanation to make."

Annapolis to Fix "Death" Crossing

Defense and Crane Roads Intersection to Be Remedied.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Branding the intersection of Defense and Crane highways as a "death trap," the city council has taken steps to have it removed or improved.

In view of numerous deaths at the intersection the council appointed a committee to seek a remedy. Most recent among the tragedies at the corner was the death of Commander Hamilton Harrow, U. S. N., aid to President Hoover. The fire marshal here urged that the State roads commission be asked to remove the dangerous aspects of the intersection.

MRS. HOOVER LEAVES BUFFALO FOR HOME

Convention of Girl Scouts Over, First Lady Sees Style Show.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—A swift whirl of social functions and executive meetings ended, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the President, prepared to leave Buffalo tonight for Washington.

She arrived here Tuesday to attend the convention of the National Council of Girl Scouts, of which she is honorary president. The Niagara frontier set about entertaining her with a rush of festivities which left Mrs. Hoover little time for rest. Between convention meetings she attended luncheons, teas and receptions, made a hurried trip to Niagara Falls and retained her ever-present smile and graciousness of manner throughout.

Late this afternoon Mrs. Hoover attended a Girl Scout style show and inspected the latest modes in uniforms. She took time to shake hands with each of the Girl Scout models.

Mrs. Hoover dined quietly in her hotel suite tonight, with a few of the national executives as her guests. She planned to leave immediately after attending the evening session of the convention.

The convention of the Girl Scouts broke up into sectional conferences tonight and the delegates dropped into their own particular niches in the section which peculiarly interested them.

Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady, chairman of the national board, today outlined the Rapidan plan under which 250,000 Girl Scouts will undertake to assist in relieving distress in American homes during the coming winter.

Lillian Russell's Daughter Sues to Recover $50,000 Ring

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The strange history of a $50,000 ring set with emeralds and diamonds was retold today by the widow of Enrico Caruso and the daughter of Lillian Russell in a drab, austere courtroom before a black-gowned judge who will decide to which of them it belongs.

The widow of the opera tenor and the younger woman, whose blonde beauty recalls that of her actress mother, told their conflicting stories reluctantly.

Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, who is suing Mrs. Dorothy Caruso Ingram for the ring, claimed it was given to her by her mother. She said she could recall distinctly the day in 1901 when Lillian Russell purchased the ring and charged it to an admirer, who was not identified during the hearing.

"After mother's death (in 1922) my stepfather (the late Alexander P. Moore, former Ambassador to Spain) took possession of all the jewelry I had that belonged to my mother, while I was in mourning. That was the last I saw of it," she said.

The opera star's widow said the ring was given to her when she and the former ambassador became engaged in 1927. The engagement lasted a year and then was broken by Mrs. Caruso.

She said she offered to return the ring, but Moore refused it, telling her if she married first it would be his wedding present, and if he married first she could send it back to him. Moore died in 1930, without having remarried. Mrs. Caruso was married for the second time a short time later. She said she then considered the ring her property.

The case was postponed indefinitely by the court, and Mrs. Caruso, still wearing the ring, fled from the building.

LAVAL SAILS TODAY FOR HOOVER VISIT

Emphasizes, Over Radio, Need of World Collaboration to Check Crisis.

Paris, Oct. 15 (U.P.).—Need for world collaboration to solve the problems of modern nations was emphasized by Premier Peirre Laval tonight in a radio speech to America on the eve of his departure to visit President Hoover at Washington.

The French premier expressed hope that his visit to the United States would aid progress toward closer international cooperation.

"It is in response to the invitation of a man and a country to whom I feel united in bonds of sympathy and esteem and friendship that I depart," said Laval. "Our epoch can not concede isolation as sufficient preventive remedy for our troubles. The interests of nations are intertwined so that none may remain entirely without the shadow of dangers menacing others. International collaboration is more necessary than ever and this voyage to the United States revives great hopes."

Laval spoke in French and Heinzen translated and broadcast his speech in English.

Text of His Address.

The text of Premier Laval's speech, as broadcast by the National Broadcasting and Columbia Broadcasting Systems in the United States, follows:

"I am going to leave France for three weeks, in order to accept an invitation from a man and a country to which we feel closely united by virtue of old ties, esteem and friendship. A severe crisis disturbs the world. The governments are making efforts which until now have proved insufficient to put an end to an evil which spreads more and more.

"The countries of central Europe, then Germany, and lately Great Britain, have been the most severely affected. France has remained sound. She owes this privileged position to work and thrift. It is impossible to prescribe sufficient preventive remedies. The interests of the nations are so closely intertwined that none of them can be completely protected from the dangers which menace the others.

"France, moreover, has this in addition. She knows when to act otherwise than by motives of selfishness. Last July we replied to the proposal of President Hoover. Recently, in conversations of Paris, London and Berlin affecting our central interests, we have taken our part in the international collaboration which is more than ever necessary.

Beware of Illusions.

"The prime undertaking, with a view to closer cooperation between the United States and France gives rise to great hopes, but let us beware of illusions.

"If such a conversation between the heads of governments finds mutual explanation, it appears to be the surest method of restoring the principle of normal economic life. It would be too much to expect from them the final solution.

"At this point of production, monetary trouble, excessive cost of speculation, all have led to unemployment and misery.

"The evil is deeply rooted, because it lies in the progress of a too rapidly developing civilization. Nobody knows what is an appropriate cure. A severe treatment must be imposed. In our four days in Washington we shall not settle the affairs of the universe.

"We shall make known to each other our ideas. I shall tell President Hoover what I think about my country, about its hopes and what it can do. The French government has already shown its desire to act. Immediately upon my return I shall report to the chambers of Parliament. They will pass judgment on the policies which tend to associate more closely in this set of circumstances the French efforts with those of the great American democracy for the good of all and the consolidation of peace."

It certainly should be adequate without having to resort to the money-

meeting with the national commission, with Senator Fess and Representative Bloom attending.

Nothing of this aspect of the contention between the local body and Mr. Bloom was contained in the latter's statement, which was confined to a caustic criticism of Mr. Kruckman.

"I want to make it clear and emphatic that the relationship between Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, chairman, the members of the District of Columbia Commission and the United States Commission and myself personally, have been, and are now, of a cordial and cooperative nature," Mr. Bloom said. But, of Mr. Kruckman Mr. Bloom had other things to say.

"He is utterly unfit for work which he has undertaken," Mr. Bloom said. Just why a stranger should be brought to Washington and entrusted with this important mission, I do not know, for there are hundreds of people who know the District of Columbia and its people and who have the mental and moral qualifications necessary for the position, who would have done a far better job than Mr. Kruckman has done so far.

"I feel that Mr. Kruckman has dominated the local commission to the extent that apparently they do not realize how deplorably lacking he is in the qualifications necessary for this great work.

Inimical to Merchants.

"We have the unfortunate spectacle of a man combining commercialism of a dubious kind with his duties as director of the District of Columbia Commission. We find that Mr. Kruckman is selling concessions within the District of Columbia to those willing to pay the price. This means that the merchants of this city are at the mercy of outsiders who are willing to pay money for indorsement of their various enterprises to come here with the idea of having exclusive concessions to compete with local merchants."

Mr. Bloom made public a photostatic copy of a letter written by Mr. Kruckman, in his official capacity as District director, to a Philadelphia button making concern. This concern had received an order for lapel buttons from the national commission and wrote the District commission asking if it would like to buy some, too. Mr. Kruckman replied that the District commission would be glad to consider a proposition from the button makers for a concession to sell the lapel buttons here under official approval.

"In addition to such concessions being hawked about," Mr. Bloom continued, "the District of Columbia Commission has indorsed the selling of pictures and stickers from which the District of Columbia Commission for its indorsement gets a small percentage of the amount of sales."

Cites Picture Indorsement.

He cited an indorsement of a velvet painting of George Washington to be sold for $45, out of which the District Commission gets $5, and added "the other $40 has not been publicly accounted for."

"In the sale of stickers," Mr. Bloom said, "the District Commission has indorsed a company selling stickers for $10 per 1,000. These stickers cost not in excess of $1 per 1,000. The District of Columbia Commission gets $2 per 1,000, leaving $7 per 1,000 publicly unaccounted for.

"It is not my purpose to charge any one with any irregularities. I am merely presenting the facts."

The national commission had conceived the bicentennial celebration on a "high and dignified plane," Mr. Bloom said. He referred to the $100,000 appropriated by Congress for the District Commission and said that "this is more than has been appropriated by any State in the Union, and it is to be used in one city alone.

raising methods which have characterized the District of Columbia's activities under the direction of Mr. Kruckman.

Believes Frankness Needed.

"I believe the time has come when we should speak with the utmost frankness and I want to say that I can not conceive of a beautiful, dignified and appropriate celebration within the District of Columbia along the lines that have been laid out by Mr. Kruckman.

"I do not believe that the celebration in the National Capital next year should be in the nature of a street fair; that there should be petty concessions of all kind granted to those who can pay the most money for them.

"I feel that the hostility which Mr. Kruckman has shown toward the United States Commission, is due solely to the fact that we have stopped some of the commercial operations set in motion by the District of Columbia commission now being directed by Mr. Kruckman. I am sure that the people of this community do not want to have their celebration commercialized.

"I am sure that were it not for Mr. Kruckman's unethical activities his apparent lack of recognition of the responsibilities placed upon him, that there would be brought forth in the District of Columbia next year, a celebration that would be in keeping with the spirit of the occasion. I believe that if the present wholly undignified and petty methods are continued it will lead only to discord, misunderstanding and ineffectiveness that will be disappointing, if not humiliating to the people of the National Capital."

Explains Owen Incident.

Mr. Bloom's statement was prompted by publication of a story that Cecil Owen, who presented himself as a representative of the District commission, had been denied admittance to the meeting of Mr. Bloom and national commission executives with some State commissions, members of which were on their way to Yorktown.

Mr. Owen is a Washington newspaper reporter who also is publicity man for the District commission. Mr. Bloom said that he had asked Dr. Marvin, the night before the meeting whether the District commission wished to send a representative, had been told no, and when Mr. Owen appeared he had asked him to show his credentials or wait until Dr. Marvin had been reached by telephone. Mr. Owen, who is, Mr. Bloom said, "under Mr. Kruckman's direction," refused to wait and left the commission offices.

Mr. Bloom's statement brought only a brief comment from Mr. Kruckman.

"This whole project, in which we all are so deeply interested, is too fine a thing and of too great importance to be mixed with personalities, and any reply which is to be made at this time must come from my commission," he said.

Dr. Marvin was mild in his comment on Mr. Bloom's statement.

"Any disagreement between two individuals which might be taken before the public for discussion is unfortunate at this time," Dr. Marvin said. "The local bicentennial commission is willing to cooperate with the national commission. Our executives, I feel sure, also are willing to cooperate and every member on their staff has it in their mind to cooperate."

FRESH ATTACK MADE ON CHAIN-STORE TAX

John W. Davis Files Suit in North Carolina Supreme Court.

(Associated Press.)

From North Carolina came a fresh attack yesterday in the Supreme Court upon the validity of a State tax on chain stores.

The campaign, led by John W. Davis as counsel for the Great Atlantic & Pacific Co. and other chain operators, was pointed on the contention the court's 5-to-4 decision last term upholding the Indiana tax was inapplicable.

Davis contended the North Carolina tax was unlawful discrimination and explained why he thought the Indiana ruling could not control this case.

Imposed on Stores.

The tax was imposed by Indiana on all stores, he said, increasing with the number operated, but in North Carolina, operators of one store were exempt, while those operating two or more were subjected to the levy of $50 each, which he sought to have declared invalid.

Attorney General Brummitt, of North Carolina, asserted that the tax was a privilege tax. The North Carolina Supreme Court, he said, had properly held it was valid on its face because it was based upon a classification of a distinct type of business.

Exempt From Taxes.

Exemptions from taxation were frequently made, he said, referring to Federal and State income tax laws.

North Carolina had the right, he argued, to say that those who elected to conduct only one store should be exempt from the tax but that those who, of their own preference, decided to conduct two or more should be taxed for that privilege.

Benets Coming From Abroad For Stay Here

Have Been in France for Dedication of War Fountain.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence V. Benet will come to Washington today from New York, where they arrived recently from their home in Paris. During their visit of several weeks here they will stay at the Mayflower. In France recently, Mr. and Mrs. Benet were the central figures in connection with the ceremonies in honor of the volunteers of the American Ambulance, 1914-1917, who died in the war. A monumental fountain, erected to their memory at the old Lorraine town of Pont-a-Mousson, in Meurthe-et-Moselle, was dedicated and presented to the town.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA"

IF October 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this late are from 10:20 a. m. to noon, from 3:10 p. m. to 5:30 p. m., and from 8:50 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger hours are from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m., and from 5:45 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

For all those engaged in professional or scientific work, October 16 holds out bright prospects—so the stars say. Problems that have hitherto presented difficulties, will be easily solved. Work that was held up will be prosecuted with renewed energy and clear vision. All other lines of endeavor will derive a benefit, although only a slight one, from the planetary influences.

A reasonable degree of success awaits the child born on this October 16. It will be both ambitious and capable, as well as thrifty and economical. If a girl, it will have strong artistic tendencies, and an almost uncanny sense of color. Boys and girls alike will have happy dispositions, hosts of friends, and bright futures.

You, if born on October 16, have a lovable disposition, although your character is weak. No one ever appeals in time of stress to you in vain. You speak ill of none. You are kind and generous to one and all—regardless of their merits. In the family circle, your mate and your children love you devotedly but do not trust your judgment or seek your advice. They have seen too many evidences of your easy going ways and your gullibility. You have never yet learned the lesson to say "no."

In addition to goodness of heart—and there is no sacrifice you would not gladly make for those near and dear to you—you possess much natural ability, are extremely intelligent and work conscientiously. If you only possessed backbone you could make a great success of your life. Many opportunities have come your way. You have seized them, and let them slide out of your grasp in order to assist someone else. You persist in helping others, rather than help yourself. As a consequence, your life is muddled and uncertain.

You are very fond of nature and all outdoor sports and recreations. You feel cramped in a city, and only breathe freely when far from "bricks and mortar." Your horoscope denotes an asmosphere of great affection, but little material success.

Successful people born on October 16:

Oscar Wilde, author.
Molly O'Day, film.
Noah Webster, lexicographer.
Horace E. Scudder, author and editor.
Russell Sturgis, architect.

FRANCES M'DONALD

Too Weak to Fight.

DEAR Frances McDonald:

I felt that I should like to tell "Sad But Wiser" a little story somewhat akin to hers which came under my notice a few years since, and hers may be a parallel one, with the same reason for the young man's action behind it, and it may have the same sequel when he has time to reflect.

A man of 35 came to this city a few years ago from a well-known Eastern city and entered a business office where I was acting as secretary. A glance at him was sufficient to see that he had had a story in his life. One morning after all the employes of the office had scattered to work, he returned with an unusually dejected look upon his face, and seating himself across the aisle of desks from me he said "I have been in h—l for 10 years." I looked up and he continued to tell me his story without my saying more.

He had loved a beautiful girl in his home town, and she loved him. Her father was wealthy, and the girl had everything that heart could wish. This young man was naturally lazy. One night he went to see his sweetheart and she met him looking her loveliest in a dainty frock of sheer material—pink in color, and he said she looked more like a beautiful flower. He decided then and there that he could never maintain her in such style and suggested breaking the engagement. She protested, saying, "Jack, I do not have to have these things. They are not essential to my happiness, but you are." With all her pleading, he left her no option in the matter, and broke the engagement. Two months later her marriage was announced to another young man of the town, and he said, "He did not have the second suit to his back." So he awoke to the fact that he had bartered his happiness. He had just returned at this particular time, from a visit to his old home; and had seen her again. She had invited him and his sister to take dinner at her home. As they entered the house she lingered to play the part of hostess in the hall, and he said to her, "Mae, are you happy?" and she answered "No! Not as happy as I would have been with you." This was almost greater punishment than he could bear. When he had finished, I said, "You deserve to suffer. Any man who would place a girl who loved him in such a position, and give her no option whatsoever in the matter, deserves just what you are getting." The last time I saw him, he was still unhappy. He declared that he couldn't love anyone else; that she was the only girl in the world. I have known other stories similar to this, and they are all much the same. We reap as we have sown—nothing could be truer. The shirking of responsibility is parallel in the two cases.

AN INTERESTING READER.

Not only do we reap as we sow, but certain types may be depended upon to sow certain crops and reap the expected harvests, whining as they reap! Show me the man who hates effort and I will show you the man who will shirk responsibility to avoid effort and then when the natural consequence leaves him miserable, blame the whole mess on circumstance, fate, or what have you. The world is full of these jelly fish souls. If the tide sweeps them in, in they come. It would no more occur to them to do something about getting where they wanted to go than it would occur to a jelly fish to get up and walk. They expect life to step up to them and say, "You are just the man I have been looking for, take this and enjoy yourself the rest of your days." Well, life isn't one bit like that. Life stands, feet apart and says, "Well, here I am, you poor simp, come and get me." If you happen to really be a poor simp, you slink away from there, and life has a big hearty laugh, but if you happen not to be a simp at all, but a two-fisted he-blooded soul you look life in the eye and say, "Oh, yeah?" And then the fun begins. And after a stiff tussle, life says, "Oh, say, what's the idea, can't you take a joke?" And for the first time you notice that you are sitting right on life's chest and you can afford to smile, and call it a day.

Life has most of us buffaloed. But the few who know the works manage to have a pretty good time at life's expense, while the buffaloed brotherhood snivvle in the corner. Ask the man who sits snivvling rather than put up a fight for the woman he loves. He is the boy who knows!

Jane Corbett Interprets the Mode

White ermine epaulets and collar, a wide leather belt, and a VERY military swagger to this dark blue novelty wool coat! (Courtesy of Lenief, Paris.)

New York, Oct. 15.

HATS seem to be interesting everybody—not just us. I mean, women, being women, just can't resist hats, especially when they change themselves so completely every time the clock ticks, but you'd think that the Parisian couturiers, being dressmakers and not milliners, wouldn't pay any too much attention to the hat situation.

But that's where you are wrong. In the recent collections in Paris, for instance, Chanel revived her hat business rather seriously. This is the first season that she has ever shown so many hats with her clothes. It has gotten so, this season, that women are ordering dresses with hats to match. Which does indicate a certain importance of hats, now doesn't it? Almost all the hats Chanel sells are small, slightly draped shaped, pulled toward the front over one eye, and with a bow at that point for emphasis.

Patou, too, has gone in for hats in a big way. One of his most successful is of felt, with a cushion brim and a large, soft crown, draped high in back at one side. It has a strap passing over the hair, like the pancake tams, but it is draped much higher in the back than most of these. And Molyneux is doing interesting things with the cushion brim—pressing it flat, for instance, and mounting it high on the crown sides, which gives comical, oblique lines that are ever so becoming.

Evidently the couturieres didn't want to take any chances on women spoiling the effectiveness of their garments by the wrong hat. And as the hats they themselves sell are lovely, individual and right, lovely ladies hope that they'll continue with side lines of millinery.

Novelty navy blue wool, and white ermine, and how.

And how it's put together, I mean—for you can see for yourselves, from the sketch I have made today, how extremely tricky the effect is. In the first place, the little stand-up ermine collar spreads out on either side in epaulets, and Lenief has emphasized the shoulder width even further by the way the cloth part of the shoulders is cut. Then, the waist is snugly encircled by a wide, shiny black patent leather belt with a square buckle. And then, the skirt of the coat is given fullness by inverted pleats, and the downward pointing incrustations at the hips only make more apparent the broad swagger of the shoulders.

The back of the coat is perfectly plain—if one may truthfully call the well-defined waist, the patent leather belt and the broad shoulders plain. Anything that gives such a trim and almost military air as this coat, though, certainly deserves to be shown from all angles.

And if you, my deahs, have decided that you just can't live without a wide-shouldered coat this winer, get one, and don't be subtle about it. The bolder the effect, the more smart the result, when you're thinking of shoulders.

• • • •

Really, there's nothing like a new blouse to make one think one has an entirely new outfit. And what a new outfit does to one's morale—well, really, my deah. So, for the sake of the ol' morale 'n' everything, better send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's blouse and vestee designs, and instructions for making them your very own self.

Au revoir.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

TWIN COWARD-MAKERS.

VULNERABILITY, like conscience, makes cowards of many Contract players. It is, of course, correct that with the added dangers which winning a game brings in the way of increased penalties for failure to make contracts, players should feel well assured of their ability to make any contract they undertake. On the other hand, the fact that they are liable for double penalties for failure to complete a contract has not changed in one particular the values of the cards they hold, although to watch the timid tactics of many players you would feel that this were true. A Contract statistician has figured out, probably correctly, that when one side has won a game and thus become vulnerable, the chance for the other side to win the second game and thus restore the balance is not even, as would ordinarily be figured, but is three to two in favor of the nonvulnerable side. This estimate takes into account expert play where timidity is not supposed to govern. It is unquestionably true that bold tactics by the nonvulnerable side frequently upset the plan of even strong vulnerable opponents. Take the hand below, played in a recent individual Masters' Tournament in which 25 holders of national titles competed.

North—Dealer.

North and South, not vulnerable.

East and West vulnerable.

	♠ J 10 8 ♡ 10 9 5 ◇ Q J 10 4 3 ♣ 7 4
♠ 9 4 2 ♡ 8 7 6 ◇ A 9 5 2 ♣ Q 3 2	N W E S	♠ K 3 ♡ A K J 4 3 ◇ K 8 6 ♣ A J 5
	♠ A Q 7 6 5 ♡ Q 2 ◇ 7 ♣ K 10 9 8 6

The bidding on this hand was a reflection of the temperament of the players. Against the strongest defense, South as Declarer with spades as trump must lose two hearts, two diamonds and one club due to the lack of entries in the Dummy, unless his opponents aid him in the play. East, as Declarer, and playing a heart contract, has no difficulty in making three-odd, and four is a possibility against anything but the most accurate defense. Actually, in the bidding, however, East and West rarely reached the contract of three and at several tables South was permitted to play a contract of two spades due to the bugaboo of vulnerability.

At one table an East player who had disregarded the fact of the added dangers due to the scoring situation and bid four hearts was successful in making it due to faulty discarding by the South player. At the opening South had chosen his Singleton diamond for his lead. This was won in the Dummy with the Ace and then the hearts were drawn, East refusing the finesse. East then won a trick with the King of diamonds and played his two remaining hearts. It looked like suicidal play, but South had bid both clubs and spades and East read him for ten cards in the black suits. This was confirmed as the play progressed. South, seeing the Queen of clubs in the Dummy and reading East for the Ace and Knave, unwisely discarded three clubs on the hearts and diamonds. East, who had been following the discards with close interest, then led the Ace of clubs and followed with the five. South was forced into the lead with nothing remaining in his cards but spades, and so, after taking the Ace of spades, was compelled to concede a trick to East's King. East thereby made five hearts, two clubs, two diamonds and one spade for a daring vulnerable contract.

At some tables, after North passed East bid one heart, South bid one spade, West passed and North, hoping to shut out further bidding by East, bid two spades. This showing of strength which did not exist proved effective and North and South played the hand at two spades.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The distribution of a thirteen-card suit in the four hands is called suit distribution.

The distribution of four suits in a hand of thirteen cards is called hand distribution.

Mathematically the percentage of frequency of one corresponds to that of the other. In practice there is this important distinction:

Suit distribution determines the available supply of long suit tricks.

Hand distribution determines the available supply of short suit (ruffing) tricks.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a 2-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GARDENS

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

WHY HOUSE PLANTS FAIL TO THRIVE.

AS I explained in this column a few weeks ago, you can not always tell why a house plant becomes dejected and ceases to put forth new growth, but there are some conditions which, if they exist where there are a few growing plants, we know by experience will interfere with the plants' welfare.

For example, if the plants are starved for water, which carries food; if they have insects on the lower sides of their leaves; or if they are standing in jardinieres with "wet feet," their leaves will turn yellow.

We may be reasonably sure when the ends of the shoots or ends of the leaves turn brown and become brittle that they are suffering from too hot or too dry air or perhaps both. We can easily lower the temperature of the room, but adding to its moisture requires more thought. The easiest way to do this is to spray the plants lightly three times a week. This method keeps the pores of the leaves open and also adds to the appearance of the plants. The best way to spray a few house plants is to carry them to the bathroom or laundry tubs and turn the shower on them.

Rubber plants, palms and ferns should be sprayed frequently with cold, soapy water. This will not only keep the foliage free from dust, but will also prevent red spiders.

As a rule, when a plant begins to drop its buds, as does the fuchsia or impatience sultana, you may be sure that you are giving it too much water or not enough sunlight. This is a condition that may be easily changed.

When such plants as the heliotrope or lantana become "leggy," meaning that the main stems of the plant are too long and the foliage is sparse, it is an indication that they need to be pinched back. It will not hurt them at all to cut them back a third.

All house plants should be submerged in water over the brim of the pot about once in two weeks. This should be made routine treatment, because this method of watering plants is sure to supply the necessary moisture for the lowest roots in the pot.

(Copyright, 1931.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

BABIES AND BOILS.

TO prevent epidemics of boils in a maternity hospital, Dr. O. R. Chadwell sees that the following plan is carried out, with no change in any detail:

Every newborn babe is washed with soap and water, just as has always been done. It is at this point the new treatment is begun. A 5 per cent ammoniated mercury ointment is thoroughly rubbed into the skin following the bath. Every skin area must be reached and the rubbing must be thorough.

A lick and promise rubbing will not do. The next day the baby, instead of being washed with soap and water is well rubbed with sterilized cottonseed oil. Other oils have been tried, but none equals this one. Thereafter, anointing with cottonseed oil takes the place of the daily bath. The folds of the skin and the hip regions should be given special attention by the annointer. Never, after that first bath given in the first hour of life, is the baby given a bath with soap and water—at least, as long as the physician is bossing.

This plan was inaugurated in the midst of an epidemic of boils in a maternity hospital. The method of cure they used was as follows: Rub 5 per cent ammoniated mercury ointment into the blisters and boils twice daily. Anoint the remainder of the baby's skin with a 3 per cent ammoniated mercury ointment once daily for three days. After that period use a daily inunction of sterile cottonseed oil. Do not wash the baby with soap and water. Keep all infected babies away from others. In this case a week or ten days served to bring the epidemic under control.

Dr. Chadwell says this method has been in rather general use in the hospitals of New England for more than six years. During that time no hospital in which it has been used has had an outbreak of impetigo. From the hospitals the method is gradually spreading to New England homes. No baby on whom this method has been properly used has developed this form of impetigo in six years, and not because the New England skin is better than any other. The meat of the situation is in the care given.

Dr. Chadwell advises that babies be greased rather than washed. His authority stops when the baby leaves the hospital, but he is doing his best to piece out authority with moral suasion.

The obstacles he must overcome are several. The laundresses object to the mercury and grease on the clothes. Mothers don't like the cottonseed oil odor. He permits the substitution of rose water ointment for cottonseed oil on those occasions, such as exhibitions and shows, when "baby is to be smelt." Another objection arises from the interference with custom. The baby's bath is pretty well "dug in." It interferes with dusting. Many women like to use dusting powders on babies. Dr. Chadwell thinks getting away from dusting powders is of great advantage.

BOY WHO STAMMERS.

Mrs. M. O. writes: I have a son 4 years of age. He stammers and rolls his eyes when he is trying to say something. Is there any cure for one so young What can I do to help him?

REPLY.

Now is the time to cure your boy. Cure is a matter of training. Your child must be quite nervous and instable.

Mae Murray Becomes An Oil Princess

New York (U.P.).—Mae Murray, film star and dancer, found wealth virtually in her own back yard when drillers struck oil on her Venice, Calif., seashore property, according to an interview in New Movie magazine.

The discovery, the article states, has made Miss Murray "a million dollar oil princess almost overnight," but in view of her kaleidoscopic career "is merely another of a series of surprising and thrillin events" that began with her birth in New York's lower East Side in 1895.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

ESSENTIALLY SMART.

Today's costume slip promises to be a leader in smart woman's wardrobe. The new frocks demand a slip that is fitted through the bodice and hips, as is this one. The gored circular skirt is decidedly slimming, as it hugs the figure, widening into a comfortaly full flaring hem.

Style No. 183 may be had in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 26 requires 2⅞ yards of 39-inch material, with 3½ yards of lace banding.

It's easily put together.

An effective way to join the skirt to the bodice is with hemstitching, done professionally, or it may be joined with French seaming.

It is equallly lovely made perfectly plain, or with lace trim.

ALEXANDRIA AMENDS NEW ZONE STATUTE

City's Financial Statement Shows Balance of $17,254 for October.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The new zoning ordinance, recently adopted by the city council of Alexandria, was amended yesterday when the council granted four applications for rezoning. The first of these comprises a rather large territory, lying north of Washington avenue, east of Mount Vernon avenue, south of Belfonte avenue and west of the Alexandria-Washington highway, designated as "A" residential zone; also the area now designated as "A" residential zone west of Mount Vernon avenue between Washington and Belfonte avenues, with a westerly depth of 325 feet from Mount Vernon avenue, all to be changed to "B" residential zone.

This will permit the erection of two-family dwellings. The other amendments referred to changes within the older portion of the city, permitting the use of property as a tea house and antique shop, respectively. A proposed amendment to allow the erection of a filling station at the southwest corner of Patrick and Wilkes streets was withdrawn.

The financial statement of the city, submitted by City Manager Wallace Lawrence, for September, showed a cash balance September 1, of $1,824.83; receipts during the month of $503,170.04; disbursements of $422,548.68, and a cash balance October 1 of $17,254.07.

Consolidation Urged.

At the request of William Albert Smoot, chairman of the United Charities, which is a consolidation of practically all charitable organizations in the city, the council appropriated $500 to meet the outstanding bills of the organization. It is understood that Mr. Smoot will shortly issue an appeal to the citizens of Alexandria, outlining the probable needs of the organization for the coming winter.

The resolution appropriating $1,500 for compensation for the five members of the city zoning and planning commission, introduced at the October 1 meeting, was passed. A resolution appropriating $1,350 for additional plumbing facilities at the city jail, recently ordered by the court, was introduced and held over under the rules.

The council rejected an application from the Criterion Advertising Co. for permission to erect advertising panels on store walls; an estimate of cost of improving Arlington avenue from Braddock road to Braddock street was returned to the city manager for further information; correspondence with the League of Virginia Municipalities in reference to an increase in annual dues from $200 to $400 was ordered laid on the table.

Asks Building Permit.

An application of W. W. Burroughs for a permit to build an additional room on his house at 1215 Duke street was granted; a petition for rezoning the 100 block of North Columbus street was held for consideration, as was a petition signed by 40 residents asking that the city withdraw a permit issued to Edward Duncan for building a house on Alexandria avenue and purchase the property from Mr. Duncan for park purposes, and an application from Newman H. Raymond for a permit to erect a filling station at the northeast corner of Mount Vernon and Belfonte avenues.

The application of Dr. Thomas B. Cochran for permission to resubdivide some lots in Jefferson Park was referred to the city attorney to confer with the petitioner, and the application of the Seventh Day Adventists, through J. Lee Price, real estate dealer, for a permit to erect a combination church and school building at the northwest corner of Dick street and Washington avenue was granted.

The mayor was authorized to execute an agreement with the Southern Railway Co. for the use of a part of the company's property loctaed between Lee, Union, Wilkes and Gibbon streets for playground purposes.

Two communications were received from the school board, one notifying the council that the terms of Mrs. John H. Abraham and Mrs. Neta Broaddus will expire December 1, which was held over. The mayor stated, in this connection, that Mrs. Abraham would not be a candidate for reelection, due to poor health, and tendered the thanks of the council to her for her efficient service. The other asked that trash cans be installed at the three schools in Potomac, and the matter was referred back to the school board with the information that this is a matter to be handled by that board and not by the council.

Montgomery May Get New Health Laboratory

The Montgomery County, Md., commissioners are considering an offer made by the State department of health to equip a modern health laboratory in the new Rockville courthouse, at a cost of approximately $1,500. The State in turn would provide a laboratory expert at a salary of $2,000 a year and provide the supplies for the unit. An assistant for the laboratory at a salary of $1,200 also would be provided by the State.

The proposal has been made informally to County Commissioner Lacy Shaw by Dr. Walter N. Kirkman, of the State bureau. The project would be of great value to the county, officials feel, and it is expected to come up for discussion at next Tuesday's meeting of the commissioners.

Mrs. Melnick to Head Arlington's Seal Sale

Mrs. Norbert Melnick, of Lyon Park, has been appointed as county chairman of the Christmas Seal sale in Arlington County for the fourth consecutive year. The sale, beginning Thanksgiving Day and ending Christmas, will be conducted under auspices and for the benefit of the county health department.

Confident that the quota of $2,000 for the work of the local antituberculosis association will be raised, Mrs. Melnick reminded residents of the county that the health seals are an investment as well as a charity.

Mrs. Belle Travis Dies.

Mrs. Belle Travis, aged 58 years, widow of Asher O. Travis, died yesterday at her home, 201 Oxford avenue, Alexandria. She is survived by a daughter and son, Mrs. Eva V. Simms and Harry B. Travis. Police of Hyattsville Get Sleuthing Course

A collection of "1,000 of the World's Best Detective Stories" now graces the Hyattsville station of the Prince Georges County police force, having been bought and given to the force by J. J. Crowley, chief of police.

Hereafter the policemen in their leisure hours will be refreshed with the startling exploits of Sherlock Holmes and Craig Kennedy, and at the same time will accustom themselves to an atmosphere of unvarying success in crime detection. Incidentally, the collection is in ten volumes, one for each man on the force, if one of them is working.

ARLINGTON SEEKING RED CROSS WORKERS

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

An appeal for workers is being made by Mrs. Bertha Kelly, chairman of the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Mrs. Kelly announced yesterday she has received a call from the national headquarters for 600 girls' dresses and 900 boys' shirts to be sent to the chapters of United States island possessions.

Mrs. Kelly says this work must be finished soon because the ship carrying the goods to the islands will leave within a month.

Headquarters in the Rucker Building at Clarendon will be open each Tuesday from 10 in the morning until 4 in the afternoon.

With the signing of deeds for rights of way for the Washington street approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge by L. R. Eakin, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth informed the county board of supervisors yesterday that all obstacles are removed and the county can proceed with grading the rights of way.

County Engineer C. L. Kinnier said last night he could not say when the work would be started.

In The Post of October 2 in an account of a citizens meeting in Lyon Park Carl A. Schulze was credited with saying he considered Sheriff Fields an efficient officer. This was an error, Mr. Schulze having said he considered the present personnel of the office as capable and if elected he intended retaining them. Mr. Schulze is a candidate for Sheriff Fileds' post.

13,000 Owners to Pay Montgomery Auto Tax

The office of the county treasurer of Montgomery County, Md., has started preparation of approximately 13,000 State and county tax bills for automobiles owned in the county. The bills will be mailed late in November after application blanks for automobile tags have been sent out by the motor vehicles commissioner of Maryland.

Application blanks must be perforated by the treasurer's office to show that taxes have been paid before license plates can be purchased. According to County Treasurer J. Forest Walker, Montgomery County automobiles are valued for tax purposes at approximately $2,500,000. They bear the same tax rate as other property, 25 cents on each $100 by the State, and $1.30 per $100 by the county.

Montgomery Red Cross Chapter to Meet Today

The Montgomery County Chapter of the American Red Cross will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Rockville High School. Plans for the annual roll call in November will be discussed. Mrs. Mina Church Brann, county chairman, will preside.

County Red Cross workers are anxious that the annual drive be carried on with special success this year in order that nutrition work in the county schools be carried on next year. The county will be given full credit for residents who subscribe to the roll call in the District.

MARYLAND SEEKING BIDS ON FOUR ROADS

Montgomery Projects Plan Extending Massachusetts as First Section.

The Maryland State Roads Commission today is advertising for bids for the construction of four important Montgomery County projects. The bids will be opened October 27 at the commission's office in Baltimore.

The two principal items are the construction of the first section of Massachusetts avenue extension and the widening of Frederick avenue through the Town of Gaithersburg, Md. The third project is for the construction of a section of State road on the Dickerson-Mount Ephraim road toward the county line, a distance of about 1 mile, and along the Dickerson-Martinsburg road for 0.96 miles. The first is to be built of concrete and the second of macadam. The fourth project is the construction of a double span concrete slab bridge on the road from Buck Lodge to Dawsonville over Buck Lodge Branch.

The Massachusetts avenue project calls for the construction of one section of State road from the District line to Little Falls Branch and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks, a distance of 0.73 miles. The roadway is to be 20 feet wide. Construction of the extension now will provide an improved road for the trucks of the contractor who secures the contract to build the underpass at the railroad tracks, which is to be built this winter. This will save the county $5,000 in the cost of the underpass.

The Gaithersburg project provides for paving the sides of the Frederick road and construction of curb and guttering along the road. This will provide a road 26 feet wide through the main street of the town.

Power Firm Is Ordered To Answer Rate Charge

In response to a complaint made by the town council of Laurel, Md., the Annapolis & Chesapeake Bay Light & Power Co. has been ordered by the Maryland Public Service Commission to answer the town's charges before October 30.

The town says that the price charged for electricity is "excessive, unjust and unreasonable," being much higher than in neighboring communities, which are smaller in size. The complaint also names the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co., of Baltimore, saying that this firm's connection with the Annapolis & Chesapeake Bay Co. is unknown, but that applications for service and other matters are handled through the Consolidated office in Baltimore.

Prince Georges Aiding Mt. Olivet Orphanage

Miss Agnes Duvall, Prince Georges County welfare worker, has been appointed with W. E. Pyles to manage a county campaign to raise a part of the $50,000 which the Mount Olivet Orphanage is attempting to collect throughout Maryland.

Of the 52 children now in the orphanage, 22 are from Prince Georges County. Many Prince Georges children also are on the waiting list of 100, and will not be able to enter the institution if aid is not forthcoming. Gov. Albert C. Richie, Mayor Jackson of Baltimore and Mayor Quenstedt of Annapolis, are among the patrons of the drive, which will continue from October 19 to 24.

Police Classes Are Announced.

Police Capt. John S. Arnold, of Alexandria, has announced that weekly instruction classes will be held for members of the police force each Wednesday at 3 p. m., at headquarters. The speaker at the class the coming week will be Commonwealth's Attorney Albert V. Bryan, and his subject will be the proper way to present evidence.

FIRE GROUPS NAMED IN PRINCE GEORGES

Enforcement of Regulations and Dispatching System Are Sought.

Appointment of committees to help enforce fire regulations and cooperate with the telephone company in establishing a central dispatching system for volunteer fire departments featured the regular meeting of the advisory board of the Prince Georges County Firemen's Association at Riverdale Heights, Md.

Plans for Christmas charity work by fire departments also were worked out, and a committee was chosen to make plans to borrow State association funds to repair equipment.

Chief Karl Young, of the Mount Rainier department, and T. Weston Scott will arrange for establishment of the dispatching system. This innovation, which has long been sought, will insure that only fire engines in the immediate vicinity will be sent to small fires, and will facilitate the calling of additional equipment to larger blazes. Agitation for the movement was started last fall by the death of a fireman, killed when his truck was overturned on the way to a fire where it was not needed.

Group On Enforcement.

The committee to aid in the enforcement of local ordinances was appointed after the advisory board had voted against appointing a county fire marshal and county fire chief. The committee, to be known as the county fire board, will take the place of these proposed officers. Fire board members are Chief Young, L. V. Moxley, T. W. Venneman, W. A. Simmel and William J. Tierney. They will inspect public buildings for hazardous conditions and will consult with fire marshals.

All firehouses will be designated as receiving stations for broken toys and clothing to be distributed to the poor this Christmas, the advisory board decided. Articles donated will be given to indigent persons in the neighborhood, and any surplus will be sent to the Associated Charities. Last Christmas the movement was inaugurated by the Bladensburg Fire Department, whose members repainted and repaired the broken toys.

Truitt Makes Appointments.

Dr. James A. Truitt, president of the county association, appointed Mr. Simmel, John J. Fainter, James E. Sampson, Dr. H. B. McDonnell and W. R. Beattie on the committee to arrange for money to repair fire equipment. The money is now being he'd until enough is raised for the establishment of a home for aged volunteer firemen. In the meantime, it will be available for loans to individual companies.

It was also decided that each company should appoint one member to assist visitors to the George Washington Bicentennial, and that the next meeting of the advisory board should be held in Mount Rainier.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ALTHOUGH it is no less reliable an authority than Craveth Wells, noted explorer who has lectured on numerous occasions before the membership of the National Geographic Society in this city, who conveys the assurance that lion stalking in Africa is not dangerous, after an experience with the police dog that lives next door, I'll do all of mine from a balloon, if it's all the same to him and you, and you, and you!

Mr. Wells states that lions are gentlemen who entertain no desire to start trouble, although if it happens to come along they take it in its stride and do the best they can—which usually is plenty good enough!

To prove his contention, he took an expedition into the Mountains of the Moon in Africa for the express purpose of showing the Dark Continent exactly as it is. Motion pictures were made of all that was done and the resultant film is said to represent a thorough debunking of such African thrill pictures as rely on "planted" situations for their effect.

"Hell Below Zero," as the picture is called, will be an added attraction at RKO-Keith's beginning today. According to Mr. Wells, the major difficulty in making it was not occasioned by lions, or any other wild jungle beasts, but by the elements. Down in the veldt he and his party were very, very hot; climbing up into the mountains they almost froze—sunburn and frozen feet almost at the same time.

One might prefer a milk-fed lion, at that!

A sudden switch in bookings, by the way, brings Lily Damita, Adolphe Menjou and Erich von Stroheim to RKO-Keith's today in "Friends and Lovers," instead of Helen Twelvetrees—or however many it was—and Ricardo Cortez in "Bad Company." If this picture is as good as its cast, that will be ample merit.

And since we are on the subject of cancellations and substitute bookings, it might interest you to know that on October 26 the attraction at the Belasco will be Mary Boland in "The Vinegar Tree," in place of Henri Bernstein's "Melo," originally penciled in for that date.

Miss Irene Weber, of the Fox publicity department, has resumed her official duties after having undergone the unpleasantness, to state it mildly, of a tonsil operation.

It will be welcome news to the dancing set that Club Chantecler, favored dance resort of Washington society, is scheduled to open on Thursday, October 29. Announcement was made to that effect from the offices of Meyer Davis yesterday.

Chantecler will be operated on a membership basis, as in the past, with supper dancing in order from 10 in the evening to about 3:30 a. m., thus making it possible to top off an evening of social gayety with a visit to the Thomas Circle rendezvous with the assurance that it will still be open.

Henry Albert, popular young musical director, will again conduct the Club Chantecler Orchestra.

Speaking of gala openings, Mischa Guterson is laying extensive plans for an inaugural of his new Club Michel, in the old Le Paradis establishment, a week from tomorrow night that will be long remembered as a bright spot in Washington's night life. This consummate showman knows his stuff and thus may many unaccustomed innovations be looked for during the course of one of the most elaborate floor shows the Capital has ever seen. Or so they tell me.

Report has it that Eddie Cantor's production of "Whoopee" has grossed in excess of $2,500,000 since its release. It has been estimated by close observers who have checked the early runs of "Palmy Days," his second for Samuel Goldwyn, opening at the Columbia today, that this new musical vehicle will in all probability double the gross of its predecessor, thus putting Mr. Cantor in the same class with one Charles Spencer Chaplin in the matter of drawing power.

In case you do not immediately recognize it, Louis Bromfield's "Twenty-four Hours," to be shown in film form at the Metropolitan, beginning tomorrow, is the same story that ran serially under the title of "Shattered Glass." So now you know.

It is something to pique the curiosity to note that the statisticians engaged by the Motion Picture Herald, foremost of the industry's trade publications, are at work on the data which will elect the fifteen Box Office Champions among the pictures of the 1930-31 season. In an early issue of this weekly magazine for exhibitors the list will be made public.

The selections are being made purely on the basis of earning power at the box office. In commenting on its effort to determine the best films from the viewpoint of the commercial exhibitor, the Herald says, in part:

"Let the critics rave as they will, it is the grand old American public, with its dollar in its hand, that votes in this election. The list may contain some surprises, but facts are facts and figures are figures. When pictures are to be evaluated by the show business, it is money that talks and nothing else says a word!"

I thought of that part about the figures watching the "Vanities" the other night!

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LESTER A. BARR

WITH a new apartment-hotel that strikes the most modern note yet heard in Washington, Lester A. Barr and his son, John L. Barr, have scored a new success! Public approval of their new John Paul Jones Apartments has been overwhelming: Weeks in advance of completion every apartment has been leased, and the building is now almost entirely occupied.

Mr. Barr is famous for his ability to predict trends in real estate and anticipate the needs of Washingtonians. The John Paul Jones is a striking example of this ability: A completely electrified apartment-hotel, geared to a modern tempo, with every comfort and convenience that can possibly make living a simpler and more economic matter for the office worker of today.

National Electrical Supply Company Equips Washington's First All-Electric Apartment

The first step for comfort and convenience was COMPLETE ELECTRIFICATION: In the kitchens L. & H. Electric Ranges and G. E. Electric Refrigerators have been installed by the National Electrical Supply Co. The L. & H. Range is a marvel of compactness, with three fast burners on the top and an oven underneath large enough for the biggest Thanksgiving turkey. The electric oven roasts meats in their own juices, just like a waterless cooker. It is a broiler, roaster, baker and fireless cooker, all in one, retaining the flavor, the mineral salts and the vitamins of the food.

Extra Convenience Made Possible Through Use of G. E. Refrigerator

The popular General Electric Refrigerator is installed in each apartment. Due to the fact that there is no machinery underneath the G. E., a little "delivery compartment" is cleverly installed below the refrigerator, with one door opening out into the hall and another opening into the kitchen. Groceries and milk can be delivered into this compartment at any hour of the day, whether the tenant is at home or not, and waste can be removed in the same manner.

Every G. E. Refrigerator is a unit by itself, connected with an easily-accessible wall plug. This enables each tenant to defrost his own machine whenever he wishes, without being subjected to the inconvenience of an arbitrary day for general defrosting, and also assures him of a regular, proper temperature at all times.

Electrical Ventilation—Built-in Radios And Many Other Advanced Features

A powerful ventilation system, operated by electric blowers, provides a rapid change of air in every kitchen and fills the halls and stairwells with a continual supply of pure, fresh air. Every apartment is equipped with built-in Radio. Quick-heating concealed radiators provide an extra safeguard against our changeable climate.

Roll-away beds, fold-away dining tables and seats, tamper-proof locks, carpeted hallways, an abundance of electrical outlets, mail chutes, fast elevators—all add to the convenience, the comfort, the VALUE of the John Paul Jones Apartments.

The National Electrical Supply Co. is proud to have contributed an important part to this achievement. In supplying the G. E. Refrigerators, the complete G. E. Wiring System with its many convenient wall plugs, and the L. & H. Electric Ranges, we feel that we have played a considerable part in the tremendous success of the John Paul Jones Apartments.

This success can mean but one thing: The public demands the finest electrical service and the finest electrical equipment. Nothing less will do. To builders who wish to erect successful apartments, to homeowners who seek real comfort, we point out the John Paul Jones Apartments as a striking example of what complete electrical service can mean to you as an investment and as an added comfort.

Come to our showrooms soon. Have us show you the equipment we can supply and tell you about the service we render. A few moments spent with us can prove very profitable.

● General Electric was the first to produce a complete line of all-steel cabinets—the greatest advance in refrigerator construction in the past 30 years. The Model SS-42, as installed in the John Paul Jones, is adequate for the smaller family, having over 8 square feet of food shelf area and making 48 ice cubes.

● Mr. Barr's choice of a complete G. E. wiring system shows that experienced real estate men have come to realize that electrical wiring is a highly specialized craft—too important to be handled by any but experts.

● L. & H. Electric Ranges have one-piece, welded ovens, porcelain inside and out, with corners rounded to make cleaning easy. It is rust-proof construction throughout—even the reverse side of oven walls next to the insulation. All joints are flush and easily cleaned. Ovens are heavily insulated with pure rock wool. L. & H. Electric Ranges have a well-earned reputation for economy of operation and low service costs.

UNBEATEN G. W. AND TULSA TEAMS CLASH TONIGHT

Bold Football Anticipated In Game

Both Teams Noted for Spectacular Play This Season.

Colonials Must Stop 3 "Triple Threats" of Invaders.

By JACK ESPEY.

NIGHT football makes its first appearance of the season here tonight when George Washington University's undefeated eleven engages the Tulsa University Golden Hurricane, also unbeaten, in Griffith Stadium, beginning at 8:15 o'clock. It is the first major test for Coach Jim Pixlee's team and offers the Colonials an opportunity to avenge a 14-to-7 defeat suffered at Tulsa last year.

Tulsa comes here touted as one od the strongest elevens in the Southwest. It holds the championship of the Big Four Conference of Oklahoma and has one of the leading coaches in the game, "Gloomy Gus" Henderson, the man who started Southern California on the road to football fame.

To date the Oilers have defeated Texas Christian, 1929 champion of the Southwest Conference, and Hendrix and Oklahoma Baptist, both minor teams in their section. The T. C. U. triumph, however, has established the formidability of the Oilers, for the decision was in every sense clean cut and was gained over a team that held a 21-pound weight advantage to the man.

G. W. Looms Stronger Than in 1930.

Tonight's game will answer the moot question as to the strength of the 1931 George Washington Team. With victories over Shenandoah, Elon and Boston University, none of which scored a single point, the Colonials generally are believed to be better than in 1930. But the real evidence will be found in the impending contest.

A spectacular game is anticipated. Both teams are exponents of daring tactics, willing to take chances at any stage of the fray. Tulsa scored its first touchdown against Texas Christian by negotiating a forward pass from its own 30-yeard line on fourth down.

If Johnny Fenlon, quarter back, gets into the tussle for George Washington, supporters of the local team may well look for a great passing attack. However, it is not certain that this fiery youngster, who throws a football like a baseball, will see action because of an injury to his ankle. In the event he can not play, Joe Carter will move from a half back position to call the signals, with "Otts" Kriemelmeyer, Washington boy, taking the half back post.

Tulsa Squad Holds Brief Practice.

The Tulsans arrived here yesterday and, after visiting President Hoover at the White House, indulged in a fifteen minute drill at the stadium. Coach Henderson sent his charges through signal, punting and passing practice and then led them back to their hotel to prepare for an evening of entertainment. They were the guests of the Oklahoma State Society last night at a banquet-dance at the Meridian Mansions.

George Washington for the second day in succession engaged in two sessions of practice, one in the afternoon at the Tidal Basin and the other at night in the stadium under the arc lights. Coach Pixlee stated as the preparation ceased that he believed his club had "about an even chance to win."

Tulsa will concede an advantage in weight of about 5 pounds to the man. The visitors' leading offensive threats are "Ish" Pilkington, 185-pound full back and captain; Billy Boehm, quarter back; Frank Green, half back, and "Chuck" Keeling, a dynamic 139-pounder, who is the chief back field reserve. Pilkington, Green and Boehm are all "triple-threaters."

If Kriemelmeyer performs, Washington will have two representatives on the Colonial team. Frank Blackstone, former Central High School star, is the regular center and one of the team's defensive mainstays.

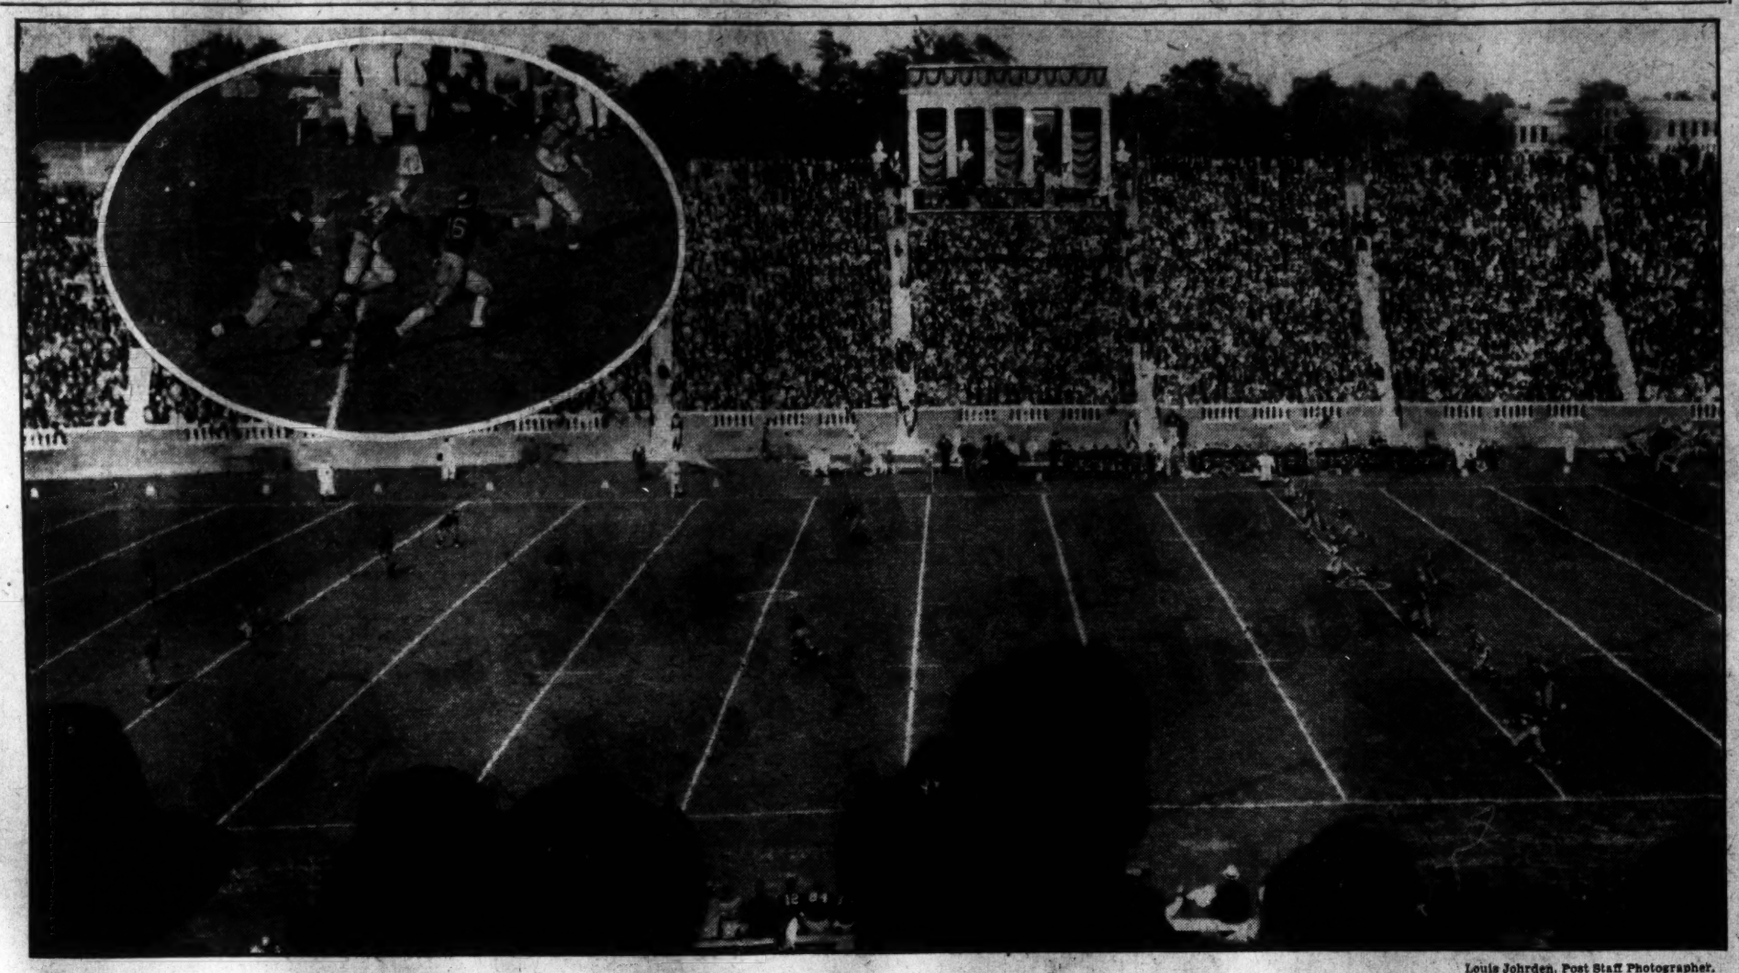
The Opening Kick-Off in Dedication of New Virginia U. Stadium With Defeat by V. M. I.



Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

The vastness and the beauty of the new $300,000 Frederic William Scott Stadium, at Charlottesville, Va., is portrayed in the remarkable camera shot above taken from the press box on the west side of the field yesterday as the Virginia-V. M. I. game got under way. In the inset is "Stumpy" Travers, Alexandria youth, dashing down the sidelines on his 75-yard run that put V. M. I. in position for its first touchdown in the 18-3 defeat of Virginia in the dedication game.

12,000 Watch V. M. I. Beat Virginia

Travers Hero in 18-3 Victory as Stadium Is Dedicated.

By DILLON GRAHAM

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Virginia's home-coming and stadium dedication was spoiled here today by a chunky little cadet, "Stumpy" Travers, who paced his Virginia Military Institute Team in an 18-to-3 victory over the Cavaliers in Scott Field's opening contest.

It wasn't in the books for this 160-pound junior from Alexandria to score any of the points, but it was his broken field running and defensive alertness that paved the way for two scores.

Travers' 75-yard return of a kick-off in the second period placed the Cadets in position for their first touchdown shortly after Virginia had counted its only points, a field goal by Bryant.

Presentation Made By Byrd.

Frederic William Scott, of Richmond, donor of the new gridiron amphitheater, sat in the president's box along with other distinguished guests, as former Gov. Harry F. Byrd presented the gridiron field and stadium to Lieut. Gov. James H. Price, who accepted for the State.

After a scoreless first period, a short kick gave the Cavaliers the ball on V. M. I.'s 28-yard line, after the punt had been run back 15 yards. The line thrusts and a pass failed, but on a fourth down Bryant neatly dropped his placement between the bars.

Two minutes more and the Cadets had scored. Travers took the kick-off on his 5-yard line and shifted behind his interference to the 30-yard line, then struck for the sidelines and was clear. Edgar, Virginia half back, pulled him down from the rear on the 80-yard line, but this merely slowed the Cadets temporarily, for on the fourth succeeding play Waite shoved over the line for the score.

Virginia Drive Checked.

Virginia came back strong, running the kick-off to the 35-yard line and plunging and passing their way to V. M. I.'s 38, but here Travers stepped into action again and pulled down one of Thomas' passes just before the half ended.

A 50-yard drive midway in the third period culminated with a pass from Smith to Gregory, substitute for Urich, over the goal line, brought the Cadets their second score. A first down surprise pass had failed, but the 19-year-old quarter back, William Smith, of Birmingham, gambled again on a toss over the goal line and found Gregory waiting for it.

In the last period, with Virginia trying wild passes in an effort to score, Travers took his last bow. He intercepted another of the frequent forwards by Thomas and ran from midfield to the Cavaliers' 16-yard line. Four plays later Waite plunged over the score.

The crowd was estimated at 12,000 persons.

Anderson Seeks Power For Notre Dame Attack

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Coach Hunk Anderson today continued his shaking up of the Notre Dame squad as he hunted for more offensive power. The shaking extended to the third and fourth teams today, with Half Back Ray Brancheau being sent from the second team to the fourth and Stumpy Cronin moving to Branc Eau's place from the third eleven. Today's assignment was scrimmage games between four varsity combinations and a like number of freshmen teams.

STEELE AND SHIKAT IN BATTLE

Title Contenders Will Clash in Auditorium Feature.

ONE of the few wrestling matches promulgated here in the last five years where one of the matmen was not an odds-on favorite to win will open Matchmaker Joe Turner's indoor season at the Washington Auditorium tonight when Ray Steele and Dick Shikat, two of the greatest, meet in a two-hour time limit match, one fall, to decide a logical opponent for Jim Londos, champion of the Curley wrestlers.

There is little to choose between the two 220-pound men. Both are veterans in their profession, fast, clever and, most important of all, able to put on a good show. Shikat has beaten Londos, Steele has not. The latter has been given six chances in the year and a half the Greek has reigned over this neck of the wrestling woods. Shikat has not wrestled Londos since he lost his title to the present holder in June, 1930.

The remainder of tonight's card is more according to the Hoyle of wrestling. In the semifinal Sandor Szabo meets John Katan, Doc Wilson entertains Knute Hanson, George Hagan, the reformed Marine, returns to Washington to wrestle Farmer Bill Nelson, and Mike "Gentleman" Romano vs. a Turkish gentleman whose name for the time being has been set as Abe Kasley.

Gallaudet's Revamped Backfield Faces Aviators

With a revamped back field, Gallaudet College's eleven tomorrow will visit Langley Field, Va., seeking its first victory of the season at the expense of the Air Corps team of that place. Coach Teddy Hughes has placed Gamblin and Hnatow, a pair of reserves, at the full back and quarter back positions in the hope of strengthening his offense.

Williams and Walnoha will round out the ball-carrying group, while the Blues will have in the line Monaghan and Brown, ends; Delp and Grinnell, tackles; Antilla and Stack, guards, and Davis, center.

To date, Gallaudet has lost to Loyola, of Baltimore, and Catholic University by decisive scores.

Howard Squad of 27 Leaves for Charleston

A squad of 27 players, accompanied by Coach Verdell and assistant coaches and trainers, left Howard University last night for Charleston, W. Va., where they will meet Saturday night in the Municipal Stadium the eleven representing West Virginia State College. It will be the first engagement of the Bisons under the arc lights.

The squad has been warned against overconfidence because of its 69-6 victory over the Johnson C. Smith Team last week, when the first string was used during two quarters only. Dependence for victory is placed in the back field, consisting of Marshall, Hall and Perkins, all regarded as triple threats.

Gonzaga 32-0 Victor Over Eastern

Keegin Scores Three Times in Rout of Series Team.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE greatest Gonzaga High School football machine since the halcyon days of Bozek, Farrell, Himmelberg, Tobin, Genau and Colliere stepped on the gridiron yesterday and yanked the school's colors back into the limelight with a brilliant, heady, annihilating 32-0 victory over Eastern High, last year's ranking No. 2 public high team. Two thousand partisan followers of scholastic football lent a deafening presence.

A set of hard-running, straight-arming backs carried Gonzaga to victory yesterday, headed by Joe "Butch" Keegin, a high-stepping ball toter of the Bozek type, who raced to three thrilling touchdowns, one of which, in the last quarter, found him clicking off 90 yards to tally. Gonzaga's two remaining touchdowns came pretty much like manna from the air. The first of these saw Mulcare stabbing a 20-yard pass from Joe Mills to gallop an unhampered 40 yards to a touchdown, and the second found none other than Left Guard Ed Quigley, a young hippo of 200-odd pounds, intercepting an Eastern heave and waddling 33 yards to a touchdown behind perfect interference.

Eastern's Line Listless.

Eastern was in hot water from the start, and aided their downfall by generally vague and ofttimes listless play. Tony Palmer was their sole might. The battering full back showed two real bits of ground gaining during the rain-threatening afternoon. One came late in the last quarter, after Boyd passed well to Smith, who ran 35 yards to Gonzaga's 20-yard line. Palmer hit the unbending Gonzaga line until his team ran out of downs, and only made 8 yards. His other was an inconsequential 15-yard gain in midfield in the second quarter.

Gonzaga's charging lineman sprayed through the loose Eastern line like a loose fire hose to open the way for the first touchdown. Palmer had muffed a Gonzaga punt on Eastern's 35-yard line, and the Purple team crashed its way the 35 yards with

G. U. Clashes Tonight With Duquesne

Special to The Washington Post.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 15.—Both Duquesne and Georgetown will present teams weakened by injuries when they clash tomorrow night under the floodlights at Forbes Field. The Hilltoppers left three backs—Bradley, Geills, Maczees—at home due to injuries.

The Dukes have two injured members on their squad—Al Krankota being out of action probably for the rest of the season and Nick De Carbo's shoulder injury making his extensive use at his guard position impossible.

The Georgetown contingent, 40 strong, arrived tonight at 7 o'clock. After a light meal and a rest Coach Tommy Mills took his men to Forbes Field, where they followed the Dukes in a half-hour workout under the huge floodlights. The Hoyas went through their maneuvers with a snap and determination which bodes ill for the local night riders.

Though past performances indicate a Georgetown victory, Coach Tommy Mills expects Duquesne to give his club an even contest, because of the Georgetown losses, but he is unwilling to venture a prediction on the outcome. This game would have been in the category of a "breather" for the Hilltoppers had they been able to place their strongest team on the field.

The forward pass probably will be Georgetown's best weapon, for the supply of backs is not large enough to use the running game extensively. Leroy Bordeau, plunging full back of the visitors, is nursing an injury to his knee, but will see action nevertheless.

Harvard Ends Drills For West Point Game

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 15 (U.P.).—Harvard's untested football team finished practice for the Army game today and will entrain for West Point tomorrow morning. Only two members of the squad will be unable to play because of injuries. They are Jack Healey and Eddie Rogers, third-string guards.

35 Purdue Gridmen Leave for Wisconsin

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Purdue's football squad of 35 players entrained for Madison, Wis., tonight intending to keep their Big Ten record clear at the expense of the University of Wisconsin Saturday. With White and Horstmann still on the injured list, the probable line-up of the team appeared as follows: Moss and Calvert, ends; Husar and Boswell, tackles; Lettsinger and Volnoff, guards; Miller, center; Pardonner, quarter back; Risk and Purvis, half backs, and Yunevich, full back.

5,000 WATCH DEAD HEAT STAGED

Bets Split at Jamaica as Oil Queen, Sir Jonathan Tie.

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The 5,000 race fans who journeyed to the Jamaica track today saw the first dead heat of the year in the opening event, when the Dorwood Stable's Sir Jonathan and W. H. Travers' Oil Queen came to the finish locked in their strides and the judges were unable to separate them.

The placing judges hung out both numbers and the big crowd seemed perfectly satisfied with the result.

Fourteen plater juveniles paraded with Sir Jonathan favorite, while Oil Queen was backed down from 30 to 1 to 10 to 1. It was a very pretty race to watch. Sir Jonathan led Oil Queen by a very small margin to the top of the stretch, where Oil Queen took a head advantage. However, coming into the final sixteenth Sir Jonathan came again and in a furious drive both horses flashed over the line on even terms.

All wagers made on Sir Jonathan and Oil Queen are split. For instance a $2 bet on Sir Jonathan at 3 to 2 means that the bettor gets a return of $2.50. One dollar bet on Oil Queen at 10 to 1, the lucky one gets back $5.50.

C. U. Varsity, Frosh Elevens Play Today

Halting the scoring rush of a thoroughly aroused varsity is the problem which today is confronting Catholic University Freshmen eleven when the two teams get together in a football testimonial to the Knute Rockne Memorial Fund at Brookland. Play starts at 2:30 o'clock and a 25-cent admission charge has been established.

Though decidedly the "underdog," the first-year men yesterday impressed with their show of confidence. Furthermore they aroused the indignation of their upper classmen by declaring that not more than three touchdowns represented the difference between the two factions.

Special drills on defense have been stressed by Coach Eddie La Pond during the past two days.

LEONARD VS. LIVAN.

Boston, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, will take another step in his comeback journey here on October 27 when he meets Vittorio Livan, rugged Italian middleweight, in a 10-round feature bout at the arena.

IRISH PREPS DRILL.

The Notre Dame Preps will work out Saturday at 12:30 p. m., at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue northwest, in preparation for their game Sunday with the Trojans in the Capital City League.

SCRIMMAGE FOR PETS.

The Petworth Pennants will scrimmage tonight at 7:30 o'clock on the Iowa Avenue Playgrounds. Coach Johnny Fitzgerald wants all players on the squad to report promptly.

Sammy West Has Secret Operation

Believes Ailing Arm Is Cured, Griffith Is Advised.

UNBEKNOWN to Clark Griffith, owner of the Nats, Outfielder Sammy West underwent an operation on his ailing throwing arm last week at Chicago and is gratified by indications of its success, it was learned yesterday.

Troubled by attacks of lameness in his arm throughout the latter part of the 1931 campaign, West became impatient when attempted cures failed to remove the growth that had formed in the elbow of his throwing arm and sought out Dr. Kruescher, of Chicago, who had successfully operated on the arms of Urban Faber, Lou Gehrig and Marty McManus.

Maintaining a batting average of .328 throughout the past season, West was one of the most valuable members of the Washington Team when he was able to take his place in the outfield, and after the season closed he determined upon a "kill-or-cure" course for his sore arm.

Faber Hurled Winning Game Within Month.

In 1924, Dr. Kruescher operated on the pitching arm of Faber on April 21, and a month later, to the day, the White Sox veteran went the route in a winning game. Gehrig and McManus both pronounced their operations a complete success after visits to the Chicago specialist.

In his dispatch to Griffith, West declared that he was certain that a cure had been effected and was eager to give his arm a tryout in spring training camp at Biloxi.

CollegesRally To Cause of Charity

Teams in All Sections Planning Games in Response to Plea.

Tennessee, Far West, "Big Six" Schools Eager to Play.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Given impetus by the decision of eight leading Eastern elevens to engage in two football rodeos at New York and New Haven early in December, the campaign to mobilize the Nation's gridiron forces in the cause of unemployment relief took on fresh vigor today.

From every section of the country came reports that indicated the various conference and colleges were prepared to suspend their rules relating to post-season play and strike a lick for President Hoover's committee. The response was remarkable, considering the fact that Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee, broached his plan only yesterday.

The "tournament" idea, which originated with E. K. Hall, chairman of the national football rules committee, also promised to prove popular. Its very novelty, members of the President's committee felt, was certain to attract capacity crowds.

Carnivals at New Haven And Yankee Stadium

Yale, Brown, Dartmouth and Holy Cross already have agreed to clash in a four-cornered carnival at New Haven on December 5, while Princeton, Pennsylvania, Columbia and Cornell will hold their battle royal four days later at the Yankee Stadium. In each instance there will be three 20-minute jousts, the winners in the first two meeting in the final. The action should be sudden and continuous.

Among those offering their gridiron services today were the University of Tennessee and the University of Dayton. Officials of both institutions immediately began seeking suitable opponents. A postseason game at Denver on December 5 also was announced as "reasonably certain," with expectations of a crowd of 30,000. Possible pairings included the Universities of Colorado and Wyoming, Denver University and an intersectional rival, or the Utah All-Stars against an Eastern Rocky Mountain picked team.

Missouri Rivals May Clash.

Plans were under way for a game at St. Louis between the University of Missouri and the winner of the Thanksgiving Day game between Washington University and St. Louis University. Members of the "Big Six" were said to be generally willing to enter any kind of postseason competition, but awaited permission from the faculty council, which meets Saturday.

Members of the Western, or "Big Ten" Conference, were marking time pending a decision from the ruling body. The movement was gaining in all the small Midwest conferences.

District Charity Games Topic of Parley Today

Efforts to secure the aid of local colleges in a program of football games for unemployment relief will be discussed today at 1 p. m. in a meeting at the University Club called by George J. Adams, executive secretary of the District committee on unemployment relief.

The identity of the persons requested to attend could not be learned last night as Mr. Adams, though known to be in the city, could not be located. While it is presumed that representatives of local colleges will attend, a canvass of the various institutions disclosed that no official invitations had thus far been received.

Georgetown University and Catholic University were formally declared to be in favor of charity games and each announced its willingness to play following the regular season, which closes in late November.

Speaking for Catholic University, Arthur J. Bergman, athletic director, stated:

"While the rector, Father R[illegible]n, is out of town, I feel certain that this institution will do its bit and will play any team that may be secured as an opponent, whether it be a local team or from another city. This does not mean, however, that Catholic University is extending any challenges."

The Rev. Timothy Dineen, moderator of athletics of Georgetown, replying to a query in Pittsburgh where he is accompanying the Hilltop eleven for its game with Duquesne University, declared that Georgetown is taking definite steps toward arranging a postseason charity game and that a decision as to the selection of its opponent will be made upon his return early next week.

Father Dineen stated that he personally preferred that the game be played with Maryland University.

George Washington University is believed to have started negotiations for a charity game but no details in the matter have been revealed.

Mrs. Shock Winner Of Army-Navy Crown

Mrs. Shock was crowned women's golf champion of the Army and Navy Country Club yesterday afternoon when she defeated the favorite, Mrs. Osborne, 2 and 1 in one of the best matches of the year. Mrs. Shock shot an 87 to accomplish the trick, while Mrs. Osborne's total was 91.

In all, champions in six flights were ordained. Mrs. Upham won the second flight, defeating Mrs. Keefer; Mrs. White, the third, defeating Mrs. Royce; Mrs. C. R. Moore, the fourth, defeating Mrs. Andrews; Mrs. Booth, the fifth, defeated Mrs. Calver, and Mrs. Jones, the sixth, defeating Mrs. Kimbrough.

Consolation flights were won by Mrs. Luscomb, Mrs. McNair, Mrs. Coxe, Mrs. Merchant, Mrs. Garges and Mrs. Mahan. The losers were, respectively, Mrs. Barroll, Mrs. G. F. Moore, Mrs. Garber, Mrs. Mueller, Mrs. Grimes and Mrs. Tuke.

Eli Eleven Nets $600,456, Paying for All 1931 Sports

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Football continued its reign as a million dollar sport at Yale during 1930, netting a profit of $600,456.92, which was used in wiping out deficits incurred by less lucrative sports.

The Athletic Association ended its fiscal year June 30, 1931, without a surplus, but the revenue from football saved it from the red side of the ledger in its athletic financial affairs.

A financial statement issued today by H. F. Woodcock, general manager of the Athletic Association, showed that football had contributed gross receipts of $1,140,568.63 to the gross revenue of $1,225,121.62 realized during the year from university athletic activities. From the football receipts were deducted disbursements of $540,011.71, which included payments to visiting teams.

The gross receipts from all sports, including football, showed a decrease over those of 1929-1930, when the association reported gross revenue of $1,270,204.11, of which $1,164,964.38 came from football. A net profit of $230,009.43 was realized for the year, this amount being applied toward previous liabilities and to new plant construction and improvement costs.

With the exception of football, all of the sixteen university sports were operated at a loss. Rowing ended the year with the largest deficit. This sport brought in only $2,228.77, as against disbursements of $80,284.11, leaving a deficit of $78,055.34. Track and cross-country was responsible for the next largest deficit, one of $55,382.68. This sport was maintained at a cost of $57,939.23 and brought to the association's coffers only $2,556.55.

BURGOO KING, FATOR UP, WINS LAUREL SPRINT FEATURE

Bradley Colt Scores Over Snap Back

Mack Garner Rides Fortunate Youth to Victory in Fifth.

Hagerstown Defeats Stepping Sister in Opener.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Oct. 15.—After being badly outrun during the first half of the race, Sun Friar, owned by Mrs. Olive Curtis, let loose a burst of speed to win the seventh race by three lengths from Angry Plume and Squeeze Play, which finished in that order. Jockey G. Ellis piloted the winner, which paid $9.70 in the $2 mutuels.

Six furlongs had been passed, with Angry Plume apparently churning out a victory, when Sun Friar made his bid. Ellis took the horse forward with a rush and sent him on the inside of the pack rounding the far turn. Here he overtook Angry Plume and Squeeze Play and drew away steadily. Angry Plume, weakening fast in the final quarter, managed to hold a neck lead over Squeeze Play at the Wire.

Burgoo King Wins.

Two-year olds of stake quality started in the St. Michaels, the feature. Edward R. Bradley's Burgoo King, L. Fator in the saddle, won by two lengths. Brookemeade Stable's Snap Back was second, a nose in front of John F. Schorr's Frederick. The time was 1:12 2-5 for the 6 furlongs.

Burgoo King, a son of Bubbling Over—Minawand, a rangy chestnut colt, is a candidate for the $10,000 Spalding Lowe Jennings Handicap here, as also is Frederic, the third horse. Merry Fox, which ran fourth, is pointed for the same stake. Rabbit Skin, Mrs. J. H. Whitney's entry, a filly, is to start in the Selima as well as the Jennings.

Frederic was first off, with Snap Back and Rabbit Skin close up. Turning into the stretch, Fator challenged with Burgoo King, and taking the lead at the eighth, drew away.

The winner paid $4.50.

There was another large crowd out today. The pari-mutuel intake is running close to $400,000 daily. There has been a reduction in railroad fare from Washington and Baltimore, which doubtless has helped to increase attendance.

Garner Scores Victory On Fortunate Youth.

Sylvester W. Labrot made no mistakes when he got Mack Garner, in the absence of P. Remillard because of illness, to ride Fortunate Youth in the fifth race. Garner brought the horse home by a length and a half and he paid $7.80. Howard Bruce's Avalon was second, ridden out, but not quite good enough to win. Mouthpiece was third. The time was 1:12 2-5. Philip got a step at the gate, but Fortunate Youth was soon in front and had things his own way. The winning tied Garner with Nertney for leadership of winning jockeys here, with eight each.

The sixth race was run in the rain as the clouds spread darkness over the course. The Greentree Stable's Measure was the winner and odds-on favorite, but she barely saved the purse by a nose from Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Boundless Deep. A. G. Weston's Dancing Mack was third. The winner paid $3.20. There were only five starters. Dancing Mack unseated Nergey at the barrier.

Bub McFarland came from behind under a waiting ride by Maiben to win the third race by a length and a half from Mrs. T. J. Donohue's Hold, which set a fast pace and ran the best race he had shown this season, but was overhauled at the sixteenth. M. Lowenstein's John Mackler was third. Syriac was close to the pace to the eighth pole, when he was shunted back to fourth. The time was 1:46 1-5, a mile and a sixteenth. The winner was heavily backed and paid $4.

All Told Is Winner In Second Race.

H. R. Dulany's All Told scored in the second race, for maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Frederick Johnson's What Have You closed fast and was second. E. J. Booth's Sir Wrack was third. Sir John Alden, which stands near the top for number of defeats and which has many times been favorite, as he was today, ran one of the worst races of his career. The winner was well played, paying only $8.90. Launcelot and Sir Wrack set the early pace. Coltiletti came to the front with All Told in the stretch. What Have You was $12.80 a place. Kitty Graves delayed the start and fell at the gate with Jockey Creager. The time was 1:45 1-5, a mile and 70 yards.

J. D. Baker's Hagerstown, after racing Gurgler into defeat, won the first dash for 2-year-olds by a length. E. J. Booth's Stepping Sister, one of the favorites, closing fast in the stretch, saved the place, while Gurgler, early pacemaker, was third and Johnny fourth.

—Laurel Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 15.—Again the Laurel Program features a steeplechase, the renewal of the Warrenton, for 3-year-olds, 2 miles, and with $3,000 added, tomorrow.

SPAR, Mrs. John Hay Whitney's young jumper, which won the rich Harbor Hill, at Aqueduct, will make his first start in Maryland, and will be favorite over DIONYSOS, which he easily defeated in the Harbor Hill. DIONYSOS should be the contender and has improved during his Maryland campaign. BAROMETER is a promising young jumper of the E. R. Bradley Stable and has a good chance to get in the money. Mrs. Durant has, besides DIONYSOS, POLINOS, which pair will be coupled. Richard Whitney, of Wall street; J. Stern, and Mrs. Nat Ray each has a horse in the race, the three running as an entry. Eight have been named to go.

FIRST RACE—SUN TWEED is liked by the clockers for the first race for maiden 2-year-olds. WHITE FLIER, which has trained well in New York and ran close up in some races, should be a dangerous contender. TINY WRACK is in top form and may be heard from.

THIRD RACE—BLUE VIOLET is selected in the third race for maiden 2-year-old fillies. She has worked well and is ready for brackets. ZOSARA has speed and probably will be the contender. BETHROTHAL can do better than recent races show.

FOURTH RACE—Very ordinary horses start here, with DADDY NELSON seemingly having the best chance. WANDERING GOLD is overdue and has been in no cheaper field. He has worked fast, but has a bad post position in a large field, No. 1, on the rail. BUTTER JOHN can hold his own in this field and should get in the money.

FIFTH RACE—The Manor, for 2-year-olds, at a mile, is the feature on the flat and has attracted some fleet ones. W. S. Kilmer's SUNMELUS, which ran away from Mrs. J. H. Whitney's OVERTIME at Havre de Grace, should repeat in this $1,500 purse event, as OVERTIME was second to the Sun Briar colt when the two met at Havre. MASKED KNIGHT, of the W. R. Coe entry, should hold the others safe, unless THE CRANE should slip into the money.

SIXTH RACE — THE HEATHEN takes off a great deal of weight and should finish on the front end. He was conceding too much to the field in his last start and was lucky to be third. OUTBOUND is speedy and will be the contender over the mile and a quarter route. DUNLIN'S LAD was second the other day, in front of THE HEATHEN, and at equal weights with the Pierce horse, should not be able to finish in front of him, but should be as good as third.

SEVENTH RACE—ROCKSLIDE is ready, and this should be the occasion for him to win his yearly purse at this track. FAIR BILL and BOB SHANNON look like the most probable contenders. They should finish second and third in the order named.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HAGERSTOWN, $8.20, $3.80, $3.00; STEPPING SISTER, $5.10, $3.50; GURGLER, $9.50.

HAGERSTOWN, moving into a forward position and forcing a good pace, wore GURGLER down when entering the home stretch and had enough left to withstand STEPPING SISTER. Latter, slow to settle in her stride, came to the outside when moving up and finished full of run in the middle of the track. GURGLER had good early speed, saved ground and held on gamely. JOHNNY finished courageously under stiff pressure. TRIPLE THREAT showed a good test. PLAYING lacked speed and could not reach the leaders. FIPE stumbled at the break and fell back. She went wide thereafter.

SECOND RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:15. Off at 2:22. Winner, H. R. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ALL TOLD, $8.90, $5.00, $4.20; WHAT HAVE YOU, $12.80, $10.00; SIR WRACK, $8.50.

ALL TOLD, steadied along in near attendance of the leaders, secured racing room on the inside when moving to SIR WRACK, shook the latter off after a brief spurt and outstayed WHAT HAVE YOU. Latter, a keen contender from the start, was forced to race on the outside of the field, but continued willingly to the drive. SIR WRACK assumed command midway of the back stretch, saved ground thereafter, but faltered through the closing furlong. TUSCAN KNIGHT raced well placed early, and closed gamely. LAUNCELOT, hustled from the start, was not good enough when the final test came. SIR JOHN ALDEN weakened when put to a drive. The others were outrun.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:51. Winner, E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BUB M'FARLAND, $4.00, $2.70, $2.30; HOLD, $3.70, $3.00; JOHN MACKLER, $2.90.

BUB M'FARLAND, outrun for the first five furlongs, was taken to the outside when making his run, closed fast and ran when straightened into the home stretch and wore HOLD down in the final sixteenth. HOLD sprinted into a good lead, raced under restraint until midway of the far turn, drew away momentarily, but weakened during the final furlong. JOHN MACKLER, prominent from the start, made repeated efforts early, but was not good enough in the closing test. SYRIAC reached a contending position on the outside, but was weakened.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The St. Michaels. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:25. Off at 3:33½. Winner, E. R. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BURGOO KING, $4.50, $3.00, $2.60; SNAP BACK, $3.50, $3.20; FREDERICK, $4.20.

BURGOO KING, away promptly, raced in close pursuit of the pacemakers, went to the outside of the leaders approaching the home stretch, lost ground, but finished strongly and was full of running away at the end. SNAP BACK, coming forwardly and forcing a stiff pace, met with slight interference nearing the final furlong pole, secured racing room in the final sixteenth and outstayed FREDERICK. Latter, driven hard to hold his position next the inner rail in the opening furlong, responded to punishment and held on gamely. MERRY FOX worked his way up on the inside, took a brief lead when swerving through on the inside of the leaders, but was outrun thereafter.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:00. Off at 4:02½. Winner, S. W. Labrot's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FORTUNATE YOUTH, $7.80, $4.80, $3.30; AVALON, $5.90, $4.50; MOUTHPIECE, $7.80.

FORTUNATE YOUTH raced PHILLIP into early submission, took command midway of the far turn, saved ground to draw clear midway of the home stretch and had something in reserve at the end. AVALON broke fast, raced in close pursuit of the pacemakers and held on stoutly for the final issue. MOUTHPIECE moved ground when entering the home stretch and closed gamely. GOLDEN PRINCE, on the inside for three furlongs, lost considerable ground entering the home stretch, but finished strong.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,500; allowances. The Haletharpe. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:35. Off at 4:37½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MEASURE, $3.20, $2.50, $2.10; BOUNDLESS DEEP, $4.60, $2.60; DANCING MACK, $2.30.

MEASURE, kept close to the leaders going to the first turn, went up on the inside when reaching the back stretch, raced through a narrow passage between the pacemakers at the far turn to take command and, vigorously handled, just lasted long enough. BOUNDLESS DEEP, reserved while in near attendance of his field, responded stoutly and fought it out with rare courage in the final drive. DANCING MACK, hard ridden from the start, outstayed SUNEROS after dropping back at the final turn. SUNEROS had nice speed for seven furlongs, but weakened.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:05. Off at 5:10½. SUN FRIAR, badly outrun for the first six furlongs, went into contention with a rush, securing racing room on inside roundins far turn, went into lead approaching final furlong pole and drew out steadily at the end. ANGRY PLUME displayed high early speed and drew clear, but weakened fast in the final quarter.

MARYLAND U. MUST STOP KELLY TO WIN FROM KENTUCKY

Star Halfback Chief Threat Of Team

Wildcats, Unbeaten, Rated Better Than Navy Eleven.

Old Liners in Shape for Clash, Except for Morris.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY'S football squad, husky and experienced, arrives here today for its clash with Maryland University's eleven tomorrow in Byrd Stadium, College Park. Whether Coach Harry Gamage will order a last-minute practice for his men could not be learned last night. They will make their headquarters at the Racquet Club.

Reports have it that Kentucky views the game with confidence, expecting to make Maryland victim No. 2 in its quest of the Southern Conference championship. Last Saturday the Wildcat array walloped Washington and Lee, 45 to 0, in their initial conference contest.

Kentucky Rated Stronger.

Maryland observers anticipate an exciting afternoon and thus far have discussed the game in more or less fearful mood. They acknowledged the general opinion that Kentucky will be harder to beat than Navy, which bowed to the Old Liners, 6 to 0, last week.

Physically, Coach Curley Byrd's team is prepared for the set-to, every player excepting Jack Norris, right end, of the team which conquered Navy, being ready to answer the starting whistle. Norris is suffering an attack of ptomaine poisoning and will be replaced by "Bucky" Buscher, former Western High star, unless he recovers in time to perform.

"Shipwreck" Kelly, Kentucky halfback, who is as colorful as his name, is the main topic of discussion among the prognosticators. If the Terrapins can bottle him up, thus stopping his patented open field forays, the experts figure Maryland will be in a fine position to upset the Wildcats' hopes.

Byrd Has New Plays.

However, Coach Byrd does not believe that Kentucky's success depends on Kelly. He has been trying all week to convince his charges of that. Beyond warning them that the Wildcats will offer fierce opposition and directing a steady practice on new plays designed especially for this game, the Maryland mentor has not "borne down" on his players.

GONZAGA SWAMPS EASTERN, 32 TO 0

the Mills boys and Keegin being brought down only by the secondary forces of the losers. Keegin put the ball across from the 1-yard line, after Referee Towers had moved it up from the 6-yard line because of Eastern's offside.

Joe Mills missed the dropkick for the extra point and another after the second touchdown, which came at the start of the second period, when Keegin, on Gonzaga's first offensive play, stepped through a cavernous hole in the left side of the line and romped over 45 yards of remaining turf to tally.

Eastern was never nearer than the 12-yard line to scoring. And to prove that the Eastern drive which deposited the ball there in the fourth quarter had not dented the Gonzaga armor, Keegin pulled off his 90-yard marathon.

It marked Gonzaga's third conquest of a public high team. The streak found its source in Western, which was beaten, 24-0, continued against Business, at 6-0, and enough points were amassed against Eastern yesterday to bring their total pointage to 72 against opponents' 0. Central is the other public high team on the list, the game being listed for November 20. Tech is not on the schedule, but yesterday the cries were long and loud for a postseason game with Mr. Hardell's boys.

Calvert Hall Meets St. John's Tomorrow

The football game between Calvert Hall, of Baltimore, and St. Johns, originally scheduled to be played at 3:30 p. m. in the Eastern High School Stadium, today, has been postponed until tomorrow. The scene of the fray has also been shifted to the Central High School Stadium.

It will be St. John's second meeting with a Baltimore aggregation. In the "Little Cadet's" first game they nosed out Mount St. Joseph's by a 6-0 count. Paully Byrnes has been drilling his charges hard all week and is confident that the team will emerge victorious from the battle.

CAPITAL CITY ELEVENS IN 9 GAMES

Del Ray Plays Seat Pleasant in One of Features.

DEL RAY will invade Seat Pleasant for a game with the Dixie Pigs Sunday in what should be the feature of a list of nine attractive sandlot football games scheduled in The Post's Capital City League. The two teams are considered strong contenders for the championship of the unlimited division of the circuit.

In the 150-pound division, the Centennials, last season's champions, will try conclusions with the Stantons, who are trying to revive the faded glories of their club.

135-pound division—N. E. Motors vs. Apache Preps, No. 3, Anacostia, 3 p. m.; referee, Stevens. Notre Dame Preps vs. Northeast Trojans, No. 3 Anacostia, 1 p. m.; referee, Connors.

150-pound division—Meridians vs. Columbia, West Potomac No. 3, 3 p. m.; referee, Keinely. Palace vs. Petworth Pennants, West Potomac No. 1, 3 p. m.; referee, Cox. Brentwood Hawks vs. Brookland Boy's Club, Gonzaga field, 1 p. m.; referee, O. Mitchell. Centennials vs. Stantons, Silver Spring, 1 p. m.; referee, Crandall.

Unlimited division—Dixie Pigs vs. Del Ray, Seat Pleasant, 3 p. m.; referee, McDonald; umpire, Sweeney. St. Stephen's vs. Marions, Gonzaga Field, 3 p. m.; referee, O. Mitchell; umpire, McClure. Sherman Gunners vs. Griffith Blue Coats, Silver Spring, 3 p. m.; referee, Crandall; umpire, Cobean.

Hitting —The— Head Pin

ONE of these days Carroll Daly is going to roll three consecutive games well over the 100 mark, instead of his usual two, and when he does it is going to be a red letter day for the Lucky Strike Team in the National Capital League. Until then it looks as though the Luckies will continue winning by 2-1 margins.

Last night Lucky Strike walloped Judd & Detweiler on the former's alleys, and would have swept the match had not Carroll contributed a weak 95 in his second game, and his team lost by two pins. Daly's other two scores were 135 and 132. The Printers had scores of 579, 555 and 562. The winners' scores were 603, 553 and 598.

Murphy's All Stars pulled up within hailing distance of French's in the Congressional League by winning the odd game from the latter quint at Capital Hill alleys last night. Flan and Goldstein rolled well for the winners.

Agriculture and Veterans' Administration pulled upon even terms with the leading Treasury quintet in the Ladies Federal League, by trimming Commerce Comets and G. A. O. in all three games, respectively, while the Guardians of the Exchequer were losing an all-important game to Interstate. Commerce and Marines continued in their deadlock for the runner-up position by sweeping their matches with Census and Internal Revenue, respectively. In the other matches, which were rolled at Arcadia, Labor won a 2-1 verdict over G. P. O., War eked out a victory over Commerce Juniors by a similar margin, and Bureau of Mines won all three from Economics.

CHAMPS IN DRILL.

All members of the Mercury unlimited football team are requested to report for practice tonight at 7 o'clock on the field at Four-and-a-half and B streets southwest. The team won the championship of the Capital City League last season, but will be hard pressed for the honors in the present race.

The practice session of the St. Stephen's team, rained out last night, will be held tonight at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue northwest, at 7:30 p. m. The Saints will meet the Marions in the Capital City League Sunday, and hope to avenge themselves for the defeat received last year.

Business and Western Open High School Series Today

FOOTBALL history may be made this afternoon on the green turf within Central Stadium when Business High, ricocheting down the line of high school series history with not a win scored since midway in the season of 1928, meets Western High in the opening game of the 1931 edition of the ever-popular scholastic grid league. The game will start at 3:45 o'clock.

It was against Western that Business last came out victor in a high school tussle, and the Stenogs go into the battle today rated on an equal plane with the Georgetown boys for the first time since that day, long since departed. Western won last year, 27 to 0.

Business' elevation to par has been caused by the blooming of its line into a covey of boys who will average about 170 to 175, and the introduction of their 190-pound player, Bill Flynn, into the back field. Keller, a boy with much sandlot experience, and Huck Cavanaugh also look like better than average ball toters.

Western is experienced in four positions. Laurence Buscher is back at tackle, Greve at guard and Lynham in half back. Everett Buscher, a made-over end, will play full back. The line is not particularly strong, nor is Lynham, the only true back field man left, rated high among the schoolboy ball luggers. Had not Bert Kalinsky, Business' mainstay tackle, gone ineligible yesterday the Stenogs, taking all in all, would have entered today's game with the odds slightly in their favor.

The only comparative scores available are against Gonzaga. Western was beaten, 24 to 0, and Business, 6 to 0.

MRS. HAYNES SETS GOLF RECORD

Wins Columbia Club Title Third Time With 79 Card.

MRS. J. MARVIN HAYNES yesterday established a record for women on the course of the Columbia Country Club when she played the course in 39—40—79 in the final round of the women's club golf championship, defeating Mrs. Norman B. Frost, 9 and 7.

Some years ago Mrs. Hugh Nicolson, then Miss Dorothy White, made a 79 in a tournament competition, but Mrs. Haynes' 79 yesterday stands as the women's record for the course in its present layout. Mrs. Haynes has now won the Columbia Club women's title three times, in addition to which she has been runner-up also three times.

In the match yesterday Mrs. Haynes won the first eight holes and the match was ended quickly afterwards. Her record score was largely due to the accuracy of her approach shots, for on nine greens she holed out with a single putt.

Only Two Sixes Mar Card.

The only mishaps in her round occurred on the fourteenth and fifteenth holes, where she added two 6s to her card. On the fourteenth she drove into a trap and ended with three putts, while on the fifteenth, after failing to be on the green with her third, she narrowly missed holing for a 5. Every putt was holed out. Her card:

Out ..... 5 4 5 3 5 5 4 3 5—39
In ..... 5 4 5 3 6 6 3 4 4—40—79

Mrs. William S. Corby won the final round in the second flight, defeating Mrs. George T. Bell, 3 and 2. In the consolation flight of the championship division, Miss Elizabeth Brawner was the winner, running down a 30-foot putt on the final green to defeat Mrs. H. R. Quinter, 1 up. The second consolation was won by Mrs. A. S. Gardiner, who defeated Mrs. Charles R. White, 4 and 2.

Saks Court Team Goes To Unlimited Ranks

Saks Clothiers, 145-pound A. A. U. champions of the District, will compete in unlimited ranks this year, it was announced yesterday by Dick Mothershead, manager of the team. Mothershead will have all of last season's veterans available for play in addition to three newcomers.

Saks established a record in the 145-pound class, winning 31 games without a loss. The team will use Central High gymnasium Tuesday nights. Any team desiring to scrimmage next week is urged to call Mothershead at District 3050 during the day.

SENIOR GOLF HONORS TO RIDSDALE

Chevy Chase Player Defeats Griffith by 1-Up Margin.

THE senior golf championship of the District was won yesterday by P. S. Ridsdale, of the Chevy Chase and Burning Tree Clubs, in a play-off on the course of the Burning Tree Club. In the eighteen-hole medal play for the championship last Wednesday, Ridsdale and Clark C. Griffith, Columbia, tied with cards of 84 each. In the play-off yesterday Ridsdale finished with 44, 42—86, as against Griffith's card of 45, 42—87.

The result might have been different except for Griffith's unfortunate experience on the fourth hole, where his drive carried his ball into the woods. His next shot hit a tree and bounded back, and after struggling to reach the green he finally holed out in a disastrous 8.

POWER WORK BEGUN ON 20-YEAR SUPPLY

Crews Start Putting Wires Over Susquehanna for Pennsylvania Lines.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Wire-stringing crews of the Pennsylvania Water & Power Co. have begun the task of carrying the transmission lines from the Safe Harbor, Pa., hydroelectric development across the Susquehanna River, in connection with the task of supplying with the Safe Harbor Water Power Corporation and the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co., of Baltimore, the entire electrification requirements of the Pennsylvania Railroad from Havre de Grace, Md., through Baltimore to Washington, D. C., under a 20-year contract.

The crossing, which is over two railroads and a mile stretch of river, is between hills some 300 feet in height. The length of the cable required from the switching station on the Lancaster County side of the river to the first of the towers on the York County side is 6,000 feet.

There are two spans of 3,000 feet each between a tower on an island near the middle of the river and those on the high hills on either side. The difference in elevation between the crossarm of the island tower and those of the towers on the hills is more than 200 feet. In all, ten cables are to cross the river.

Work Requires Two Weeks.

The work of spanning the river will require approximately two weeks. The cables will carry power over a 70-mile 220,000 volt transmission line to the system of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co., of Baltimore.

Volume of freight traffic handled by the Class 1 railroads of this country in the first eight months of 1931, amounted to 233,954,307,000 net ton miles, according to reports just received from the railroads by the Bureau of Railway Economics and made public yesterday.

This was a reduction of 51,308,415,000 net ton miles, or 18 per cent under the corresponding period in 1930, and a reduction of 91,514,334,000 net ton miles, or 28.1 per cent under the same period in 1929.

Vice President George B. Fraser, of the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light Co., is back today from Atlantic City, where he has been attending the thirteenth annual convention of the American Gas Association, held at the auditorium this week.

Frost Joins Board.

At the latest regular monthly meeting of the Federal Storage Co., Norman B. Frost was elected a director. Mr. Frost is a member of the law firm of Frost & Towers, Hibbs Building, and a director of Liberty National Bank. He is a member of the Columbia Country Club, University Club, Annapolis Roads Club and is a past president of the Barrister Club. Mr. Frost served in the Marine Corps during the war and served as secretary to Chief Justice White at the peace conference after the war.

Just before the close of the bank stocks market yesterday, the Federal Reserve Bank announced an increase in the rediscount rate from 2½ to 3½ per cent, which caused heavy buying in New York City bank stocks with strong upward prices. An increase in money rates will undoubtedly affect the earnings of these banks very favorably.

For the sixty-third consecutive time since the organization of the company, directors of the General Tire & Rubber Co. have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the company's common stock.

This dividend will be payable November 1 to stockholders of record as of October 20. By this action, the General Tire directors have maintained unbroken the company's record of never having passed a dividend on either class of its stock since the company was formed in 1915, a record that is said to be held by no other rubber company.

Curb Review

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—The Curb Market closed with a fairly firm undertone today, although in the late afternoon it lost most of a fair rally.

Trading was in moderate volume, the turnover aggregating 260,000 shares, or 40,000 less than yesterday's. The trend paralelled that of the big board.

The utility shares pushed up rather vigorously for a time. Under the leadership of Electric Bond & Share, which responded to the optimistic statements at the annual meeting yesterday. The stock sold up more than 2 points, and closed up 1½ net. American Gas & Electric, a Bond & Share affiliate, pushed up more than 3 points, then lost all but a point of its gain. Middle West, Niagara Hudson, United Light A and some others had fractional gains at the close.

In the oils, Gulf rose 1½ in a fair turnover, then fell back to close unchanged. Indiana was fairly active and firm, closing up ⅝ of a point. Cities Service, which as a matter of fact is now drawing the bulk of its revenues from its utility properties, rose ½ point, then lost its gain, closing unchanged.

In the industrials and specialties, Aluminum Co. rose nearly 5 points, but was up only 1¼ at the finish. Great Atlantic & Pacific had one of its wide moves, gaining 10 points. Bigelow-Sanford Carpet, which is going to the big board, appeared a point higher. Wilson-Jones, a lightly traded issue, appeared at an advance of 2¾ points. Parker Rust sold at 44, off 5 points.

RAILWAY BONDS GAIN ON PROSPECT OF AID

Utility Issues Lose at End of Busy Market; Some Foreigns Advance.

New York, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Expectations that Washington would soon make public a plan to help railroad bonds, perhaps in the form of an arrangement for helping roads that were unable to refinance because of current conditions, brought increased activity in railroad bonds today.

Carrier liens firmed briskly in the afternoon, although some of the gains were lost during the late trading and a number of issues closed lower. Other groups were inclined to irregularity, this being especially true of the foreigns. United States Governments sagged, perhaps in anticipation of a higher rediscount rate

High-grade rails generally were well supported. Atchison general 4s rallied more than 3 points, holding a net gain of 2¼. Baltimore & Ohio listings, the Rock Islands, most of the New York Centrals and several Pennsylvanias firmed, while in the lower-rated groups the Missouri Pacific 5s and Nickel Plates were stronger. Frisco 4½s, up a point, were active. Wabash 5s and 4½s, Pennsylvania 4¾s, New York Central 5s and Union Pacific refunding 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s closed heavy.

American Telephone 5s of 1965 had a busy market and closed with a small fractional loss. Laclede 5s, Western Union 5s, Columbia Gas May 5s, Kansas City Power 4½s and a few other utilities showed heaviness.

Industrials were somewhat mixed. Firm to steady issues included Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s, Goodrich 6½s, Illinois Steel 4½s, and American Smelting 5s.

In foreigns, Australian, Belgian and German government bonds advanced. Japanese 6½s were very active off ¾ net, while the 5½s lost a point.

Packard Motors to Pay Dividend on Common

Detroit, Oct. 15 (A.P.).—Directors of the Packard Motor Car Co. yesterday declared a regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents per share on outstanding common no-par value stock, payable December 12 to holders of record November 14.

A CORRECTION.

In Thursday's edition of The Post, a headline erroneously stated that General Electric Co. had cut the dividend on common stock. The article merely stated that for the first nine months of the year the company reported profit available for the common stock equal to $1.07 a share, compared with dividend requirements of $1.20 for the period. The Post is informed that the dividend has not been reduced.

25 Years Ago Today

OCTOBER 16, 1906.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis, widow of the President of the Confederacy, died last night at the Hotel Majestic in New York. Death was due to pneumonia, induced by a cold contracted by Mrs. Davis while spending the summer in the Adirondacks. She was 80 years old.

In their annual estimates for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1907, which they submitted to the Treasury yesterday, the Commissioners of the District make provision for an expenditure of $11,829,017.63, which is $100,000 more than they asked for the present year, and $2,000,000 more than they received.

The wrestling season was inaugurated in the city last night, when Joe Grant, the local boy, and champion lightweight of the South, defeated Carl Eberle, of Baltimore. Eberle outweighed the titian-thatched Grant by fifteen pounds, but the latter's remarkable cleverness stood him in good stead.

Final organization of the syndicate to erect a $700,000 hotel on the property at the northeast corner of Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue was effected yesterday at a meeting of the stockholders at 1328 New York avenue. The papers incorporating the company under the laws of the District, with a capital stock of $300,000, were signed and it is probable that these will go on record in a day or so.

HOSPITAL OFFICIALS PLAN DISCUSSION OF EMERGENCY POLICY

Death of Boy at Gallinger Is One Factor Behind Meeting Today.

CONTAGIOUS CASES NOW BARRED AT INSTITUTION

Physician Would Broaden Scope of Powers in City Hospitals.

A policy for dealing with cases of all unheralded applicants for admission to hospitals is expected to result from a conference this morning of superintendents of Gallinger, Children's, Emergency and Sibley hospitals, and George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, with the health committtte of the Council of Social Agencies.

Director Wilson yesterday received a report from Gallinger Hospital, but not from Children's. Dr. Frank Leech, chairman of the medical staff at the latter institution, however, issued a statement defending the transfer of Samuel Goddett, 9 years old, who died of lockjaw in Gallinger Hospital.

Negligence Charged.

Gallinger officials denied charges of heartlessness and negligence in refusing to admit Catherine Zanelotti, 3 years old, who recovered after being treated by a private physician. The girl was not considered an emergency case, the report stated, and hence did not come within the rules of admission prescribed by the Board of Public Welfare.

Dr. Leech contended that it had been the policy of Children's Hospital for years to give treatment in emergency cases save in cases of contagious disease.

2 Cases Cited.

The Goddett boy was sent to Gallinger because "he was not a critically ill patient," he said, and because the hospital isolation ward then contained three cases of infantile paralysis. The Zanelotti girl was likewise shunted to Gallinger because she was not an emergency patient.

Concluding his statement, Dr. Leech said that he believed that the Board of Public Welfare should not limit treatment to emergency cases and that arrangements should be made by the board and the Community Chest to reimburse the hospital in such instances.

Inquest in Wife's Death Is Scheduled Today

An inquest into the death of Mrs. Katherine Knox, whose bruised body was found in the bedroom of her home at 1006 I street northwest early yesterday will be held today at 11 a. m., when an effort will be made to determine the origin of the bruises found on her body. Deputy Coroner Joseph D. Rogers will withhold a verdict until the investigaton has been completed.

James Knox, 70, her husband, was removed to Casualty Hospital verging on collapse. He told police that he believed the bruises were caused by a fall when she was suddenly taken ill. Police will continue to investigate the case.

15 Minutes of Showers Slows Up Capital Traffic

A model summer thundershower broke at 4:41 yesterday, slowing up traffic, wetting the new fall clothes, and annoying the homeward-bound crowds from the Government offices.

After the usual fashion of 4:30 showers, it was over in fifteen minutes, and patches of blue showed in the sky.

The rainfall was accompanied by a 15 degree drop in temperature. The rainfall amounted to .27 of an inch.

Schenck Refuses To Give Testimony

"Key Witness" in "Framing" Case Denies He Will Change Mind.

Frederick A. Schenck, "key witness" in the alleged "framing" of former Policeman Orville Staples, yesterday denied that he had yielded in his determination not to testify before the special investigative group which is considering the grand jury recommendations that Staples be reinstated to the department and those who caused his dismissal be punished.

The reports of a change in his decision, Schenck said, are due to a misunderstanding placed upon his request that Henry P. Blair, chairman of the investigative group, visit him at the jail. He wished to ask Mr. Blair, he said, just what the committee proposes to do with regard to his case. Schenck refused to talk with the committee unless newspapermen or some officials were present. He still stands by that decision.

BUSINESSMEN PICK A. C. SMITH AS HEAD

Inaugural Meeting of New Organization Is Held at Logan Hotel.

"There is no depression in Washington" according to a speech made last night by George W. Offutt, president of the Board of Trade, at the inaugural meeting of the Federation of Business Men's Associations at the Logan Hotel. Mr. Offutt based his assertion on the fact that $189,000,000 annually is paid to Government workers in the District.

Arthur Clarendon Smith was elected temporary president of the association until a constitution is drawn up and adopted. Other temporary officers elected last night are Robert W. McCullough, first vice president; C. Edwin LaVigne, second vice president; Hubert Newsom, secretary, and W. H. Hessick, jr., treasurer. The federation will be composed of at least two members from each business men's association in the city, and their idea in forming the association is to have united power in representing the business man's needs before the District government.

The association endorsed a resolution to go on record as heartily in favor of the Hoover prosperity plan. They also endorsed a resolution that the association has faith in the integrity of the majority of the Police Department in face of the unfavorable publicity recently given them.

The next meeting of the association will be held Thursday night, November 19, at the Logan Hotel.

New Traffic Unit Plans for Action

Will Seek to Coordinate Transportation in Triangle Section.

The traffic coordinating committee, appointed several months ago by the District Commissioners, took steps yesterday to prepare for the transportation of the 4,500 employes, who will be housed in the new Department of Commerce building by June 1 of next year.

Earl V. Fisher, who was yesterday elected secretary, was instructed to communicate with Secretary Lamont regarding the distribution of cards for the designation of type of transportation used by each employe to and from work. The Washington Railway & Electric Co. will also be asked what preparations it is making to care for the increased patronage from off Fourteenth street between E street and Constitution avenue.

The Department of Commerce building is scheduled to be opened on December 1, but it is estimated that six months will be required to move all its various activities into the new quarters.

Frances Wells Is Named Boys Club Chairman

Francis Wells was named chairman of the board of directors of the Boys Club of America, at its first meeting yesterday at the District Building. Other officers of the board are J. Franklin Wilson, vice chairman; Dr. John E. Washington, secretary; Miss Emma F. G. Merritt, treasurer, and Armond W. Scott, legal adviser.

Committees appointed were: Legal, Armond W. Scott, J. Gang Causes Man to Try Bridge Leap

Because, as he explained to police later, he feared that a gang was "after him," George Edward Allen, 23, made an unsuccessful attempt to jump from the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge late yesterday. Two passersby grabbed him just as he was about to drop from the span. Allen was booked for mental observation and sent to Gallinger Hospital.

Late Wednesday night he was arrested after police received a complaint that a man was pacing up and down an alley near Second and E streets northwest and had been doing this for several consecutive nights. He was held an hour for investigation and released after he declared that he was simply nervous because he was in wrong with a gang.

Allen is a laborer and lives at 417 Thirteenth street southeast.

Beach Enters Suit For Divorce Fee

Man, Wife and Brother of Woman Defendants in $5,000 Action.

Morgan H. Beach, former United States Attorney for the District and one time chief clerk to the District Supreme Court, yesterday filed a suit in District Supreme Court for $5,000 he alleges is owed him by John P. Story, jr., 812 Seventeenth street northwest, Mrs. Jane A. Story, who is described as Story's divorced wife, and Mrs. Story's brother, Hamilton Abert.

The suit charged that from August 1 to August 28, 1928, Mr. Beach acted for the defendants in effecting a settlement for them previous to the divorce. He said he was forced to attend many conferences and write many agreements, and that $5,000 was a just fee for his services.

The complaint, filed through George P. Hoover, said the three defendants at various times shortly after August 28, 1928, repudiated their agreement with him and disavowed their employment of him.

Activity of Vice Squad Nets 2 on Rum Charge

Two men were held last night on charges of illegal possession of liquor as a result of activities of the First Inspection District Vice Squad under command of Sergt. R. A. Johnson. Maurice E. Lusby, 21 years old, a chauffeur, giving his address as 1440 Meridian place northwest, was arrested after police said he delivered a quart of liquor to them at Seventeenth and Kilbourne streets northwest.

Fred Oppenheimer, 53 years old, of 440 Ninth street northwest, was arrested after the squad entered his apartment on a warrant, Sergt. Johnson said they found 1¾ gallons of whisky there.

Woman Taxi Passenger Is Hurt in Collision

Mrs. Beatrice Shackette, 25 years old, of 3314 Mount Pleasant street northwest, was injured last night when a taxicab in which she was a passenger collided with another machine at the intersection of Twenty-first and K streets northwest.

She was taken to Emergency Hospital by a passing motorist, where it was found she suffered a fractured left wrist and two fractured ribs. Police said the taxi was operated by Thomas Ward, 24 years old, of 1229 Maryland avenue northeast. Col. Kenneth Morton, 62 years old, U. S. A., retired, of Plymouth, Mass., was driving the other machine, police said. The accident was termed unavoidable.

Motorist, Fleeing Police, Is Captured Inside Church

A police story with a climax akin to that of O. Henry's "The Cop and the Anthem" was enacted last night when a colored man retained his liberty until he went to church. The roles were taken by Policemen Lester Parks and C. H. Gould and Thomas Brown, 32, of Bladensburg, Md., who is charged with driving an auto without a permit and with dead tags and "excessive smoke."

The policemen were cruising in a radio car near Sixth and N streets when they sighted a suspicious roadster. Its driver ignored their order to pull over to the curb and stepped on the accelerator. Parks and Gould gave chase. Immediately, they allege, dense clouds of smoke billowed from the rear of the machine and continued for two blocks when the driver stopped in front of Immaculate Conception Church and ran inside.

He was taken from the edifice to Second Precinct Station and booked as Thomas Brown.

Only a few minutes after leaving the station the same, policemen chased another car in the same vicinity and arrested another colored man who elected, however, to be captured inside a garage. He identified himself as Benjamin F. Sewell, 23, 952 R street northwest, and was charged with illegal possession of 30 gallons of whisky and reckless driving.

CRASH CAR DRIVER MISSING 24 HOURS

Police Widen Search After Finding Blood-Stained and Abandoned Car.

The driver of an automobile in which three persons were injured, when it overturned on the Marlboro pike near the Pennsylvania avenue bridge Wednesday night, has been the object of a police search for more than 24 hours.

An abandoned car, bloodstained and badly damaged, was found by police early yesterday at the foot of a steep embankment near the bridge. All marks of identification were missing, including the license plates. Headquarters detectives were asked to investigate. It was later learned that the machine had been occupied by four persons, three of whom were injured in the crash.

Details of the accident were learned only after a doctor from Emergency Hospital had been called to the home of Miss Barbara Herbert, 22 years old, of 3149 Mount Pleasant street northwest, to treat her for injuries. Miss Herbert first said the accident occurred near Waldorf, Md., but later retracted her story and declared she was injured in Anacostia.

Two other persons, Miss Helen Goodwin, 22, 1345 A street northeast, and her escort, Roy Daniel, 22, of East Capitol street, were slightly injured. Miss Herbert, who suffered a wrenched back and other injuries, said the driver of the car, whom she believed to be from North Carolina, disappeared following the accident. The machine ran from the road on a turn she said.

Husband Is Held For Wife Assault

Blow on Head Sends Mate to Hospital With Broken Skull.

Judge John P. McMahon yesterday ordered Harvey S. Lowe, 35 years old, held in a $1,000 bond on a charge of assaulting his wife, Mrs. Olethia A. Lowe, of 3513 Thirteenth street northwest, who is now in Gallinger Hospital with a fractured skull.

Lowe is alleged to have gone to the home of his wife Tuesday night and struck her on the head. He demanded a jury trial.

Lowe was shot in the shoulder a year ago by his stepson, Harry V. Hazel, who was released when the District grand jury refused to indict him. Hazel was arrested several weeks ago on a charge of snatching a woman's pocketbook. He is awaiting trial.

THE ONCE OVER

Glotz, Bimmacher & Glotz,
Attorneys at Law.

Gents: I am in receipt of a letter from you stating that if I do not pay certain bills at once you will take action against me to force payment. I am surprised at you. And I am surprised at my creditors. Don't they know that I have abandoned the gold standard?

* * * * *

YES, sir; I abandoned the gold standard several weeks ago, following popular custom, and, what is more, I have also abandoned the silver standard. I have not yet abandoned the copper standard, but I may do so at and moment unless things pick up in my line.

* * * * *

You say you represent Saminovich, the butcher; Kelly, the milk man, and my landlord, whose name is too complicated for me to spell. You call them up at once and tell them that I abandoned the gold and silver standards some time ago and thought they had heard about it. They may squawk a bit, but all you have to do to make my position clear is to quote what was said by England and the Scandinavian countries. I don't recall all that they said, but the general angle was that they could no longer meet demands for gold and silver and that it was a matter of preserving their credit and getting back to normalcy. That goes for me, too.

You can tell the butcher and the milkman and the landlord that if they start yelping I will abandon the copper standard. I am able to pay in pennies for certain purchases now, but if they get fresh I will suspend this, too, and go on an I. O. U. basis. I suppose the butcher will say I have been operating on an I. O. U. basis for years, but he will be exaggerating. I have given out I. O. U.'s from time to time, but I have never announced myself on a flat I. O. U. basis, which is more than I can say for a lot of fellows.

* * * *

My landlord will probably get nasty, too, but you can tell him that as far as he is concerned I am considering going on a poker chip basis, no chip to have any par value, regardless of size or color. As for the milkman, tell him I am wise to him and know he has been running his dairy on a rain water standard for years.

Trusting they will see the point and take it as philosophically as possible, I am, yours without standards,
ELMER TWITCHELL.

BRUTALITY PROBE JURY MAY REPORT BEFORE TUESDAY

Second Witness Parade in Investigation Is Rushed by Prosecutor.

17 CASES SCHEDULED INVOLVE 20 MEN

Indications at Close of Day Hint That Indictments Are Near.

The second witness parade in the grand jury investigation of alleged brutality and third degree tactics by Washington police drew to a close yesterday afternoon as the inquisitors heard the stories of those who brought complaints in the last four cases.

There were indications at the close of the inquiry that the jury might continue its speedy work and report indictments in the 17 cases today, instead of waiting until Tuesday—regular indictment day—as was at first planned.

The jury worked with a will throughout the week in an effort to make up as much time as possible, lost through the invalidation of the labors of the July grand jury. The four cases heard yesterday completed all of those the Department of Justice intends to present. It is understood that there are many more cases which will be covered in the special report Director J. Edgar Hoover will make to the District Commissioners, but only those instances in which there was hope of indictments were presented to the grand jury.

Twenty Policemen Involved.

The 17 cases brought before the grand jurors involve about 20 policemen, including a lieutenant and several headquarters detectives, it is rumored.

Five policemen from four precincts are said to have been involved in the four cases heard yesterday.

Henry Johnson, colored, with several other witnesses, testified in the first case presented to the jury yesterday by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover on information supplied by the Department of Justice. Johnson is understood to have accused two Ninth Precinct policemen of beating him.

Arthur T. Paul, colored, who alleges he was beaten by policemen at the Second Precinct station; Clarence W. Brown, colored, who has made charges against a Twelfth Precinct policeman, and Harry Johnson, also colored, who made charges against a First Precinct policeman, were other witnesses who went before the grand jury yesterday.

Rumors Are Unconfirmed.

Officials refused to confirm rumors that the grand jury will report indictments in any cases today in an effort to speed the charges against police to a conclusion. These reports were very strong, however, although throughout the week it had been reported that no action would be taken before the regular indictment day, which falls on Tuesday.

The October jury had heard thirteen cases involving police since its renewed inquiry opened Monday. One of these was the case which brought before it charges of George B. Baber that he was beaten by headquarters detectives. Two other indictments may grow out of this case, namely, against two men who are accused of obstructing justice and intimidating a Government witness. The men are said to have asked Baber to go light on his charges against one of the detectives.

Woman Given $3,000 For 2-Year-Old Crash

A jury in Justice Peyton Gordon's court yesterday awarded Anna Thelma Satterfield, of Suitland, Md., $3,000 for injuries she sustained January 12, 1929, in an automobile accident.

Forrest W. Harrington, 210 A street northeast, was the defendant in the suit. Attorney Godfrey L. Munter, for the plaintiff, claimed that Harrington's car collided with a car driven by Mrs. Satterfield's husband on Pennsylvania avenue southeast, and as a result of the accident she sustained serious injuries to her spine.

WASHINGTON'S KIN TO VISIT HIS TOMB

George C. W. Magruder Will Be Principal Figure at Mount Vernon.

George Corbin Washington Magruder, a collateral descendant of George Washington and deputy chieftain in Oklahoma of the American Clan Gregor Society, now holding its twenty-second annual meeting in Washington, will be one of the principal figures at a ceremony this afternoon at the tomb of the first President, at Mount Vernon.

Mr. Magruder will also be one of the principal speakers at the concluding session of the clan tonight at the Willard Hotel. Mr. Magruder is a descendant of John Augustine Washington, a brother of George Washington and of Augustine Washington, a half-brother.

Mr. Magruder took part in the program of the clan last night, singing a number of old Scottish songs. Another feature of last night's session was an account of the history of the MacGregor Clan, which evolved into the Magruders, from Caleb Clarke Magruder, former chieftain of the clan and governor of the Society of Colonial Wars of the District.

The latter made the address at the unveiling of a tablet to Alexander Magruder yesterday at the Hyattsville Presbyterian Church. Alexander Magruder was one of the progenitors of the Magruder family of America.

Papers in memory of deceased members of the clan were read last night by Robert Lee Magruder, of Columbus, Ga., ranking deputy chieftain, and Dr. James William Magruder, of Mechanicsburg, Ohio.

A feature of last night's session was the annual address from Egbert Watson Magruder, of Norfolk, Va., the chieftain of the clan. Scottish songs and dances were presented by Gene Campbell and Jacqueline Embrey, respectively, with Miss Helen Woods Gantt accompanying.

Courts Support Second Raid Without Warrant

When Judge Isaac R. Hitt Wednesday fined Charles Edward Crismond, 32, $200 for permitting gaming, it marked the second case in which the courts have supported warrantless raids. Crismond was arrested last May by Policemen R. A. Williams and H. G. Bauer, of the Central vice squad, a raid at 1402 I street northwest, where a quantity of alleged bookmaking paraphernalia was seized.

Coincidentally, the only other raid, executed without a warrant but upheld in court, was made by the same policemen on the same day when they arrested Thomas Walsh and charged him with permitting gaming. He was fined $100 last month.

Mrs. Duncan Cameron's Home Is Robbed

Mrs. Duncan Cameron returned to Washington yesterday from Newport, R. I., where she spent the summer, to find that her home at 2539 Massachusetts avenue had been robbed. A large quantity of clothing, jewelry and personal belongings, the total value of which was not estimated, was taken.

Mrs. Cameron, who is prominent in Capital society, is the mother-in-law of Senor Don Conrado Traverso, secretary of the Argentine Embassy. Returning with her from Newport was her unmarried daughter, Elsie Quimby.

DRAMA GUILD PLANS PLAYS FOR SEASON

Performances Will Be Given at Wardman Park Theater.

Preliminary plans for the coming season were discussed at a meeting of the administrative council of the Drama Guild of Washington, held yesterday at the Cosmos Club.

The group, which is made up of outstanding amateur talent in both dramatic and technical fields, expects to present four plays during the coming season.

"The Trial of Mary Dugan," by Bayard Veiller, will be given on November 20 and 21; "If I Were King," by Justin Huntley McCarthy, some time in June, and two other plays to be selected from a list of six, which include "The Devil's Disciple," by George Bernard Shaw; "The Squall," by Jean Bart; "Wake Up Jonathan," by Hatcher Hughes and Elmer Rice; "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary," by St. John Ervine; "Sun Up," by Lulu Volmer, and "Ned McCobb's Daughter," by Sidney Howard.

The Drama Guild hopes to build up here an amateur theatrical group of prestige, one which will be self-supporting without guarantors of any kind. The price of membership on the Guild is $5 for a single membership and $8 for a double membership.

In addition to receiving seats for all productions, members will be entitled to voting power on the board of trustees. The performances will be given at the Wardman Park Theater with the exception of the final production, which will be presented at the Sylvan Theater.

Members of the council attending the meeting yesterday were Robert D. Chase, J. Milnor Dorey, Mrs. John Otto Johnson, Capt. Ray C. Montgomery and theatrical critics representing the newspapers.

Halted Twice, $10 Is Speeder's Fine

Youth Freed With Warning First Time, But Second Draws Penalty.

Lightning struck twice in the same place when Policeman R. V. Sinclair, attached to the motorcycle unit of the Traffic Bureau, stopped Milton A. Dorr, 21 years old, of 2615 Evarts street northeast, for speeding on Georgia avenue northwest.

Dorr had been stopped by the same officer just a few days previous, and was found not to have a license with him. He was let go with a promise that he would get a duplicate for the original, which he had lost. When Dorr was stopped on Georgia avenue he still had not got the duplicate, and besides being charged with speeding, he was charged with not exhibiting a permit.

The latter charge was dropped in court when Dorr showed he had finally obtained the duplicate, but he was fined $10 for speeding.

Man Escapes From Gallinger.

The escape from Gallinger Hospital last night of Joe Frank Faith, 27, was broadcast to police and a look out for him was maintained throughout the city. Faith was admitted Wednesday for observation after being booked for drunkenness at Fouth Precinct station. He lived at 310 Third street northwest, according to police.

2 Face Charges for Moving Parked Autos Onto Street

Charles B. McDonald and Leroy G. Eakes, employes of a parking lot at Tenth and Grant streets northwest, were arraigned in Police Court yesterday on charges of parking in a restricted zone. McDonald moved four cars from the lot and parked them in a restricted zone, and Eakes moved three, placing them also in a restricted zone, Policeman W. G. Liverman, of the Traffic Bureau, testified.

The policeman had been stationed at the corner in plain clothes, and he testified that the employes moved the cars into the streets. Judge Ralph Given continued the case to give the policeman a chance to get the owners of the cars into court as witnesses.

The defense testimony was that the owners of the cars were nonpaying, and that they merely left their cars in the lot until 9:30 a. m., when they were moved into the street. There is a restriction against parking on the streets there before that hour.

BUS LINES TO START WEEKLY PASS PLAN IN DISTRICT SUNDAY

P. U. C. Grants Permission to Try Experiment for Eleven Weeks.

TWO TYPES OF SERVICE ARE TO BE ESTABLISHED

Commission Also Gets Plea for Erection of New Gas Holder.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech yesterday indorsed the pass system of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. as "an interesting experiment" after the Public Utilities Commission had authorized the line to inaugurate the service Sunday for an eleven-week period.

"While it is too early to say how the system will work out, it is a step in the right direction," Mr. Keech said. "Whatever the transportation companies do to encourage patronage by offering special inducements to the public is commendable."

Two Passes Planned.

Two kinds of passes are to be offered by the bus company. For $1.25 an unlimited pass, entitling the holder to ride anywhere at any time, may be obtained. A second pass, to cost 75 cents, can be used all day Sunday, on Saturdays after 9 p. m. and between 9 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. the remainder of the week.

The commission received an application for the construction of a 301-foot gas holder on Riggs road northeast, near the Metropolitan branch of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad from the Washington Gas Light Co.

Would Serve Takoma.

The holder would serve Takoma Park and adjacent communities. Its estimated cost is $250,000. The tower would be second only to the Washington Monument in height in the city.

Because the data was insufficient, Earl V. Fisher, executive secretary, was asked to obtain a more complete report from the gas company before action is taken by the commission.

Soft Drink Firm Sues For Alleged Substitution

The Coca Cola Corporation, of Atlanta, Ga., yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to enjoin Peter A. Mantzoures, trading as "Peter's Sweets" and formerly trading as "Marathon Candy Co.," of 725 Ninth street northwest, from selling any drink other than Coca Cola when a customer calls for that concoction.

The corporation charged that Mantzoures has been substituting another preparation. The Atlanta company claims a good will of $100,000,000 and asserts it has spent $35,000,000 in advertising its product since 1886. The bill also seeks an accounting of all profits derived through the alleged substitution of other drinks for Coca Cola. Attorney Nelson J. Jewett represented the Coca Cola Company.

Carrier Pigeon Found Dead; Owner Is Sought
